THE SAUCER CREWS—MEN OR MONSTERS?

By ARTHUR LOUIS JOQUEL II

In the few years since the words "flying saucer" became a part of the world's language and consciousness, there have been a great many opinions and viewpoints expressed as to existence—and if their existence is considered to be proven, the nature and origin—of these mysterious aerial objects.

For hundreds, or even thousands, of years, observations and reports have been made regarding these objects. Accurate, well-trained, impartial witnesses have described them, using almost the same terms in all ages and times. There have been sufficient reports concerning these objects made by scientists, military personnel, and trained civilians, to have removed any doubts as to their existence.

No country on Earth could have built such vehicles hundreds of years ago. It would strain the abilities of any country today to develop such flying objects, and to construct, test, and launch them, and furthermore keep their place of origin a secret. It seems much more logical, under the circumstances, that the flying discs have their place of origin somewhere in space, and visit the Earth for some reason or purpose.

But if there would seem to be no longer any possible doubt that the flying discs are real, and of extra-terrestrial origin, there is still much disagreement among enthusiasts, investigators, and authors as to where their place of origin may be. However, if we turn to the report made by the United States Air Force as long ago as 1949, the opinion is implied there that these objects come from a planet belonging to another star.

The star designated by the Air Force is one which is identified by the name Wolf 359—a rather small, dim star, about eight light years from our Sun. It is logical that any planets which might circle around it would be extremely cold, and that life forms which evolved on it would have to be acclimated to frigid conditions. Their eyes might have to be much larger than our own, so as to be able to see in the feeble rays of such a star. Their stature would depend upon the size and gravitation which prevailed on their home planet.

Among the flying saucer narratives and chronicles have been a number by persons who claim to have seen the crews of the discs, talked with these beings and been given messages by them, or even to have been inside or ridden in the saucer-shaped vehicles. These accounts have stressed the point that these individuals have apparently been of almost exactly the same physical appearance as the people of Earth. This is a curious circumstance, and one which has been the target of much ridicule and criticism by sceptics. And the fact that most of these personal-contact reports are mutually contradictory has not aided in clarifying the problem.

From what we know about the origin and development of life on Earth, it is obvious that the development of man's physical form is a result of a series of circumstances which it would be almost impossible to duplicate on another planet. And actually, physical configuration is of trifling importance. The mind—that mind which has been evolving for long ages—would function equally well in a physical body of extremely different shape, proportions, and size. (Cont.)

THE SAUCER CREWS—MEN OR MONSTERS?

It would seem very probable that the physical type of man, as it occurs on the Earth, is unique in all the universe. Humanoid types—having a generalized resemblance to ourselves—are, of course, possible. However, to expect the beings from another planet to look like the people of Earth—particularly in such details as fair skin and blond hair—seems to show a vast amount of conceit on the part of those who promulgate this concept. Far more likely would be intelligent life forms shaped like amorphous masses of protoplasm, tentacled monsters, giant vegetables, scaly lizards, or perambulating stones.

BUT ONE THING IS CERTAIN and sure—beings capable of constructing such vehicles as the flying discs, and of piloting them across the wastes of space from one star to another, would have to be much further advanced in many ways and in many fields than ourselves. While we have not yet learned the mastery of atomic power, they have gone on to higher stages, and the use of forces of which we cannot as yet conceive.

And if this is true, then they must have advanced far beyond ourselves in their emotional and mental development as well. The reports and observations which have been made indicate strongly that the beings in the flying saucers have at least one active faculty which we as yet possess in only a rudimentary stage—and that is the ability on mental telepathy and thought projection. The actions of the flying discs would seem to demonstrate that it is a commonplace capacity among the entities that pilot and direct them.

This would account for the infrequent visitations that the discs make to certain parts of the world, particularly those which are densely populated, and where mental radiations of the baser type predominate. And it would solve the matter of the reports of terrestrial-type beings piloting such vehicles, and the apparent ability which they possess to speak the language of the person whom they are addressing.

Having a superior knowledge of the mental sciences, they would realize that beings in an immature stage of development, such as are predominant on Earth today, would have extreme difficulty in assimilating the fact that extra-terrestrials of high intelligence could exist which were totally dissimilar in physical form from themselves. And in order to avoid such shocks to the population of the Earth, it appears extremely likely that these reports have simply set down an apparent form which the alien being implanted in the individual's mind, so as not to cause too much of a disturbance, as might have been the case if they had revealed themselves in their own actual forms.

