Hello to all. You may notice in this months issue a lack of paranormal articles. We wanted the August issue to have a different range of articles in it including a special on Solar Flare activity as its recently been in the news and that a piece of electronic equipment of mine was recently frazzled by solar activity a number of weeks back.

We are as busy as usual with investigations and TV work and hope to bring some spooky paranormal articles back next month. Hope you enjoy this issue... Steve Mera.

SUB-EDITORIAL

So the summer is perking up, lots of news items are popping up and many discussions throughout the paranormal and UFological world. Sadly I heard that British UFO investigator Phillip Mantle has unfortunately left UFO Matrix magazine, I hope things are OK with Phil, Good luck to Malcolm Robinson who will be continuing the magazines publication.

For me personally, its been silly season, Barmpot groups, Truthers and Sceptics are all at it, obviously they're boredom or lack of anything real to do, keeps them active in their armchairs. Me however, wished I had their time, but working nights and a family put paid to that. Don't forget, if you'd like to email us a tale, story, article or any feedback, we'd be glad to include it in Phenomena Magazine. Be it 200 words, 1000 or 2000.

Manchester is no stranger to UFO incidents. Over the years there have been many sightings of strange crafts and unusual lights in the sky. ## A MASS UFO SIGHTING IN MANCHESTER, UK.

In February of 1996 I was traveling back from a friends house in Old Trafford, Manchester when I saw something strange in the sky. Some unusual lights shot backwards and forwards before disappearing. I watched the lights for a minutes or so before they simply vanished, as if they had simply turned off like a light bulb. On arriving home I informed my partner and she told me that the neighbour next door had called round to tell her that Talk Radio were talking live to four students near Old Trafford Cricket ground who had apparently seen an unusual object in the sky. By the time I had turned the radio on and tuned into the right station I had missed the on air interviews. So, I went off to bed with the thought of contacting Manchester International Airport in the morning.

The following day I telephoned M.I.A. to see if I could obtain any information in regards last nights sightings. Eventually I got put through to an Air Traffic Control officer who told me that the airport was in fact closed that evening due to runway maintenance and aircraft were diverted to East Midlands. I was also told that their radar would not have been pointing towards South Manchester so picking anything up would of been an impossibility.

Finally the officer informed me that there had been no reported sightings to them. I thanked him for his assistance and put the phone down. I sat for a while thinking about what he had told me. Something just didn't sit well with me. I then decided to make an official reported sighting to them... (test there procedure, you could say). I got back in touch and this time talked with someone else. As soon as I had mentioned I wanted to report an unusual object in the sky over Old Trafford last night, the officer asked if he could go through some questions with me. I of course agreed. The officer sounded like he was reading questions from a Ministry of Defence sighting report form. He asked me if there was an unusual stillness in the air during my sighting and if I had noticed any unusual feelings. Odd questions, yet I was aware of these simply because its the exact questions on our own UFO sighting report forms at MAPIT. After he finished questioning me I asked him if there had been other reported sightings. He replied 'Yes, there had been quite a number of them last night and we were just about to contact R.A.F West Drayton'.

Interesting... The first officer I had talked to just a few minutes ago had told me that there had been no reported sightings, yet this officer told me the opposite. What was going on...? I decided to contact several newspapers in hope of obtaining any details from witnesses that may have reported their sightings to them. One such newspaper, 'The Area News, situated in Old Trafford, Manchester were very helpful. I talked with the receptionist who informed me that some of her staff had seen the unusual lights themselves. A reporter from the Metro News, a spill-over of the Manchester Evening News telephoned me after leaving a message with them. He interviewed me for an article over the phone and afterwards he gave me the telephone number of a gentleman called Mike who was apparently one of the students that had been on the Talk Radio show and that he was a little reluctant to take with members of the media.

I contacted Mike and told him that I was investigating the reported sightings in Old Trafford. At first he was alarmed that someone had obtained his telephone number. I stressed to him the importance of information. Mike was most upset that the radio station had given out his telephone number. I eventually convinced Mike to tell me what he had seen. I was in for a shock!

It turned out the Mike and the other three students were not students at all, but on duty police officers. I couldn't believe my luck. The four police officers were on duty that night and had seen a strange object darting about the sky. Mike described the object as triangular shaped with a small square shape on the front of it. As they watched they could see that there was some type of metal structure underneath. The officers who worked at Talbot Road Police Station in Old Trafford were directly opposite Lancashire County cricket ground where the object was seen in the sky.

Mike seemed very uneasy and told me that he had received a couple of telephone calls from people who sounded official asking him questions. They called themselves Mr. Salt and Mr. Green. As I carried on with my questions, Mike suddenly said that he did not want to say anything more until he had checked me out. So... I gave Mike my name, address and contact telephone number and asked him to get back in touch with me when he was satisfied as to who I was. Mike agreed...

I wrote a couple of letters to Manchester International Airport in regards to the sightings in the Old Trafford area. I did expect to get a reply, However on the morning of February 15th 1996 the telephone rang. I picked it up and there was a man on the other end of the phone claiming to be one of the Air Traffic Control officers at M.I.A. He asked for me by name and then went on to say, 'You will not get any further information and I advice you to leave this alone'. Then the phone went dead. I couldn't believe what I was hearing... It was just like a scene out of an X-Files episode. What the hell was going on...? Whoever it was, he knew I had wrote to the M.I.A. Was this a legitimate warning???

Of course, like most investigators I was not going to allow this to put me off. I fact, his call did the opposite and fueled the fire. Again I got back in touch with the newspapers asking witnesses to come forward. I also rang Talk Radio and the man I talked to was completely aware as to what I was talking about but did not want to assist. He told me that they had received a number of phone calls and that they should not pursue the story. Wow! this 'was' turning into a conspiracy. I had also contacted R.A.F. West Drayton myself, but they would not divulge in any information, neither would the Ministry of Defence after contacting the Staff 2a - (the MOD UFO Reporting Desk). I eventually contacted West Midlands airport and asked them if they were

There have been a few fakes around...

The above video which is circulating the internet was taken in Manchester claiming to depict a triangular UFO in the sky. After conducted several hours of research it was discovered that this particular video allegedly taken on November 6th 2010 was in fact a hoax. Another well known
UFO incident over Manchester.

In January of 1995, MAPIT became quickly aware of an incident that took place near Manchester Airport. A 737 which was on approach to Manchester International when Captain Wills and first officer Mark Stewart witnessed an unusual aircraft rush past them...

The day was dark, but visibility was 10 kilometers, when the Boeing began to approach the airport at about 9 miles southeast flying at 4,000 feet altitude. The pilot and his first officer saw the object almost simultaneously. It was lighted, and on their right hand side. They could clearly see the UFO through the windscreen and side window as it flew directly toward them. The first officer instinctively ducked: the object was so close to hitting the Boeing 737. Although the object was only visible for a few seconds, the first officer was certain he saw a dark object, wedge-shaped, with a stripe down its side.

The object never changed or attempted to change its course. Naturally, the Boeing was being monitored by airport radar operators, and the captain of the aircraft immediately reported the near collision to the tower. The operator responded by telling the pilot that they had nothing unusual on their radar. The pilot and first officer both claimed that what they saw was not a bird, balloon, or kite, but a solid object.

In the aftermath of the event, the pilot and his first officer compared notes on what they had seen. The captain held no doubts that he had seen a solid object, and thought he had seen multiple lights. The captain and the first officer both drew what they had seen, and the drawings depicted very similar objects.

A very intense investigation was carried out by the Civil Aviation Authority. This was done for several reasons: One was to ascertain that no aircraft was in the area, and missed by the radar equipment. Also, authorities were anxious to determine just what the Boeing 737 had encountered. The investigation into this question provided no results, and the UFO remains unidentified to date...

aware of any unusual sightings in the Manchester area and I was instructed to contact a PR Office in London... How odd! The PR Office was not helpful either as they said no reported incidents had been logged. Was I ever going to get to the bottom of this?

On February 23rd 1996 I received a telephone call from Mike. I was surprised, I didn't think I was going to hear from him again. Mike had apparently checked up on who I was and had talked with his fellow police officers and convinced them to meet up with me whilst they were off duty. An arrangement was agreed upon. We were to meet up at a known cafe in the Manchester area in a few days time. Mike finished by asking me if I had any contacts in the Police Head Office. I replied 'No, why'? Mike just said 'Never mind, I'll see you soon'.

I still think Mike was a little suspicious, but why was he? The following day I received a phone call from Mike again. This time he sounded most upset. He told me that two men had been to visit him and that he will not be meeting up with me and no longer wanted to talk about it. I tried to calm him down and said 'OK Mike, I understand, I don't want you getting in trouble, I agree its probably best for me not to meet up with you, but can I conduct a short interview with you over the phone just to get the details correct in our report, and then you can forget about the whole thing'? Mike reluctantly agreed and I conducted a short interview on the phone. I thanked Mike and told him not to worry.

As the days past I managed to locate several witnesses. I visited each of them and got their information down on paper. I also, started to hear rumours of further UFO sightings on that night in and around the Morcambe area. I was going to have to check this out. After several weeks of investigating and travelling around the country I was able to compile a lengthy report...

It all started on February 8th 1996, as I was driving home I spotted something odd in the sky. At that very time PC Gorden and 3 other police officers were on duty at the Trafford Police Station on Talbot Road, Old Trafford, Manchester. They looked out of a window and noticed a strange object darting about the sky before slowing and hovering over Lancashire County Cricket ground. They were so intrigued as to what they had seen, they decided to tune their radio in to different radio stations in hope of hearing something about the UFO.

They eventually came upon Talk Radio where someone had just rang in with a UFO sighting. Talk Radio gave out their number and urged people to ring in if they had also seen a strange object in the sky over Manchester. Mike, caught up in the moment telephoned the radio station and he was interviewed live on air.

Mike described the object as being triangular with girder type structure on its underside. There were several lights on it, three large red apex lights and four smaller white lights grouped together in the middle of the object. According to the officers, the object was massive, and made no sound whatsoever. After a short time the object stopped and hovered over the cricket ground then suddenly accelerated to an amazing speed and performed aerobatics the Red Arrows would have been proud of. They watched the object for several minutes before it sped off in a southerly direction.

It was not long afterwards I contact Mike and eventually conducted a brief interview over the phone. Mike told me that a couple of official sounding men had been in contact with him and were asking him questions, and that the men introduced themselves as Mr. Salt and Mr. Green. A second conversation with Mike took place about a week later and he had agreed to meet up with me along with the other police officers, however the following day Mike contacted me again to cancel our arrangement. On that afternoon Mike had been visited by two men claiming to be Ministry of Defence officials. Mike asked them for I.D. and they clearly showed him their identification badges. The two men were smartly dressed in dark suits and introduced themselves as Mr. Salt and Mr. Green. (The same two men that had rang him earlier last week). Mike asked them in and they went through to the lounge and sat down. They told him that he should not of contacted the radio station. That he should have reported it to his superior officer and that there was a strict protocol in regards UFO sightings. He also should have never talked with a UFO investigator (myself). They went on to say that the unusual object was a top secret aircraft and the subject was considered extremely sensitive. They told him that he could lose his job if he didn't co-operate and that he had clearly broken protocols in regards how the incident was handled.

