May 17 1950 in the date this was sighted

Sighted at 10,000 to 15,000 ft., a brightly shining light. It moved in a direct arc from north to south. I live in Kenosha Wis. or on the 42° 31' lat. and 88° 15' long. It was sighted simultaneously by a friend and I. The weather - slightly cloudy (very slight) with a 3 to 4 mi per HOUR. wind coming from the north east. A correction. This light stopped on the southern horizon and then started again moving in a south easterly direction. There was no sound or any flashes or exhaust gases. Looking at it continuously for five to ten minutes, there wasn't any other form behind it. Time 8:30 P.M.