It has been suggested that the flying discs are keeping the Earth under observation, to watch our progress in science and sociology, and to see whether we can keep from destroying ourselves with the weapons which we have created in our fright at each other within the past few years. We may find that we have been living in a kindergarten, with the inhabitants of other worlds watching us with a tolerant amusement as we attempt to grow up, and possible helping and encouraging us at crucial times, such as the present.

Certainly the idea of an alien scrutiny, either by visitors from a single neighboring stellar world, or even by representatives of a galactic federation, should not seem either farfetched or frightening. But it is certain that we would never be admitted to such an organization in our present stage of development. If we have not solved the problem of prejudices against individuals of differing skin coloration, geographical distribution, or religious and political nonconformity on our own planet, we are clearly not prepared to meet beings from other worlds whose diversities might be far more extreme than we could ever at present imagine.

THE SAUCER CREWS—MEN OR MONSTERS?

WE WILL HAVE TO PROGRESS IMMENSELY in intellectual and spiritual growth to reach the level where we have released ourselves from chauvinism, from superstition, from dogmas and misconceptions, to reach the level of world citizens, much less cosmic citizens. But if we do attain that level, we may find that we already have friends in the universe—strange appearing, possibly, to our uncosmopolitan eyes, but a part of the immensely diverse plan of nature—the beings which have been visiting us for so long in the flying discs, awaiting the opportunity to welcome us into a cosmic confederation.

RESOLUTION

By FRANK SCULLY

WHEREAS at the First Convention of Flying Saucers International, held at the Hollywood Hotel from August 16th to 18th, 1953, inclusive, it was demonstrated that civilian interest in the solution of the mystery of flying saucers was never greater, and

WHEREAS speaker after speaker brought out information which no official body has brought to the attention of the public and

WHEREAS vast sums of taxpayer's money have been expended for several years under various departments of the U. S. Air Force with most unsatisfactory results and

WHEREAS this research is not a matter of stimulating interest or discouraging cranks but a matter of scientific concern

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that we recommend to the President and the Congress of the United States that a Civilian Project Saucer be set up similar to the CCC or the JAC and urge that the whole matter be taken out of military hands and transferred to a Civilian Project Saucer Authority which will be a bureau of dissemination not secrecy, and which will cooperate completely with all interested in the solution of this vast and mysterious subject of unknown or unidentified objects being propelled through our atmosphere.

SPACE VISITORS*

By JOHN OTTO

ON THIS CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECT, I am not going to summarize and dwell on past sightings. There have been many books written which do an excellent summarization as gleaned from tons of newspaper clippings, recordings of interviews, etc. I leave it up to each and every individual, the problem of going over the reports and in some cases, the following up of individuals who have had experiences so that they form their own conclusions on what the whole thing portends.

Due to the overwhelming nature of these visits and some of the ridiculous statements made by our authorities, a general attitude of "incredible and unbelievable" has obscured much of what could have been learned these past years since Kenneth Arnold first sighted what he said looked like disks or flying saucers.

Let there be no mistake about it, we are being visited by an extra-terrestrial source of intelligence far beyond the human concept and they, the visitors, are living amongst us now—unknown to the masses. We are having contacts made with various individuals throughout the world with no preference made as to race, religion, or creed. In these contacts, our visitors welcome every question we ask them. Some of the answers to these questions are startling to say the least. They state that they have no medical science problems on their planets. Illness as we experience it is native to man and his earthly way of life. They state that there are vehicles in use on these planets that need no roads as they glide over the surface—utilizing forces of propulsion as yet not understood by man. When asked about their life span, they state that it is well over a thousand years. (With smiles on their faces, they quickly state that they of course do not record time as man does.)

There are several people who have had the fortitude to write and tell of their experiences with our visitors. These people are under severe criticism and a target for all who desire similar experiences, or who cannot, through sheer stupidity in reasoning, believe that there could possibly be any other living thing resembling man and his supposed supreme intelligence anywhere in our galaxy, much less the omniverse.

These contactees write and tell of their experiences with a full knowledge that they are being scathingly reviewed and one must remember that for everyone that speaks of his contact and knowledge, there are a hundred that don't breathe a word.

The question is often asked: Why, if our visitors are here, do they not contact us openly and make themselves and their purposes known to all? They are doing just that, but one must put themselves in the position of ourselves: acquiring space travel and coming upon a lesser stage of development than our own on another planet. Could we land and walk up to the stone age type man and say "Hello"? In the very fear of the unknown, the primitive man would strike out in self defense before he understood our complex language for he would have only one knowledge—that of himself and nothing else would exist for him. Man of Earth is in that state today with reference to the degree of advancement of our present visitors.