Even though Mike was unaware of such a protocol, he gave no argument. At that, the two men stood up and said they would be in touch with him soon and not to say anything to anyone about what he and the other police officers had seen. As soon as they left, Mike rushed to the phone and telephoned the other officers. He was surprised to find that the two MOD officials had already visited them earlier that afternoon. They all agreed that it was best not to talk about what they had seen. Mike contacted me and understandably cancelled our meeting.

A few days later I talked with a friend who was a retired police officer and he informed me that he was aware of such a protocol for UFO reporting within the police force. There was a form that asked certain questions and then it was sent to the Ministry of Defence. Was this form the illusive MOD UFO Sighting Form...? I respected Mike's wishes and never contacted him again. But... that was not the end of the investigation. Further reports had come to light...

Michelle Baker and Gary Lorton were travelling back to Michelle's mothers in Salford, Manchester on February 8th. As they drove down Barton Dock Road Gary looked up and saw a huge triangular object slowly cruising across the sky. They quickly turned the car around and watched as the craft met up with a smaller one and stopped over an industrial facility known as Cortholes Chemicals. They recalled a woman walking her dog who also stood watching the objects. They described them as massive mechanical type structures that hung in the sky without making a sound. They watched them for a few minutes before they slowly moved off towards the Carrington area.

On learning of this I immediately visited Corthole Chemicals and talked with security officers. They grinned and said 'Oh yeh, our UFO'... On February 8th security officers Graham Mitchell and Roy Burgess were in their guard house when Tom, a delivery driver rushed over to them pointing up to the sky. Roy and Graham stepped out and looked up.

They couldn't believe their eyes. above them around 200 feet were two strange looking objects. There was a large one... it was huge, and a smaller one next to it. Both were triangular in shape with red and white lights on them. Roy rushed back to the guard house and telephoned Chris Keaton, the on duty night manager who also came out and watched the objects before they silently moved off. I was able to interview all who had seen the objects and Chris was kind enough to show me where they were in the sky. As he pointed up I noticed several security camera's around the facility, but as Chris said, 'The damn things are all high up and pointing down at the guard house, security gates, the truck parking area and entrance doors. Not one of them would have been pointing up at the sky, otherwise, we would have had them on film'.

Shame... All in all, two security officers, four truck drivers, the night manager and around 16 other members of staff watched the two strange objects that night hang over their facility before moving off towards Carrington.

Peter Wilson, a headmaster for a local Manchester school was out walking his dog with a friend on the evening of February 8th. He was walking along a dirt path by the side of the River Mersey in Broadheath, Altrincham when his friend shrieked. Directly above them was a huge triangular shaped craft, moving silently. They described the object as having three red apex lights and a large red light in the center of the craft, which seemed to be detached from the object somehow.

Peter was rather alarmed and reported the sighting to the local police station as soon as he reached home. WPC Allen took the call at Altrincham Police Station and told Peter that she would inform a couple of police officers which were in the area. The officers apparently attended the location but the object had mysteriously vanished.

Of all witnesses I feel are credible, are sweet little old ladies. Mrs. Spittle, an elderly woman from Stretford, Manchester had been looking out of her flat window situated on Urmston Road on the evening of February 8th.

She had been sat watching television when she heard a bit of a commotion outside. She got up and looked out of her window. There were a few young teenagers playing about outside. She thought nothing more of it and went to sit back down. However as she did, something up in the sky caught her eye... She was amazed to see a huge triangular craft flying at low level and moving slowly. She described the object having three bright lights on it and a large red light in the center. Mrs. Spittle lived on the third floor of a block of flats and had an excellent view of the object. She watched as the object moved slowly, then stop then dart backwards and forwards a few times and then stop again.

Mr. Spittle watch the object for a couple of minutes before fetching a neighbour. Mr. Tompson from next door came into the flat and watched the object before it shot off towards Manchester Town Center. Both said the craft was huge, made no sound and moved as if it wasn't real... It would seem that a number of witnesses claimed to have seen the object/objects move off towards the Carrington area.

Mrs. Spittle points to where she saw the object in the sky.

Even though Carrington is no stranger to UFO sightings I could not find any evidence to the object/objects being seen there. Of course, the unusual thing about UFO sightings are, why only several people seem to see them sometimes, when in fact thousands should have done?

Adam Spencer a CID Police Officer and his father Ray, a retired police officer were out in Stretford that night. Adam had been watching an unusual light in the sky for at least 20 minutes whilst eating his tea at a local cafe. When he left he was surprised to see the light hovering in the distance over Manchester. Adam had seen many police helicopters and refuses to believe it was anything but unusual. He described the object as a dark triangular craft, illuminated with bright powerful white lights. Adam rushed to his car and grabbed his instamatic camera but on pressing it he realised that the batteries had gone flat. In his disappointment Adam wrote down the details of his sighting and both Adam and Ray later stated that they had never seen anything like it before. Ray who was a little bit of a sceptic said 'It was truly unusual'.

It was now April 1996 and rumours were circulating amongst investigators that R.A.F. West Drayton were alerted to the UFOs and had possibly scrambled some jets to intercept the mystery objects. By May of 1996 the Ministry of Defence had confirmed they did in fact receive several reports of UFO sightings throughout the area of Manchester and Lancashire. Other UFO groups across the North West were also a buzz with UFO reports of strange triangular crafts.

In September of 1996 I visited Morcambe to conduct a lecture on UFOs and was surprised to learn they too had also had their fair share of triangular UFO sightings...

To Conclude...

It would seem that whatever visited Manchester back on February 8th 1996, had also dropped into Lancashire before disappearing.

There were hundreds of sightings throughout the North West...

Whatever the mystery objects were, the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) said they were not acknowledged on their radar. Manchester International Airport said they had not received any reports of UFO sightings and later seemed to change their story. They also said that the airport was shut that night in question when in fact, after talking with an aircraft enthusiast, I discovered that aircraft had been seen going in and out of the airport as normal that night. After contacting the MOD again, they informed me that they had never heard of a Mr. Salt nor Mr. Green and that members of their staff would not visit UFO witnesses... Period!

They did however confirm that they had received a number of reported sightings throughout the North West. To date, there may be over 400 separate reported incidents. Incidents that still remain unexplained...

33 Hours Which Changed The World... "Allegedly!"

"If A Problem Cannot Be Solved, Enlarge It..." Dwight D Eisenhower.

It is often said that Hollywood big budget sci-fi movies are being used to desensitise us mere mortals to the shock that could be caused by the realisation that we are not alone in the universe. If the conspiracy theorists are correct. Films such as E.T, Independence Day, etc, are just part of a much bigger program which is indoctrinating us into accepting the reality of extraterrestrial visitation in preparation for full disclosure. In the history of science fiction movies no film has created more of a sensation than Steven Spielberg's award winning 1977 blockbuster, Close Encounters Of The Third Kind, which tells of mankind's first contact with advanced aliens in the shadow of Devils Tower in Wyoming.

So utterly convincing and compelling was Spielberg's master piece that it wasn't long before some theorised that he had been party to inside information on the subject of alien contact supplied to him by the elite he rubbed shoulders with in the Democratic Party in Washington. It is widely known that Spielberg is a major campaign contributor to the political party and has spoken in depth about UFOs and aliens with three presidents, namely Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton- all of which had their own personal UFO sightings... It was while at a private screening of E.T in the White House in 1982 that Ronald Reagan whispered in Spielberg's ear, "You know, there aren't 6 people in this room who know how true this really is."

Suspicious also surround a guest appearance in the movie by the Grande Fromage of modern ufology, J Allen Hynek, who quietly smokes his pipe and watches the neon light clad alien craft landing before initial contact is made with grey alien beings. It is fitting that Hynek makes an appearance in the movie as it is he who supplied the classification of UFO sightings which gave the film its title. In his early career Hynek, an astrophysicist, was a scientific adviser to the much maligned US Air Forces investigations into unidentified flying objects- Project Sign (1947-1949), Project Grudge (1949-1952) and the often spiteful and pernicious Project Blue Book (1952- 1961). Although initially a sceptic it was while interviewing witnesses and investigating UFO cases that he had a change of heart and began to take the prospect of genuine unknowns seriously, and as a result went on to found the much acclaimed Centre For UFO Studies (CUFOS).

Another widely believed conspiracy surrounding Close Encounters which simply will not go away is that the movie is based on a real event that took place decades ago in New Mexico in 1955.

Years before the now infamous Roswell saucer crash another alleged incident took place fifteen miles outside Cape Girardeau, Missouri, in Spring 1941, when a downed flying saucer and its occupants were recovered. This prompted the first meetings between an alien race, the greys, who claimed to come from Zeta Reticuli, a binary star system some 39 light years away, and humans. Recently some very dubious videos have begun to appear on Youtube which purports to show this first meeting with an alien that has come to be known as Skinny Bob. However, it is a curious and often confusing incident which took place in 1955 at Holloman AFB, home of the 49th Tactical Wing, situated in the high desert of New Mexico, which really captures the imagination as if it was ever proven the implications for humanity would be truly astounding...

SKINNY BOB

In February 1954, President Eisenhower had sneaked away from his duties as Commander In Chief to enjoy a weekend of golf at the Smoke Tree Ranch resort in Palm Springs. During his stay Ike seemingly vanished causing rumours to spread through the following journalists that he had suddenly been taken ill and had died. A cover story was put in place detailing how one of his dental caps had come loose prompting an unscheduled visit to his dentist. In fact, if the story is to be believed and lets face it, it is a fantastic one, he had slipped away to meet with small grey aliens who heralded from Zeta Reticuli who called themselves the Etherians, at MUROC, later known as Edwards AFB.

It was at this meeting that the President presumably made some extremely poor decisions. Perhaps his judgement was fatally flawed when faced with their advanced technology? For whatever reason, President Eisenhower signed the Treaty Of Greeda, which would see the Etherians given carte blanche to harvest human DNA in what has now become known as alien abductions, in exchange for advanced alien technology.

It was an agreement which he would come to regret as within months it became crystal clear that they had broken the treaty and were abducting humans on a global scale. It was to be almost exactly a year later that another meeting was to take place with ETs, this time claiming to come from Betelgeuse, Alpha Orionis, a red super giant which is the eight brightest star in the night sky. On the 9th February 1955, President Eisenhower announced that he was going quail hunting with his Secretary Of The Treasury, George Humphrey, and Clifford Roberts, and Above: An alleged artist impression of a flying disc that landed at Holloman AFB.

You may have heard of the alleged Holloman AFB UFO landing which occurred in 1954 or 1964 or (well, there have been a couple of dates when this is claimed to have happened). What seems to have been overlooked with this particular event is the appearance of the entities that reportedly disembarked from the craft - the so-called 'Large-Nosed' Aliens or 'Large-Nosed' Grays.

According to the descriptions (and artist's impressions), these entities don't look anything like 'Grays' at all.

Only a handful of UFO researchers over the years have mentioned these 'Large-Nosed' Aliens. Some speculated they come from Betelgeuse in the constellation of Orion. Some speculate that a treaty was signed with these visitors and that three (or more) humans left the earth with them. Some also speculate that the more commonly known Grays are manufactured by and are subservient to another alien species - possibly these 'Large-Nosed' Aliens.

Robert Emenegger appeared with Paul Shartle on the 'UFO Cover-Up Live' program back in 1988. Paul Shartle, who was the audio-visual director of Norton Air Force claimed that he actually saw the authentic Holloman footage...

"I saw footage of three disc-shaped crafts. One of the craft landed and two of them went away. It appeared to be in trouble because it oscillated all the way down to the ground. However, it did land on three pods. A sliding door opened, a ramp was extended, and out came three aliens. They were human size. They had odd gray complexions and a pronounced nose. They wore tight-fitting jump suits, thin headdresses that appeared to be communications devices, and in their hands they held a translator. I was told. The Holloman base commander and other Air Force officers went out to meet them."

Further descriptions given by Paul Shartle of the Holloman aliens: "big-nosed" tall humanoids with gray complexions and eyes with vertical slits, similar to cat eyes. They had thin, slit-like mouths and no chins. The Holloman AFB UFO landing event was featured in Robert Emenegger's/Alan Sandler's 1974 documentary 'UFO's: Past, Present and Future', and in an updated 1979 version 'UFOs: It Has Begun'. These documentaries were both narrated by Rod Serling. Towards the end of the documentary, a 'what if' scenario was presented to the viewer about a landing that could happen in the future, or perhaps already could have happened...

"Let us look at an incident that might happen in the future, or perhaps could have happened already. The premise is that contact is made by extraterrestrial beings with representatives of the United States Air Force at Holloman Air Force Base in the deserts of New Mexico."

Rod Serling goes on to narrate the Holloman landing event which consisted of illustrations of the landing and the aliens meeting Air Force officials. These illustrations were intercut with actual footage from the base. At one point in the re-enactment there is footage of a strange white-yellowish object descending towards the base, with the mountains in the background (some people have suggested it is part of the authentic UFO landing tape that slipped though).

A Webpage (now offline?) claimed the above still, was an actual frame of the Holloman film: This looks to be a video segment taken from a UFO documentary on The Learning Channel. As to what really went on at Holloman AFB, if anything remains a mystery which many a ufologist will continue to discuss... would be staying at Humphreys cottage in Georgia. At 4.30pm Air Force One, a Columbine III airplane carrying the President, his wife, her mother, Clifford Roberts, George Humphrey and his wife Pamela, plus twenty aides and security staff, took off closely followed by a second plane full of press officers and journalists. The quail hunt was brought to an abrupt end when the heavens opened and it began to pour down so the President retreated to the warmth and safety of Humphreys cottage. His press secretary, James Hagerly, reported to the gathered mass of journalists that Ike had come down with a bad case of the sniffles and was sheltering at the cottage playing bridge. He was greeted with a loud cheer and a round of applause when he revealed he had organised an all expenses paid party for them at the Glen Arden Country Club. While the press partied the night away President Eisenhower crept away unseen and flew over night to Holloman AFB where he had a pre arranged meeting to keep with alien beings. For the next 33 hours the whereabouts of President Eisenhower would remain a mystery that exists to this very day.

Although Ike and his entourage were aware of this extraordinary meeting the base commander, Colonel Sharp, seems to have been kept in the dark as the arrival of the ETs at his base appears to have totally caught him off guard.

The early morning of Friday 11th February was warm and the skies clear. At 5.32am the bases Dopplar radar picked up three unidentified contacts entering their controlled airspace and tried repeatedly to contact and warn them of the dangers without receiving a response. After receiving nothing but static hiss three fighter planes were ordered to intercept the unknowns while Colonel Sharp contacted Edwards AFB and Wright Patterson to ask whether they were testing any top secret military aircraft in their vicinity. When the answer came back that they had nothing in the air at that moment he brought the base to a state of red alert. The radar tracked three objects in all, two which flew close together while a third followed on some five minutes behind them. As luck would have it a helicopter that was on a routine photographic mission was approaching Holloman and took film of the objects as they passed them by. They were described as being 25 to 30 feet across, were a bright polished silver in colour, saucer shaped and wobbled as they flew. Another camera crew on the ground ran off 600 feet of film as one of the objects descended in front of the San Andreas mountains and quickly approached the base. Segments of this film were apparently supplied to author and film maker, Robert Emenegger for inclusion in his military sanctioned UFO documentary- UFOs, Past, Present And Future. Finally the saucer hovered ten feet above the ground, wobbled as three tripod legs descended before it landed with a hiss. Even as it was settling on the ground Colonel Sharp and two un-named base scientists were hastily crossing the tarmac towards the landed craft.

As they neared a door opened in the side of the UFO before three beings descended steps and approached the base commander and his two aides. The alien beings were described as being small in stature, light blue in colour, had a prominent pointed nose and wore a rope like headband. They also spoke perfect English! After a brief introduction they followed Colonel Sharp into an internal office where the aliens presumably told him of their arranged meeting with the president. Their message was clear- under no conditions should we trust the greys from Zeta Reticuli, but of course President Eisenhower, who was at that very moment racing towards the base, had already made a deal with them. Their warning was near on exactly a year late!

What happens in the following hours is unclear but it seems that the three alien beings returned to their craft, took off and retreated to a safe distance to await the arrival of President Eisenhower. At 9.00am Air Force One touched down at Holloman and the pilot, Major Bill Draper, taxied the plane 75 yards back down the runway so it was as far away from the array of base buildings and hangars as was possible. To ensure no aircraft approached the strip the runway was declared constantly active.

Although the Columbine III was way off in the distance many civilians and security staff watched what was going on through binoculars including the base commander and radar operator who watched the proceedings from the comfort of the control tower. No sooner had the aircrafts engines fell silent than two UFOs quickly approached, one of which stayed airborne surveying the scene while the other landed some 200 feet in front of the Presidents plane. A door on the side of the saucer opened and President Eisenhower hastily left his plane and rushed across to the craft before entering without hesitating. It seems clear that Ike trusted these aliens, which he may have already previously met, as he ventured into the saucer alone without his security. For forty minutes the President and the aliens conversed about the dangers of nuclear weapons and stressed how the Zeta Reticuli grey aliens should not be trusted. The aliens offered to share their technology as long as he promoted peace and decommissioned his nuclear missiles, but this was rejected as the cold war was getting colder with each passing day. America could not leave itself unprotected.

After the meeting the aliens unceremoniously left as quickly as they had appeared and Air Force One was dragged into a hangar where the President and Colonel Sharp gave a brief talk to 225 air force personnel at a connecting supply hangar concerning security. In essence they were warned not to say anything or speak out about the events of that day. At 4.45pm Air Force One took off from Holloman and circled above a residential area before heading back to Georgia where he landed at Andrews AFB at 1.00am the next morning, Saturday 12th February.

It is said that between 1953 and 1955 Dwight D. Eisenhower met with three different races of aliens and that he saw his first UFO while aboard a ship off the British coast in 1952. In fact, Eisenhower's name has become synonymous with the UFO subject! It is also a fact that at this time UFO and alien fever became viral and caught the imagination of the general public. Hardly a week went by without the world wide media sensationally reporting a sighting causing mass hysteria in its wake. The age of the anal probe had well and truly arrived! The numbers of abductees and animal mutilations began to soar while national security seemingly clamped down on UFO sightings, sometimes going to ludicrous lengths to ridicule witnesses and dismiss their stories of meeting beings from beyond the stars.

Nearly sixty years later as the trendy ufologists meekly call on governments around the globe to disclose what they know about the subject of UFOs, the impenetrable cloak of secrecy shows no signs of lifting. One wonders whether the cover up is to hide alien reality or to continue to conceal the fact that the 34th President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, a hero to all Americans and the commanding "5 star" General in the European Theatre Of Operations during WW2- an honourable man known for his decisive actions, is responsible for selling out the human race and causing misery and mental torment to those who are openly ridiculed for claiming to have been snatched from the warmth of reality by alien beings.?

SETI VS. UFOS

The phrase 'Search for ExtraTerrestrial Intelligence' (SETI) says nothing at all about how to search. Traditionally, the usual ways and means have centred on using the radio part of the electromagnetic spectrum, and the engineering techniques and technology tried and true to radio astronomy to seek out new or established radio communicating civilizations.

That is, we position radio telescopes to either target various specific points in the sky at stellar objects that theory suggest E.T. might be located around and might be deliberately broadcasting from with a view towards interstellar communication, or just sweeping the sky willy-nilly in hopes of detecting general radio leaking from civilizations broadcasting, perhaps just for their own use (radio, TV, radar) somewhere out there.

SETI is based mainly on a theoretical premise that technologically advanced civilizations - advanced enough to have radio communications - exist and can have said technology detectable by us at a distance.

SETI has also searched the optical and infrared parts of the electromagnetic spectrum for signs of advanced extraterrestrial technology, as well as trying several other approaches as well, like looking for possible alien artefacts at various strategic locations in outer space - like the asteroid belt or the Earth-Moon Lagrangian points where objects so positioned tend to have long duration stability.

John Prytz takes a closer look...

The Wow! Signal.

The Wow! signal was a strong narrowband radio signal detected by Dr. Jerry R. Ehman on August 15, 1977, while working on a SETI project at the Big Ear radio telescope of The Ohio State University. The signal bore expected hallmarks of potential non-terrestrial and non-solar system origin. It lasted for the full 72-second duration that Big Ear observed it, but has not been detected again. Much attention has been focused on it in the media when talking about SETI results.

Amazed at how closely the signal matched the expected signature of an interstellar signal in the antenna used, Ehman circled the signal on the computer printout and wrote the comment "Wow!" on its side. This comment became the name of the signal.

Determining a precise location in the sky was complicated by the fact that the Big Ear telescope used two feed horns to search for signals, each pointing to a slightly different direction in the sky following Earth's rotation; the Wow! signal was detected in one of the horns but not in the other, although the data was processed in such a way that it is impossible to determine in which of the two horns the signal entered.

The signal came from a region of the sky lies in the constellation Sagittarius, roughly 2.5 degrees south of the fifth-magnitude star group Chi Sagittarii. Tau Sagittarii is the closest easily visible star.

The signal was expected to appear three minutes apart in each of the horns, but this did not happen. Ehman unsuccessfully looked for recurrences of the signal using Big Ear in the months after the detection.

In 1987 and 1989, Robert Gray searched for the event using the META array at Oak Ridge Observatory, but the mysterious signal was never to repeat...

But SETI, after five decades of scanning the heavens for intelligent messages, have managed to come up with only one 'WOW' signal; one unknown signal, one unidentified signal, that unfortunately never repeated itself and thus couldn't ever be scientifically and properly verified.