Our visitors are not going to give us, on the veritable silver platter, the complete mechanical and scientific knowledge they hold. For one thing, we couldn't understand it; secondly, those of us that could would be in a position to carry our warlike problems to other habitations in the universe. (Cont.)

* Text of address to the Chicago Rocket Society on Dec. 4th, 1953.

SPACE VISITORS

THE NEXT IMPORTANT QUESTION, now that we know they are here, is where are they from? This must be answered through the reports of some of us who have had the pleasure and good fortune to have been contacted. In one case the visitors inferred that they had come from Venus. In another case the visitors claimed to have come from a planet named "Clarion"—which is not known to us by any other name and is construed to mean that we have not charted or recorded this body to date. Still others have stated that there are other planets involved. After much research it appears evident that man is being visited by not one but a great number of beings in varying forms of development from throughout the omniverse, and, contrary to former conjectures, the omniverse teems with life of every description and is not solely native to Earth.

The reasons for these visitors being here in such great numbers at this time has been answered somewhat by the reports that man's new discoveries and experiments can be detrimental to other inhabited planets. They are here to assist and help in such physical corrections that are necessary and to help man without involving themselves in man's present problems.

What can each one of us do to help? We can, every one of us, read evaluate everything written or spoken on the subject and related subjects. Evaluate and reason each in their respective way. In the objective research in this tremendous new happening on Earth, we have to construct new measuring devices and uncover new means of evaluation, for we are dealing with a new dimension and the three dimensional yardstick is not qualified to measure these completely new things that are occurring.

We must remember that Archimedes' mathematics and geometry were the parlor tricks of 15 centuries ago. Only a very few were capable of using these new techniques for solving practical problems of the day. We, of today, have parlor tricks that will be the sciences of tomorrow—and it is up to man to unlock these rusty hinges of knowledge and examine the practical application of such parlor tricks that are being investigated (and in some cases disbelieved) by such universities as Duke and Stanford, to name two.

Granted a tenure of this planet for our future, we are coming into a new age—an age full of the greatest surprises in the form of accomplishments: spiritually, physically, and scientifically. Dogmatic forms of reasoning are going to give way to an unfolding and opening up of man's mind that makes for the greatest adventure of all time!

In closing, I say that there will be no one man nor one work that will tell the complete story of our SPACE VISITORS. Each in his own way will have his own experiences that will unfold into general knowledge. We will all accept the present visitations as commonplace as time moves on. In general research, we must not consider the vehicles (flying saucers) or space ships as the important issue. We must try to understand and, in friendliness, meet with our visitors and try to understand their messages to us. We must suppress the desire to examine and learn their mechanical developments, such as the craft they use, and try to understand more of the visitors and all of the other interests will uncover gradually.

ON SEPTEMBER 21ST, 1952, a flying saucer was observed over several cities in Morocco, witnessed by thousands. From Tanger to Marrakech its estimated speed was 2,000 kilometers per hour. There were successive EXPLOSIONS at Tanger, Azemmur, Casablanca, Marrakech—but without effect upon the flight of the object. A Mr. Halker, Director of the Revue "Chance" (Paris) described the object: "A luminous globe that seemed to travel downward extremely slowly without changing neither its shape, size, nor brightness. After a few seconds, it began to vibrate violently, then shot through space and, in an instant, vanished silently."

CANADIAN PROJECT — From the Toronto DAILY STAR of November 11th, 1953, by Harold Greer: "Ottawa, Nov. 11—The world's first scientific flying saucer sighting station is being constructed by Canadian electronic engineers at Shirley's Bay, 10 miles northeast of here. The work of 'Project Magnet'—code name for the secret development of a flying disc powered by electromagnetic propulsion—the station is being equipped with every conceivable type of recording device in the hope of obtaining the scientific measurements necessary to prove or disprove the existence of flying saucers."

The article goes on to say: "'Project Magnet' researchers have found that flying saucer reports come in flurries about two years and two months apart. It may or may not be significant that they have occurred when the planet Mars has been in opposition to the earth and that reports are most frequent when Mars reaches its closest point to the earth."

Wilbur B. Smith, head of the project, told the (Canadian) CP wire service: Scientists do not believe there is any real proof that flying saucers exist or are interplanetary. However, "there is a high degree of probability that they do exist and are interplanetary."

Mr. Smith told the Toronto DAILY STAR that there is a 90 to 95 per cent probability that the flying saucers do exist: 60% probability that they are "alien vehicles," 10% probability that they originate here on Earth, and a 30% probability that they are inconceivable to man—such as some form of time travel involving a form of life other than protoplasm.