For some strange reason however, SETI scientists exclude alien artefacts that have any potential connection with UFOs, and closely related the concept of 'ancient astronauts'. That seems to be putting your SETI eggs in relatively fewer baskets than is necessary! I mean, SETI is trying to find extraterrestrial intelligence (ETI). If UFOs and/or ancient astronauts provide evidence or support for the existence of extraterrestrial intelligence, you'd think SETI scientists would include UFOs and/or ancient astronauts in their collective baskets.

Now I'm not claiming here that UFOs provide the 'smoking gun' establishing proof positive for the existence of extraterrestrial intelligence. I am suggesting however that there must be something highly suggestive in the collective evidence over more than six decades of the modern UFO era that point to extraterrestrial intelligence as a plausible answer.

So, what, to date, provides more plausible evidence or support for extraterrestrial intelligence - SETI or UFOs.

So sorry to have to say this, but UFOs have a lot more extraterrestrial intelligence runs on the board than SETI, despite SETI being legit, accredited and accepted science and UFOs anything but. Despite that, the track record for UFOs as a bona fide ETI subject is way better than the track record for SETI. As even UFO sceptics (like SETI scientists) have to acknowledge, some 5% to 10% of all UFO sightings or incidents, from around the world, remain hard core UFO sightings or incidents after proper analysis (and thus remain plausible or viable candidates for the UFO extraterrestrial hypothesis or ETH) - the 'unknowns' category.

If 5% to 10% of all interesting-at-first-glance SETI signals also proved, after proper analysis, to be legitimate 'unknowns'; 'WOW' signals after the one and only one such 'unknown' ever recorded, that would really set the SETI community abuzz. That one SETI 'WOW' signal has withstood the test of time - it remains a bona fide SETI unknown. My point is that each and every one of those 5 to 10% bona-fide unexplainable UFO incidents is, for all practical purposes, a 'WOW' event, equal in potential to the lone SETI 'WOW' signal. In the case of the UFO, the collective of 'WOW' events now number in the thousands to tens of thousands. As I said, UFOs have more 'WOW' runs on the board than SETI.

As an example, one such 'WOW' UFO event happened on the evening of 13 March 1997 over the city of Phoenix, Arizona. Thousands of citizens, including the state's Governor, Fife Symington III, witnessed (and several filmed) an aerial display of a silently gliding formation of lights in the sky of unknown origin, now dubbed, not surprisingly, 'The Phoenix Lights'. Needless to say they remain unidentified, and you can get in-depth documentary coverage on YouTube.

One other point, SETI scientists poo-poo the UFO extraterrestrial hypothesis (ETH) saying there's no PHYSICAL evidence. Eye witness testimony counts for absolutely nothing. Well of course there is PHYSICAL evidence for the UFO ETH of the exact same nature as that would satisfy a SETI scientist of E.T. - after all SETI scientists look for a PHYSICAL signal which they can study at their leisure, not an actual E.T. in the flesh. Well, UFOs have produced PHYSICAL evidence because they too can, and have, produced a PHYSICAL signal - radar returns, and there exist a fair few bona-fide radar returns of UFO events that have, after due investigation, remained unidentified. Now the PHYSICAL evidence left behind by bona-fide UFO radar cases, those unexplained radar cases, deserve intense respect, or the operators that interpret those radar returns.

If radar operators can be trusted to distinguish a flock of birds from an incoming ICBM or foreign military bomber intent on doing us a mischief, the reason the radar DEW line was established and manned during the Cold War; if radar operators can have entrusted to them the lives of military and commercial pilots, crew and passengers, then they must have the ability to tell an echo from a temperature inversion from a solid object - in this case the aircraft. If you fly, you entrust your very life to the ability of those radar operators to tell who's who; distinguish what's what. Sorry, but UFO radar returns are solid PHYSICAL evidence for the reality of unidentified flying objects. Contrasting SETI's PHYSICAL evidence with PHYSICAL evidence for the UFO, consider that in each case we have an object - SETI has the E.T. radio telescope; UFOs the UFO itself.

In each case we have an electromagnetic event - SETI has radio waves; the UFO event has radar. In each case we have receiving technology - SETI has the terrestrial radio telescope; the UFO event has a radar dish. In each case we have a visual display - SETI probably has some sort of monitor or oscilloscope; the UFO radar return some sort of cathode ray tube (CRT) or monitor. Both displays can be captured for later and fuller analysis. That's the closest parallel regarding PHYSICAL evidence with SETI. Of course UFOs leave behind other PHYSICAL traces from films and photographs, to ground traces, electromagnetic effects, even physiological effects too.

SETI isn't the only game in town. UFO research is not a replacement for traditional SETI, but complementary - if the discovery of an extraterrestrial intelligence is your goal.

support and encourage any and all other search strategies. To support the search for extraterrestrial intelligence, there should be a scholarly examination of terrestrial mythology, especially religious mythology, for hints of ETI. For example, do all gods in all the worlds religious mythologies live in the sky (like Heaven, or Valhalla) and possess magical (technological) powers?

Also, for once, there should be a serious scientific examination of the UFO data to determine once and for all if there is a case for some UFO events (like the Phoenix Lights) exhibiting ETI technology.

Whatever investigation, including those into ancient astronauts and UFOs, that tells you that ETI exists, or once existed, or doesn't exist at all (and a negative result is as important as a positive one) is a part of bona fide SETI...

SETI@home is a scientific experiment that uses Internet-connected computers in the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence (SETI).

Is it E.T.?

Sydney/ Australia - Instead of listening to possible alien radio signals, Australian OSETI-Astronomers looking for possible intelligent laser pulses from distant civilizations have detected an unknown signal that could not have been identified yet.

Contrary to the classical Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence, (SETI) that is listening to intelligent radio signals from outer space, so called "OSETI" is searching for strong "optical" laser pulses or strong laser flashes. While SETI-researchers dismiss the idea of crop circles being a communication from aliens because - according to Seth Shostak of the SETI Institute - alien visitors with the ability to travel to Earth would surely use a more sophisticated technology to communicate, such as radio transmission, the idea of OSETI turns this argument around (even if certainly not in favour to the much debated crop circle phenomenon):

"For an advanced civilization, radio wave technology would be old hat. (...) My strong feeling is that if there are (extraterrestrial intelligence) civilizations out there, they will send the signal by laser pulses or laser flashes", explained Dr. Ragbir Bhathal head of the "OZ OSETI PROJECT" at the University of Western Australia in Sydney in an interview with The Australian...

Another point is that say there's one extraterrestrial technologically advanced civilization reasonably close to by - say within 10 to 50 light-years. Say their radio transmission leakage window of (our) opportunity for (our) successful SETI is 100 to 200 years before all their transmission traffic is via fibre optical or other cable and the radio noise, their radio leakage, for all practical purpose ceases. So, our SETI has up to 200 years to point an antenna tuned at the right frequency and pointed in the right direction to log up a success story.

Now, what's the duration of our extraterrestrial civilization's attempts to boldly go - interstellar exploration? 100 years? 200 years? No, its way more than that because once started, even assuming the home planet goes kaput, exploration is ever ongoing. So the window of opportunity for us stay-at-home terrestrials to detect these boldly going, interstellar travelling extraterrestrials (and sooner of later we'd be accidentally stumbled over even if we hadn't been detected before-the-fact due to our bio-signatures - technological or otherwise) is also pretty unlimited. If extraterrestrials are not here now (via UFOs), then maybe there's some evidence they were here 200, 2000 or 20,000 years ago; or maybe there will be evidence tomorrow. The argument doesn't really alter that much, if at all, no matter how many technologically advanced (capable of both radio and interstellar travel) civilizations there are. Radio leakage is short term; exploration is long term. Therefore, UFOs (exploration) are a better bet than SETI (radio leakage) in uncovering the existence of extraterrestrial intelligence.

Now, don't think that's an attack on SETI. I like SETI; it's a good science. I wish SETI every success and if SETI manages to capture THE signal tomorrow, I'd be delighted. It's just that SETI scientists & UFO extraterrestrial hypothesis (ETH) hunters have something in common - they both need the deliberate or inadvertent cooperation of what they seek - aliens (if aliens they be). SETI scientists need that radio (or optical or infrared) transmission. UFO hunters need UFOs to just bloody well stand still, or at least have the decency to crash in a public location!

In conclusion, I again wish to make it clear that I totally support radio, optical, and infrared SETI to the hilt. It is bona fide science. Nothing ventured, nothing gained is applicable here. Repeating myself, traditional SETI isn't the only game available, and I equally

You can participate by running a free program that downloads and analyses radio telescope data.

Werewolf hunt on Cannock Chase interrupted by dogging couples and angry youths.

Paranormal investigators who descended on Cannock Chase for a documentary on the fabled werewolf that's said to prowl the area had to flee after stumbling across stunned 'dogging' couples. And if that wasn't enough, the crew were surrounded by angry youths - who believed they were swingers themselves - when they got to their car.

It was more X rated than X Files when filmmaker Damon Simms and his team came across couples seeking cheap thrills in the undergrowth at the German War Cemetery. The group were certainly confronted by the naked truth while hunting for clues during a late-night foray. Cannock Chase has long been a hotspot for sightings of strange phenomena, with reports of a strange wolf-like beast and big cats among the 26 mile woodland. But the mythical beasts aren't the only secretive nocturnal inhabitants. It's a favoured haunt for doggers and swinging couples from all over the country.

"We went up the Chase with a team of researchers to try to get some evidence about these sightings," Damon, 37, said. "But, unfortunately, we also had a bit of a problem with doggers while we were there. They were all in the bushes and it was obvious what they were doing. We moved on to other areas. It was wise to give them a wide berth. Unfortunately, we were then completely surrounded by gangs of youths in about six cars. They were hurling abuse at us and it got a bit nasty. "I think they thought we were a gang of doggers ourselves and started to shout abuse at us. Unfortunately, we had to move on again.."

Damon has been researching paranormal sightings over the Chase for a number of months. He is particularly interested in a glut of alleged werewolf sightings. He was interviewed last week by satellite paranormal show Mindscape TV about the phenomena. He is currently awaiting permission form Cannock Chase Council to investigate closed-off areas of the Chase.

"We are looking at getting permission to investigate certain areas of the Chase. There are certain areas that might pose a health and safety risk, so we need to liaise with the council before we go there," he said. "There has been a lot of interest in the film and a number of cable TV stations have shown interest in it and can't wait for us to completed the project."

Woman allegedly beaten by Poltergeist.

By Andrew Parker.

A TERRIFIED mum told yesterday how she has been beaten for seven months by thug GHOSTS. Gaynor Issitt, 52, sleeps with 10 pillows covering her after repeatedly waking up with ghoulish fists punching her face and stomach. Mum-of-two Gaynor, who has called in a paranormal expert, claims the ghosts have tried to shove her down the stairs and set fire to her furniture. Her best friend, Lee Belton, 37, even woke up with black eyes after spirits attacked him when he stayed the night at the house in Braunstone, Leics.

The photograph to the right shows the face of Lee Belton after being attacked by an unseen force. Gaynor said: "I can't even escape them when I leave. They pester me at Asda and followed me on holiday to Lanzarote."

MAPIT's Response - (We have received a piece of video and details in regards these alleged disturbances and so far we have not yet discovered evidence of the family's claims. Numerous other paranormal investigators claim to have evidence of intelligent contact with the poltergeist type entity, however, we are at this moment a little dubious about such claims and the methodology of tests carried out...)

Rare Meteorite unlocks secrets.

By Jenny Eagle.

A RARE meteorite which could hold secrets about the origins of the solar system has been handed in to a museum. The small rock, called Ivuna, is made up of chemicals which match the sun and is believed to contain raw materials from which the solar system was formed. Just 0.03 per cent of meteorites known to science have this composition, and Ivuna is thought to be the best example. Scientists hope it could answer the question of whether the chemical building blocks for life came from the stars. The meteorite fell in Tanzania in 1938, and one stone weighing 705 grams was recovered. Up to now it was not available for in-depth research, because most samples taken from that meteorite are held by the Tanzanian government or private collections. Dr. Caroline Smith, meteorite curator at the Natural History Museum, said: "We hold one of the most comprehensive meteorite collections in the world, yet Ivuna has been a missing piece in the jigsaw. "If we can better understand the complex processes that occurred in our solar system over 4.5 billion years ago, we can apply this to other stellar systems where planets are forming today." Ivuna was handed in to the Natural History Museum in central London from a private collection in the U.S. by British Airways.

Ahead of the imminent decision on badger culling in England, readers might ask themselves what do black cats and badgers have in common? The answer is that both have been persecuted for what amounts to superstition and hysteria. Today we are incredulous at the idea that black cats were once accused of witchcraft and causing bad luck, but now a similarly bizarre war is being waged on the humble badger. The idea that our wildlife holds the key to ending the TB epidemic in cattle was roundly disproved by the 10-year study by the Independent Scientific Group - which concluded that "badger culling cannot meaningfully contribute to the control of bovine TB in Britain." Yet the calls for badger blood continue unabated - and could soon become reality. Whilst in Wales the new Government has decided to review the science, the future of English badgers lies in the balance. Officials in Westminster are due to decide on the fate of badgers in the next few weeks - and potentially sign their death warrant. The nightmare scenario will see thousands of them caged and shot - or chased around woodland by men with guns.

Oz UFO Files 'abducted'!

AUSTRALIA'S military has lost all its dossiers on UFO sightings. In a case likely to spark mutterings about alien abductions Down Under, the Aussie defence department's own 'X-Files' have vanished. The disappearance came to light following a newspaper's freedom of information request. An Aussie newspaper had requested any documents mentioning sightings of UFOs or other "extraterrestrial organisms" in Australia. However, after two months of searching the archives, defence officials said the documents could not be found.

Mystery object caught on film.

SENSATIONAL new video has captured a UFO burning through the sky over Mexico.

The mysterious object with two fiery tails was filmed plummeting towards Earth near Cuernavaca. The footage shot on June 29th was uploaded on to YouTube by a user named only as Kimdragon1. It shows the glowing orb which UFO watchers believe could be a meteorite up close as the cameraman zooms in from their car for a better look. Last year the North of England was crowned the world's top hotspot for UFO sightings after they were snapped in Rotherham, South Yorks, Harrogate in North Yorks and Osgodby, near Scarborough, North Yorks. (MAPIT - I think in this case, it is an aircraft at high altitude with a sunlit illuminated contrail...)

A SCHOOLBOY thanked his lucky stars after a meteorite hurtling to Earth clipped his hand.

Gerrit Blank was heading to class when he saw a "ball of light" falling towards him. The pea-sized space rock left a three-inch scar on the 14-year-old's hand - and smashed a foot-wide crater in the pavement.

The lad, of Essen, western Germany, said: "I felt a pain in my hand and it knocked me flying. Hit ... Gerrit shows scar and rock- (EuroPics). "Then there was an enormous bang like a crash of thunder." Scientist Ansgar Korte, of the nearby Walter Hohmann Observatory, said the chances of this incident was one in 100 million. He said: "Most meteorites evaporate or land in water." The only other known person to survive a strike was a US woman in Alabama in 1954.

Asteroid 'Brushes' past Earth

A SPACE rock the size of a house missed the Earth by just 7,600 miles on June 27th 2011.

One of the closest encounters recorded. The asteroid, called 2011 MD, whizzed above the South Atlantic at 12,000mph and as near as communication satellites. Amateur astronomer Nick Howes, of Cherhill, Wilts, took pictures of it. He said: "It was blazingly fast." There was no danger of a collision with the 65ft-wide asteroid.

Alleged UFOs near NASA's STS-135 Space Shuttle 8-Jul-2011.

Strange lights were shown on NASA Live Broadcast flying near STS-135 (ISS assembly flight ULF7), the final mission of the American Space Shuttle. STS-135 uses hardware originally processed for the STS-335 contingency mission, as the Launch On Need (LON) rescue mission designated to support STS-134 was not ultimately needed. The mission launched on 8 July and is scheduled to land on 20 July 2011. It is rumoured that NASA tends to sell shuttles to Russia at the same time unveil their new replacement...

South African 'corpse' wakes up

By Marco Longari | AFP – Sun, Jul 24, 2011

A 50-year-old South African man thought to be dead woke up in a chilly morgue on Sunday and shouted to be let out, scaring off two attendants who thought he was a ghost, local media reported. "His family thought he had died," health spokesman Sizwe Kupelo told the Sapa news agency. "The family called a private undertaker who took what they thought was a dead body to the morgue, but the man woke up inside the morgue on Sunday at 5:00 pm and screamed, demanding to be taken out of the cold place."

This caused two mortuary attendants on duty to flee the building in the small town of Libode in the rural Eastern Cape as they thought it was a ghost. After calling for help and returning to find the man alive, an ambulance was sent to fetch the man who had "been exposed to extreme cold for nearly 24 hours" said Kupelo. He said the public should not assume that a sick person had died and contact a mortuary, the report said. "Doctors, emergency workers and the police are the only people who have a right to examine the patients and determine if they are dead or not."

Walmart Wonder.

By Steve Markham

Jacob Simmons and Gentry Lee Sutherland, an engaged couple from Anderson County, South Carolina were shocked to see the face of Jesus looking out at them from a Walmart receipt. They had bought some pictures from the store on June 12th and left the receipt in Sutherland's apartment. Three days later, Simmons was leaving the kitchen after the couple had returned from a church service and noticed the receipt on the floor. "I was leaving the kitchen and I just looked on the floor and it was like it was looking at me." said Simmons. "We had a message on knowing God, abiding in him," said Sutherland. "If you know God, would you recognize him if you saw him?" The couple deny tampering with the receipt and hope that it will show Jesus to everyone who sees it. This story is similar to many that purport to show images of Christ, the Blessed Virgin Mary and icons from other religions on mundane objects.

Assuming that the couple are genuine, they doubtless feel specially blessed to have been singled out as recipients of such a miracle but there are a few questions that are worth raising: Firstly, many people will see the image of Jesus in this receipt, however, not one of them will know what Jesus actually looked like. There are no useful descriptions of Jesus from Biblical texts and no evidence beyond these texts that he even existed in the first place. No historian living during the alleged lifetime of Jesus gives any mention at all to him. (And, before anyone mentions Josephus Flavius – he wasn't even born until 37CE and wrote Antiquities in 93CE which is later than the Gospels!). So, no-one knows what Jesus would have looked like but it is very doubtful that he would display the typical European features given to him by Christian artists over the centuries. So this being an image of Jesus is in the eye of the beholder.

Indeed, there are more direct comparisons that can be made of the image. It does bear a resemblance to self-proclaimed Messiah, Charles Manson. Not exactly a person whom any good Christian couple would wish to have staring at them from their kitchen floor. To me it looks quite like the writer, Alan Moore, author of Watchmen, From Hell, V for Vendetta and many other successful graphic novels. And Dave Grohl from Foo Fighters. In fact, it looks like lots of people to me, but not Jesus – because I don't know what he looked like. As to the miracle of the appearing image – the receipt has been produced on a thermal till printer. This type of printer uses heat to print the characters on the receipt. Exposure to more heat will blacken the receipt. I have seen the result of this from leaving a petrol station receipt in my car on a sunny day. When I returned to the car, the receipt was completely black.

So a receipt left in a place with sources of heat, for example, a kitchen, could easily darken through exposure to heat. As patterns form, our natural tendency to look for significance in these patterns, pareidolia, kicks in and we see faces. In this particular case, the image is a very clear formation and I can't help suspecting that the image has been 'helped along'. Even if it hasn't had human assistance, I do wonder about Jesus' choice to manifest himself upon a Walmart till receipt.

If we take what has been written about Him, I cannot see Him choosing to announce His presence on a product from a company that, amongst other things, practices money-lending. Jesus was very much against this sort of thing and the practice of lending money and charging interest, usury, was always regarded as a terrible sin. Then there's all the pork products. And guns.

I don't think he'd like Walmart very much. (Special Thanks to Kirst D'Raven for informing Phenomena Magazine of this news item).

Beyond Best Evidence: The UFO Enigma is a feature-length documentary that will take the cases shown in Best Evidence, as well as a couple of new ones that highlight what appear to be some of the more "high strangeness" aspects of the phenomenon, and explore with the three key possible explanations with world's leading experts on the subject, as follows:

1. Extraterrestrial Hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO sightings represent proof of visitation to Earth by advanced extraterrestrials from another world, most likely within what proponents term of "local galactic neighbourhood."
2. Interdimensional Hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO sightings involve visitations from other "realities" or "dimensions" that co-exist alongside our own. It also holds that UFOs are a modern manifestation of a phenomenon that has occurred throughout recorded human history, which in prior ages were ascribed to mythological or supernatural forces and creatures.
3. Psychosocial hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO Sightings can be explained by psychological or social means, examples of which include wishful thinking, hallucinations, hoaxes, and misidentification of prosaic objects, such as satellites, aircraft, or natural phenomena.

BOOK REVIEW

If you are one of those people that struggles in accepting the official line (or lie) of what this world is all about . . . If you get the feeling we are more than just a twist of fate in a skin and bone suit . . . And if you think we are being deliberately dumbed down by a ruling elite who are terrified of us remembering that we are pure genius and have the power to take our planet from prison to paradise . . . then you will flow with this book like a cork in a river. It follows the characters lives from the blissful realms of the after life (pre incarnation) through their eventful journeys on the planet and back home again.

The main character Juan, fourteen years of age and holidaying in the mysterious mountains of Las Alpujarras, Southern Spain, has his safe and cosy existence torn to shreds by the chance meeting (if you believe in chance) of the mountain wizard Alfonso.

With great tenderness he explains how a hidden hand is controlling every aspect of our lives. Chem-trails, vaccination scams, undisclosed cancer cures, suppression of the senses, mind control and plans to depopulate the planet are all presented to a devastated and bewildered child.