"Since the saucer believers are in a minority in official circles, the STAR goes on to say, "it is not likely that any official information on sighting reports will be publicized, unless and until science is able to produce a conventional explanation which covers almost all cases. It is generally agreed that the average layman would conclude from the more dramatic sighting reports that flying saucers do indeed exist."

ALBERT K. BENDER, PRESIDENT of the International Flying Saucer Bureau of Bridgeport, Conn., in the last issue of their publication, "Space Review" (publication has been discontinued), gave this "STATEMENT OF IMPORTANCE" — "The mystery of the flying saucers is no longer a mystery. The source is already known, but any information about this is being withheld by orders from a higher source. We would like to print the full story in Space Review, but because of the nature of the information we are sorry that we have been advised in the negative."

Mr. Bender told the Bridgeport SUNDAY HERALD: "Three men wearing dark suits" came to his home, flashed credentials showing them to be representatives of the "higher authority," and asked him many questions about the IFSE. Before they left, he said they told him "not roughly, but sternly and emphatically" to stop publishing flying saucer information. After the visit of the three men, Bender is frank to admit, "I was scared to death and actually couldn't eat for a couple of days."

When we queried the Air Force, we received the following reply from 1st Lt. R. C. White (on the Department of Defense letterhead): "With respect to your question as to whether the Air Force has any adverse feelings towards civilian 'saucer' research groups, we most certainly do not. On the contrary, we welcome any authentic and concrete evidence which they may be able to supply us."

SPEAKING OF THE AIR FORCE, their latest report on flying saucers tells us, in part:

"THE MAJORITY OF THE SIGHTINGS could be accounted for as misinterpretations of conventional objects, such as balloons and aircraft. Others could be explained as meteorological phenomena or light reflections from crystalized particles in the upper atmosphere. Some were determined to be hoaxes. However, there still remained a few unexplained sightings.

"The Air Force has stated in the past, and reaffirms at the present time, that unexplained aerial phenomena are not a secret weapon, missile, or aircraft developed by the United States. None of the three military departments nor any other agency in the Government is conducting experiments, classified or otherwise, with flying objects which could be a basis for the reported phenomena.

"By the same token, no authentic physical evidence has been received establishing the existence of space ships from other planets."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The last paragraph is especially interesting. Note the word "physical" when they say: "no authentic physical evidence." Also note the plurals in: "space ships from other planets.")

SILAS M. NEWTON and Leo A. GeBauer were found guilty on all counts of a $250,000 "doodlebug" swindle against Herman A. Flader of Denver on December 29, 1953, according to the Denver POST, and "faced prison terms of up to 30 years after they were found guilty of confidence game and conspiracy to commit confidence game." The jury required only one ballot on each count. Newton had no comment, but GeBauer told reporters: "I'll win this thing if it costs me a half million dollars." Edward Lehman, Deputy District Attorney, told us that "Flying Saucers played a minor role in testimony in the case." Judge Frank E. Hickey gave the pair 30 days to petition the court for a new trial before sentence is imposed.

MISCELLANEOUS — John Otto of Chicago is our newly appointed Director of Investigation . . . George Adamski has completed his second book on flying saucers . . . T. Werner Laurie Ltd of London report that "Flying Saucers Have Landed" by Leslie and Adamski sold about 23,000 copies in England and the American edition is hot on their heels as of as of early December . . . Reports are coming in of flying saucers seen over Bermuda at the time of the "Big Three Conference" early last December . . . Spheres, Inc. is a California corporation composed of a number of scientists, engineers, and technicians with a prime objective of developing an experimental electro-magnetic aircraft, reports William D. Roch, Public Relations Director . . . The Hamilton Watch Co. has developed a clock that tells simultaneously the time, month, and year on both Earth and Mars. The clock has four dials and is electrically operated . . . We request with deepest concern that anyone who has seen a flying saucer or who has any first hand information on the subject to write: Project "A," Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio. They are making a full investigation of the subject and urgently need the information so that they may issue a complete report of their study at the earliest date. Thank you . . . The British SUNDAY DISPATCH of September 13th, 1953, reports that a flying saucer "was seen over Tangmere aerodrome, just as (Neville) Duke was about to take off for his record-breaking flight. And, say eye witnesses, it went faster than Duke, "by a long chalk" . . . At Dieppe, France on Jan. 7, '54, according to Reuters News Service, a mysterious explosion rocked the area, breaking windows, blasting open doors, and waking inhabitants. Several minutes preceding the explosion, an unusual flash was observed in the sky up to 50 miles distant. "A railwayman at Orchies, near the Belgian border," the article says, "said he saw a fiery disc in the sky moving a great speed at the time of the Dieppe explosion."