Will it prove too much for him? Or can he follow the simple truths and solutions offered by Alfonso and not only survive this critical period of time, but thrive and lead a revolution of mass awakening? A roller coaster read and a universal handbook for truth seekers everywhere.

A very interesting book, story based but with many conspiratorial issues. Certainly gets you thinking. Well worth a purchase. Phenomena Magazine. For more details please visit:

PRESS RELEASE

New Paranormal EMF Meters available in the UK

TomsGadgets is proud to announce the addition of two new models of the Mel Meter to their EMF product range. The Mel 8704R Vibe and the Mel 8704R REM ATDD are made in the USA and are designed exclusively for paranormal use. The original Mel Pro Navigator Meter 8704R (£89.99) is the only meter that can measure both EMF and temperature simultaneously. The Mel Meter 8704R was first developed by Gary Galka of DAS Distribution Inc as a way of communicating with his daughter Melissa, following her death. The Mel was even named after her; the year of her birth (87) and the year of her death (04) hence the name Mel 8704.

The Mel Vibe (£129.99) has all the features of the original Mel Meter but is also highly sensitive to measure vibrations. The Mel REM ATDD (£189.99) features a hot and cold spot alarm, red flashlight, EMF radiating antenna and glow in the dark buttons. What makes the Mel REM ATDD Model so uniquely different from other EMF meters is that it can detect AC/DC EMF fluctuations and ambient temperature changes using the special Radiating EM Field (REM) and Ambient Temperature Deviation Detection (ATDD).

"TomsGadgets is the paranormal one stop shop for paranormal and ghost hunting equipment and we are the only stockists of the MEL meters in the UK."

SPOOKOLOGY

WHO PUT THE NORM IN PARANORMAL?...

In the way-back-when of my time editing Paranormal Magazine, I jokingly coined the term 'Spookology' in one of my editorials. I was writing in response to a certain amount of reader confusion regarding the likes of the Owlman, Black Dogs and other weird things that inhabit the twilight world of the paranormal. Some readers were lumping in such entities with cryptozoology, a subject matter they had little interest in.

Richard Holland is the editor of the ghosts and folklore website Uncanny UK and the former editor of Paranormal Magazine. A journalist of more than 20 years' experience in newspapers and magazines, he is the author of five books, including Haunted Wales: A Survey of Welsh Ghostlore which is shortly to be republished by the History Press. To read more of his articles, and those of other authors on the subject of the supernatural in Britain, please visit :

www.uncannyuk.com

My view was – and is still – that such entities cease to belong to cryptozoology once it has reasonably been established no living animal was involved in the sighting. Even Tony 'Doc' Shiels, who brought the Owlman to everyone's attention in the 1970s, doubted it was anything other than a supernatural entity (if it existed at all) and this has been the consensus since. If it had been a flesh-and-blood animal, imagine the size of its nest and the amount of droppings they'd have needed to clean off Mawnan church tower!

Ghosts didn't always follow such tidy rules, however. In 1911, for example, Welsh folklorist John Ceredig Davies wrote about a lonely moor in Mid Instead the scene of the tragedy was haunted by a ghost 'which appeared sometimes in the shape of a cat, at other times as a man on horseback'.

Quite illogical! To our rustic ancestors, however, ghosts, goblins and weird and creatures were indistinguishable. They were all lumped together into one scary package. They were all spooks.

I've started using 'spook' as a handy word for anything really weird and inexplicable, in particular any ghostly phenomenon that fails to fit the paranormal norm. Not that there should be any norms in a field so strange and esoteric, I feel, but as I see it the supernatural is becoming increasingly codified, with the casual use of terms like 'grounded spirits', 'residual haunting', 'elementals' etc bolstering preconceptions in an area of research in which we still, truly, understand very little.

In a recent edition of Phenomena, Peter McCue highlighted just one class of ghost that make little sense in a spirit-centred view of the supernatural, those of trains, planes and automobiles. Apparitions like these are good examples of spooks.

Spooks appeal to me not just because they challenge preconceptions but also because they're fun and often scary (or is that the same thing?).

In the coming months I intend to use this space kindly supplied by Steve and Dave to explore a range of weird and inexplicable sightings and unusual experiences culled from 'many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore'. I hope 'Spookology' will prove intriguing, surprising and entertaining. If nothing else it should serve as a reminder that it's way too soon to start normalising the paranormal...

Illustration © ElizaIllustration 2009

Is it a man?
Is it a bird?
No, it's a spook.

It's the same with the Black Dogs: they are too big and too weird to be real animals, and they don't behave like real animals either. Until recently they tended to come under the banner of 'ghosts'. But ghosts of what? Certainly not of any dog currently known to science, since even the common or garden variety is enormous and sports a fine pair of glowing red eyes.

Wales where 'a poor old woman had been murdered'. The murder 'was supposed to account for the spot being haunted' – but not by the victim or her killer, as we might expect.

This supernatural-natural world clash was only one inspiration for my editorial, however. I was also concerned about the dogma beginning to surround ghostlore, particularly the presumption that ghosts are necessarily spirits of the dead, or at the very least records of past personalities or events. Black Dogs fit neither of those presumptions, and yet they have been among the most commonly reported of all types of 'ghost' over the years (they are therefore Dog-ma busters). Nowadays we have become used to thinking of a ghost as being the remnant of a specific personality – 'the apparition of Sir So-and-So' or 'the spirit of a murdered servant girl', for example – or that they echo a particular incident, usually dramatic or tragic in nature.

STRANGELY HAUNTED:

This lonely moor near Ystradgynlais, Mid Wales, was patrolled by a shape-shifting ghost which bore no clear connection to the murder that created it.

SOLAR STORM

Are You Prepared for Emergency Survival?

Solar Storms are coming, Emergency Survival knowledge, and Preparedness are key. You may be asking questions like, "Exactly what is a solar storm, and how can it affect me and my family?" "What emergency survival knowledge should I know about?" "If preparedness is the key, then what should I do?"

So what is a solar storm? Well solar as you might have guessed refers to an event involving our sun. A storm is defined as a violent disturbance of the atmosphere. But instead of the disturbance occurring in the form of thunder, lightening, or precipitation, it is in the form of charged particles that are ejected from the sun. These charged particles travel in large clouds that can carry up to ten billion tons of plasma. These clouds are also called Coronal Mass Ejections (CMEs), when they are released from the sun.

The particles in a CME (ions and electrons) are electrically charged, which means they also feel magnetic forces. Under normal circumstances these particles would be deflected by the Earth's magnetic field or our shield if you will, and the survival of our way of life would not be in jeopardy. According to researches sponsored by NASA our magnetic field often develops two holes that allow huge leaks. These leaks can allow up to twenty times more particles to pass. You might be thinking that this sounds like a bit of an emergency. Hold on we're not done yet. The number of particles breaching this shield depends on the orientation of the sun's magnetic field. When the Sun's and Earth's magnetic fields are in alignment the largest breaches occur. The sun's magnetic field changes direction every cycle.

In the summer of 1859, on August 28th, the magnetic fields of the sun and earth were in such an alignment. Solar observers of the time noted the development of numerous sunspots on the sun's surface. Sunspots are the originating point of CME's. They are regions of extremely intense magnetic fields that are intertwined and can suddenly release energy in a violent solar flare. There was no anticipated doom or emergency on September 1st, 1859, when the sun released a mammoth solar flare. For nearly an entire minute the intensity of sunlight produced at the region of the flare actually doubled. The CME resulting from the solar flare itself contained an extremely intense magnetic field that was oppositely charged to that of Earth's magnetic field. The result was the Earth's magnetic field was overwhelmed allowing charged particles to penetrate into the upper atmosphere.

There was very little need for solar storm preparedness in 1859. The only technology that was susceptible at that time was the Telegraph. The CME of 1859 or the Carrington Event, as it has come to be known, gave a jolt to some telegraph operators, and some of their offices even caught fire. So there was no emergency or threat to survival; life in 1859 pretty much went on as usual with the slight inconvenience of no telegraph messages for a while.

Imagine our society today, and how dependant we are on electronics, and power transmission. How would we react if suddenly all of that was taken away by one of these CMEs?

According to a report by the National Academy of sciences, if such a storm occurred today, we could experience widespread power blackouts with permanent damage to many key transformers. A CME could very well occur during the next solar maximum and could be more intense than what happened in 1859. Our very survival could be on the line.

Our Sun is emerging from an unusually deep solar minimum. That is when the sunspot, solar storm, and solar flare activity are at their lowest levels in the sun's eleven year cycle. This is significant, because it means we are now entering one of the most active solar maximums in recent history. Solar Maximum is when the sun reaches its peak in its cycle for sunspot, solar storm, and solar flare activity. That means bad news for the survival of our society's electronics, satellites, and power grids. Why does this Solar Maximum spell certain disaster for our way of life? In addition to the increased solar activity, expected during the upcoming solar maximum, the Earth's magnetic field has two holes in it that allow particles streaming out from the sun to breach this shield. Because the solar particles are electrically charged, they are usually deflected by Earth's magnetic field during a solar storm. Our magnetic field, however, is a leaky shield and the number of particles breaching it is about twenty times more than normal. The Earth's thermosphere has also collapsed to an unusually low level. It always cools and contracts when solar activity is low, however, the magnitude of the collapse was two to three times greater than low solar activity could explain during the last solar minimum. John Emmet of the Naval Research Lab, states "something is going on that we do not understand".

Normally the thermosphere, which ranges in altitude from about 54-360 miles, intercepts extreme ultraviolet photons (EUV) from the sun before they can reach the ground. As solar activity increases, solar EUV warms the thermosphere, causing it to expand, or puff up like a marshmallow over an open fire. This heating can raise temperatures to as high as 1400 K—hence the name thermosphere. It has begun expanding again, but it has a huge deficit to recover from, allowing EUV much closer to the ground than usual.

Since the beginning of the space age the overall length of high-voltage power lines spanning North America, has increased nearly ten times. This has effectively turned our power grids into a giant antenna for geomagnetically induced currents produced when we get hit by Coronal Mass Ejections (CME's). In a report put out in 2009 by the North American Electric Reliability Corporation and the US Departments of Energy, in regards to our modern power systems they concluded there is a "significantly enhanced vulnerability and exposure to effects of a severe geomagnetic storm."

Think about all of the things in our daily lives we take for granted like Television, GPS, Internet, and Cell Phones. We are dependent upon electricity for our survival. A CME, or solar storm could knock out the national power grids, which provide electricity for all of our modern technology. The survival of our satellites, and communications could also be at risk. Simple things like filling your car up with petrol or going to the shop to buy something could be chaos due to petrol pumps being electronic along with cash tills and registers. Electrical power loss could mean that generators that run pumps may come to a stand-still which means it could even become difficult to get water out of your taps, let alone heating, cooking and the adverse effect to world economy due to communication and the internet crashing. Obvious disasters would also be waiting to happen as aircraft struggle to maintain flight. Well... I guess you get the picture...

This in essence could turn our way of life back about 100 years, as the resulting blackouts could last for months or much longer! John Kappenman, CEO of Electromagnetic damage consulting company, points out that when our high voltage transformers blow, they can't be fixed in the field. In many cases they can't be fixed at all. The wait time right now to order and receive a new transformer is one to three years. So imagine how long it could take to replace most or all of the transformers in the nation if we get hit by a massive CME. To protect our high voltage transformers from the effects of a solar storm, huge resistors could be installed and attached to each one. It may be too late, however, to protect enough of our transforms to save our power grids.

Based on the preceding solar cycles, the current Solar Maximum should occur late 2012- early 2013. Mausumi Dikpati of the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR) is forecasting the Solar Maximum to peak in 2012. Solar physicist David Hathaway of the National Space Science & Technology Center (NSSTC), however, believes it will arrive sooner. History shows that big sunspot cycles 'ramp up' faster than small ones.

You may be asking questions like: "What steps is our government taking to prepare for a massive solar storm or CME?" "Is this threat real?" "How do I prepare my family for survival of an event like this?"

Stocking up on water, food, candles would be the obvious first choices. Keeping warm may also be a problem for some people, so gas bottled heaters may come in handy. Some could even get hold of fuel and generators, but a note of caution. Try not to stand out too much as those who have not prepared may become desperate and try to take your belongings for themselves. Stay off the streets as best you can, stay away from shopping areas as these are likely to become targeted for looters and new laws may be temporarily introduced in an attempt to deal with the increased crime... Sleep Well...

LAPIS Conference 2011 Review

For those of you who don't yet know me, I am the chairman and investigator for Birmingham UFO Group in the UK, which has been running since late 2007. I have been interested in the paranormal since an early age, and looked into UFOs in more depth from around the age of 12. Since becoming a UFO investigator I have looked into over 300 UFO sightings and ET contact cases. My written reports on these cases can be found on the BUFOG website. I host regular monthly group meetings and online contactee support discussions.

I have given talks at numerous conferences around the UK and Ireland. However early on the morning of Saturday 11th June 2011 I and my friend Chris set off from Birmingham on our journey to Blackpool for the yearly LAPIS (Lancashire Anomalous Phenomena Investigation Society) paranormal conference – a conference I was attending rather than speaking at.

It was a fantastic sunny day and the roads were nice and clear. This year the conference took place at the Carousel Hotel right on the seafront, just a short distance along the main promenade from Blackpool Pleasure Beach. As we arrived around 9.30am, both Blackpool Tower and "The Big One" rollercoaster were in plain sight.

The conference took place inside the main bar room of the hotel. This was really nicely furnished and well lit, a comfortable location for two days of lectures. There was also another side room where a number of merchandise stalls had been laid out.

We almost immediately bumped into Paul Vella, who was billed to speak first at the conference and a friend of mine, Mike Rutter from Rapport magazine and Witness Support Group. After socialising a while with them over a coffee, we then caught up with some of the other speakers including Malcolm Robinson, Mike Hallowell and Rob Whitehead. Prior to kick off I also had a good look round the merchandise room, where I was pleased to once again meet up with contactee Mike Oram, who was also on the speaker line up.

Dave Hodrien
Birmingham UFO Group

The Birmingham UFO Group was established in 2006 by Mark Martin & Craig Lowe who had both researched the UFO subject in depth for many years. They met Dave Hodrien in 2007 and appointed him the role of Lead Investigator in 2008. Due to his hard work, determination and commitment Dave was nominated the position of Group Chairman in 2009 and to this day orchestrates the groups activities and future.

In 2010 he teamed up with Richard Hall (<http://www.richplanet.net>) and now investigates UFO cases which are reported via his website as well as via BUFOG. Dave's official reports on these cases can be found in the Reported UFOs section on the BUFOG website.

It is their aim to bring the truth of the UFO reality to the public domain, to provide the fascinating evidence to all those that are listening. Above all else, they are there to help and advise those with experiences they cannot explain and to reassure them they are not alone.

Ufology attracts dis-information from the press and media, and often receives ridicule from the general public, which tends to encourage witnesses to keep quiet. They will treat everyone and every case with discretion and the sincerity it deserves.

After claiming some nice comfy seats towards the back of the room, we settled down to listen to Paul Vella, who gave a fascinating first talk on the "Minnesota Ice Man". This was a sideshow attraction which was put on display around the USA in the late 1960s, and appeared to be a caveman/bigfoot like creature encased in a block of ice. Many people believed it was real and was the missing link. Over the years various people claimed to have been involved with the discovery or death of the ice man, and Paul went over their claims in detail. He personally believed it to be a clever hoax made by a special effects studio rather than an actual creature, however scientists were never given the chance to thaw it out, and then it mysteriously vanished without trace, so we will probably never know for certain either way.

After Paul's lecture there was then a break for lunch. We decided to explore the local area and find a shop to buy some food. It wasn't long before we discovered a number of art sculptures on the promenade including a giant mirror ball which was brightly reflecting the sun's rays.

This became the subject of some great photo opportunities, as you can see!

The afternoon began with a talk from Jon Ronson, investigative journalist and author of numerous books including "The Men Who Stare At Goats", which has since been made into an excellent comedy film starring Ewan McGregor and George Clooney. Rob has looked into numerous unusual fringe subjects including remote viewing and the Bohemian Grove ceremony (which he managed to sneak into with Alex Jones). However his lecture mostly focused on psychopaths, the subject of his latest book. He covered the various officially recognised signs of madness, and explained how some of these signs were quite ridiculous and could be attributed to most people in one way or another. His talk was both interesting and amusing.

Next Mike Hallowell took to the stage. He warned at the start of his lecture that it was not really suitable for children, and he wasn't joking either! Mike's talk was about an ongoing case of a family who were being plagued by poltergeist-like activity that clearly had malicious intent and was far from friendly. However Mike put the activity down to a demonic entity from folklore known as a Brag, as some of the activity fitted in with this. This activity, unexplained sounds and footsteps, laughing and voices heard over the telephone and actually in the household, fires which had burst out of nowhere, and a cloud like mist which was witnessed in the hallway that actually rained urine all over the floor and stairs, before hoof like markings appeared walking up the stairs one step at a time. The most disturbing incident of all was where one of the family had been beaten around the face by an invisible assailant while Mike was speaking to another family member over the phone. He played the unpleasant audio recording of this

Dave Hodrien - BUFOG
Chairman & Investigator

I have been interested in UFOs for the past 20 years, and for a long time have believed that the phenomena is real and occurring world-wide. I look at the subject with both an open and analytical mind. Since becoming the lead investigator for the Birmingham UFO Group, I have personally investigated hundreds of UFO sightings and contact experiences, many from around the area of Birmingham, but others from elsewhere in the UK and abroad.

I have a particular interest in the contact aspect of this subject, and work closely with a hypnotherapist during particular investigations.

I am experienced in giving lectures on cases I have investigated, and have spoken at numerous conferences. If you would like to book me for a talk, or wish to discuss an experience you have had, please contact me via E-Mail: contact@bufog.com conversation, as well as a number of EVP (Electronic Voice Phenomena) recordings. One of the most impressive aspects of the case was the fact that the police had got involved and had not only witnessed some of this activity first hand, but had allowed for their identities to be revealed. This certainly aided in backing up the validity of the case.

The final speaker of the day was Malcolm Robinson from Strange Phenomena Investigations (SPI). Malcolm is an accomplished and well versed speaker with many years experience in the field, and his lectures are always a joy to listen to. His lecture was entitled "The Weird and The Wonderful", and covered many varied experiences and incidents. These included his own UFO sightings and efforts to find the Loch Ness monster. He then covered the curse of American actor James Dean's car. James lost his life in the car during a fatal accident. However after his demise there were many other accidents and fatalities linked to the car in various ways, leading people to believe that it was cursed. Malcolm also covered a terrifying séance he had personally been involved in where lots had taken place he could not explain, and a photograph from Chile which claims to show a live Extraterrestrial walking across a road. He then went on to talk of other UFO cases including a silver disc that was seen from the window of an aircraft, and another saucer-shaped craft that was seen by the crew of a ship out at sea. He ended his talk by covering a case where a woman's car had seemingly collided with an invisible force of some kind which had crumpled the side of the car without causing any damage to the paintwork – very bizarre;

And so ended the first day of lectures, but the fun was far from over! We headed outside a while for some drinks in the early evening sunlight, and a chat with Malcolm, Mike and Paul. I also met the presidents of the Scarborough UFO Society (SUFOS).

After a short while, the merchandise room had been cleverly transformed into a "Meet the speakers" buffet room. The food was really good, and after dinner and drinks it was time for a thoroughly enjoyable paranormal themed quiz. With Malcolm Robinson on our team we came a respectable second place, and were only one point away from being declared the winners. We were just pipped to the post by Mike Hallowell and Oll Lewis, who won a load of sky-watch related equipment. (Above Photo: Malcolm Robinson on the left and myself to the right). In actual fact, the prize would surely have come in handy, as after a few more drinks I, Chris, Malcolm and Mike Rutter decided to head on out to some nearby sand dunes and end the night with a short sky-watch. It was quite a mild evening with a relatively clear sky, ideal sky-watching conditions! It took about 10 minutes to walk to our destination. After facing the perils of numerous sand covered pathways while under the influence of alcohol, we ended up at the highest point of the dunes, which gave a great view of the surroundings and also out over the sea. In the distance we could see numerous ships lights.

Initially there was very little activity in the sky. We caught sight of one distant plane and then spotted a single satellite on its course across the sky. But then suddenly we noticed a bright white light heading inland from the West. It was definitely in the atmosphere, no higher than 3000 feet. However as it got closer we realised there were no additional navigation lights on it at all, nor could we hear any sound coming from it. We had cameras but were too busy debating whether or not it was a plane to take a photograph, and I am certain even if we had, it would not have come out against the night sky. I was surprised to find out that even Malcolm thought it looked unusual. We had to conclude that it was unidentified, therefore it was a UFO. A short while after the light vanished into the distance we decided to call it a night and returned to the hotel.

Chris and I had decided in advance to save money by sleeping in the car. I've had many years roughing it at various music festivals so this really didn't bother me too much. The worst part was waking up due to the early morning light. We checked the clock and found it was 6.15am. Knowing that we would probably not be able to drop back off, we decided to grab the BBQ from the boot and walk back down to the sand dunes to cook some breakfast. It was hard work hulking all the gear down there, but worth it in the end. Chris's BBQ skills are commendable.

By the time we returned to the hotel it was 9.30am and other people were milling about. We met back up with Malcolm and headed back to the mirror ball for some more photos. Malcolm was speaking a second time so we then had to return to the venue so he could get set up. He began at 11.00am with an entertaining visual talk on supposed ET photographs. This was just the ticket for those of us who were still recovering from the previous evening! Many of the photos shown were rather dubious, but there were still a few that I felt could be the real deal.

The next lecture was by Oll Lewis, and was all about the beast of legend known as the Kraken. Oll covered many of the theories as to the origins of the creature and explained why many of these could not really explain it. During the lecture he showed a number of old drawings of the Kraken. The legend goes that a boat of sailors moored on the back of the beast assuming it was an island. After lighting a fire, the Kraken dived below the waves and many of the men were drowned. Oll presented an interesting theory of his which suggested that the Kraken was actually an island, but the tide had risen very fast giving the impression that it was a huge creature slowly diving underwater.

The afternoon began with a rather unsettling lecture by Rob Whitehead. He spoke about the case of the "Women In Blue" which took place in the 1990s. This involved many incidents where women and occasionally men would visit people's houses claiming to be social workers. They would ask for permission to perform an intimate examination of the children, and would occasionally attempt to take the child away into custody. This happened many times around the area of Yorkshire and a number of times elsewhere in the UK. It made the papers on numerous occasions and the police released a number of photo fits of the suspects. Its unclear what the suspected motive was, but after following some leads Rob had been informed of a completely different motive, one with bizarre implications.

The last speaker of the conference was the ongoing contactee Mike Oram. Mike has had experiences since the age of four, and has had numerous meetings with a Nordic being named Telos, who he refers to as his "space brother". I have heard Mike speak before of his experiences, and he is always fascinating to listen to. He gave a brief overview of some of his many encounters, but focused mostly on two particular experiences.

On some of these photographs he saw what looked like white orbs of light shooting upwards with trails running behind them. He showed these unusual photos during the talk.

The second part of his lecture focused on the events which had happened to him and his wife in Nevada while visiting the gate of Area 51 and the Little A'le'inn. Incidentally I got married at the black mailbox back in February 2010, but that's a whole other story! During his visit Mike felt that things were amiss and experienced some periods of missing time. Because of this he decided to get regressed. Under regression he stated that he had been chased down by a military vehicle with a device on the back that had opened a portal. He was taken through this and found himself in a building with many military personnel, and something was placed on his head. It seemed like the military had known he was a contactee and wanted to obtain something from his mind. The odd incidents which happened later on turned out to be a visitation by Telos, another Nordic and a short Grey-like being. Mike's lecture was a fascinating way to end the conference, and I enjoyed every minute of it.

After saying our goodbyes we stepped outside the hotel to find ourselves in a heavy downpour of rain. I felt glad that the weather had held off until now otherwise the weekend would have been far less fun. Despite the rain and tiredness, our spirits were raised by the memories of the last two days as we began the long drive back to Birmingham. It was certainly one of the most varied and enjoyable paranormal conferences I have attended, and I look forward to seeing what next year's conference will bring...

Firstly he described something which had happened recently and which he had not spoken of before. One evening at his home he received a psychic message which told him to go outside with a camera and take photographs. He sensed that something was leaving the Earth for a while, perhaps a particular group of ETs, and that some kind of event was taking place. He took about 40 photographs.

BUFOG Cannock Chase Skywatch

Cannock Chase in Staffordshire has long been known as one of the UK's UFO hotspots. There was a UFO flap in the area in the late 80s – early 90s which included a very well known Flying Triangle sighting. On Saturday 10th September Birmingham UFO Group has decided to arrange a sky watch there for all who are interested, whether you are a BUFOG member or not (Note: Cannock Chase is 34 mins drive from Birmingham)

We intend to initially meet up at the bar at The Barns hotel between 6.30pm-7.00pm. Then at 7.30pm around sunset head up to a location out on Cannock Chase with very good sky visibility. There is no set end time for the sky watch. One of BUFOG's members will be bringing with them a BBQ – he says if you bring some food with you he is happy to cook it!

Date: Saturday 17th September,

Meet Up Time: 6.30-7.00pm

Meet Up Location: The Barns, Cock Sparrow Lane, Cannock WS12 4PB

Sky Watch Location: Just off Broadhurst Green Road, Teddesley Hay, WS12 4

Jade Ashcroft: Due to unforeseen circumstances we arrived halfway through the first lecture. Which was a shame because Lee's talk presented material based around Zacharia Sitchins work "the lost book of Enki", an area of research that I am very interested in. Great star battles, the birth of Humanity, Sumeria, and the hidden history of Planet Earth.

You can watch this presentation on Lee's Youtube channel at: http://www.youtube.com/jehuty2001#p/u/1/3t9\_rm1gAq0

Comparative linguist and symbolologist Pierre Sabak gave an interesting talk about the hidden symbolism of the Dragon. Discussing the interconnected nature of words and certain symbols recurring in different languages, Sabak has spent the previous seven years researching this subject in great depth. The result of his work so far culminates in his new book "The Murder of Reality" from his Serpentigena Series.

During the discourse he briefly explained Double talk, or coded cyphers being used in language. Harry Potters Snake Speak or Parcel Tongue sprung to mind. Some of the information seemed contradictory, to me anyway, purely as it demonised and cast negative connotations over and over. Perhaps reading his book at a later date might clear up the confusion on my part. Overall a deep and multi faceted presentation, beckoning you to open the door to a different perspective in terms of understanding the construction of symbols and their purpose.

Phenomena Magazine: We have secured future reviews of Pierre Sabak's books starting with The Murder of Reality; coming soon. We hope to be working with Pierre in the not so distant future. So... Watch this space...

Jade Ashcroft: Robert Green delivered a moving speech on the topic of the Hollie Greig scandal in Dumfries in Scotand. Green has fought for justice on behalf of Holly Greig since she spoke out about being sexually abused, and the truth about the shameful attempts to cover-up the incident. A truly shocking case of paedophilia in which the accused is coincidentally the presiding sheriff at the hearing of the case in court? The information presented in the hour Green addressed the audience is unfathomable. He touched the hearts of his audience with the plea for assistance, however small.

Ian R Crane is no stranger to the podium. His background as a salesman, amongst other things, becomes apparent when you see his back catalog of products. He and other authors detail information on a range of subjects for those interested in uncovering secret agendas. Crane opened with explanations of the Codex alimentarius, and the global food code.

Even though his commentary comes across as witty, these are dead serious matters. If this is something that you haven't heard about it is a scary can of worms to open. Going against nature in every way the big companies are all about making a profit. From Big Pharma to those that decided seeds should only germinate once. Crane gives plenty of leads for further research. Illuminating and highly informative.

Michael Tsarion on Posthumanism and the Manipulation of reality. The wealth of information presented by Tsarion was worth the ticket fee alone, and took time afterwards to fully digest. He delivered an outstanding performance on a range of interconnected subjects through the eye of philosophical needle, with the thread of rational objectivity. Areas of particular interest were the "I" and the continual self. Bringing the awareness to that point within, that immortal self, and its experience of the inner worlds. Having the free will to

Based in the North West of England, we are team of free thinking independent researchers, musicians and visionaries, dedicating our very being to the discovery of one's self and the uncovering of the irrefutable truth.

We have extensively observed and continue to study a wide range of subject matter relating to the state of our world. We have found that the text book syllabus version of historical events offered to us through the education system and mainstream media is full of flaws and disinformation that insults our potential to grow in many aspects of our own lives and deceptively shapes the perception of how humanity en masse view the world around them. We have arrived at the conclusion that something is seriously wrong with life on planet earth and it is by no means 'coincidental' that the truth has been perversely concealed to a degree which is beyond most people's imagination. We propose that our work will provide answers and conclusive evidence of who exactly is manipulating the blueprint of Planet Earth for their own means of greed and control.

We have come across a plethora of false information in our quest for the truth. In order to objectively uncover the truth we back up all we state with documented facts enabling the brave free thinking individual seeking the real truth to free themselves from the mental chains that bind the masses in servitude.

Dave Sadler, Kirst D'Raven & Steve Mera.

Only allowed 3 hours stay and then you were required to relocate your vehicle and pay again via pay and display machines. This of course costs quite a bit of money. Unlike many, we found a quiet side road to park down for free. Then there was the venue price itself. Tickets were £45.00 each and I thought this to be a little steep. We have visited many all day conferences which stretch to no more than £30.00 a head. However, this did not seem to bother the attendance. The lectures were interesting, Lee David's of course was nothing new, just a slight different stance on Sitchin's work who has, as far as we know, been debunked on a number of his interpretations. Nevertheless, it was still interesting and Lee's lecture had numerous interesting illustrations.

Robert Green's lecture was rather slow, covering most of the issues word for word of his websites or blogs. Robert did not bring with him any visual aids, no photos, documents, video... nothing. Of course, his lecture was rewarded with a round of applause at the end.

The other lectures by Pierre, Sabak, Ian R. Crane and Michael Tsarion were very interesting and certainly held my attention. As to how true and accurate these lecturers and authors are, is anyone's guess. I presume its down to the individual to make their own minds up. Never-the-less, well worth the visit.

For those interested in these subjects, I would say, its well worth going along to one of these conference. Hopefully I.C.A.N. Will be holding further conferences in the future. Phenomena Magazine will be informing our readers when we hear of any taking place. So... Once again... Watch this space...

decide whether or not develop latent functions of intuition, or to blindly follow the route constructed for you by others. That the change which is needed is one of perception or simply changing the "way of seeing".

Michael overstressed the importance of imagination and creations by musicians, poets, artists etc, and the need to have power over ones emotions so as not to be a slave to them. "intuition is an open door to perception" Reiterated throughout the lecture was the need for knowledge of ones self, and being in harmony with nature.

He talked about the need to educate our children well on all the truths, and not the fabrications being taught in our schools, so that one day "evil could be gone from the world" No doubt there will be a forthcoming DVD of this lecture and I would highly recommend it!

Phenomena Magazine: During an interval we ran in to Grov Molovsky who was there promoting his new book 'We Are Waking Up'.

An interesting book covering many philosophical issues, conspiracies and much more. We will be reviewing Grov's book in the near future, so... Watch this space...

During the afternoon break the Homeleys entered the stage to bring us their music. Surprisingly, they were quite good.

This was our first time at the newly developed Middleton Arena and the audience consisted of a healthy 350-400 people. Books, DVDs and clothing was on sale to the public. All in all a most enjoyable day... So, what about the downsides...

Well, First up, there was a bit of a parking issue for those visiting the venue via vehicle. The arena car park

Guildford -- "I had just put our car in the garage and was walking back towards the house on July 7, 2011, when I spotted two orange lights moving at speed through the sky. They were closer and much faster than a plane. Also they were silent and there were no flashing lights, so they were definitely not planes or helicopters. They were heading northwest and ended up being obscured by trees. I ran into upstairs to grab my camcorder and told my fiance what I had just seen. We looked out of the window and another orange light flew past fast, before I had the chance to turn on my camera. I went outside and saw another orange light to the north of my house and managed to get some brief footage of it, which shows its speed. They moved so fast to be Chinese lanterns and the final one came from a totally different direction than the others. Thanks to MUFON CMS & Filers Files.

Borehamwood Herts -- My partner and I were out in the back garden last night and we both saw two UFOs. The first was at 10:25 PM, which was a spherical, shimmering yellow-orange object travelling north. It stayed in position for about 30 seconds as it faded and disappeared. The second appeared at 10:40 PM, and was much smaller as it was much further away but similar in appearance. It came from the west and went towards the north, travelling for around 45 minutes as a dot of light getting smaller until it disappeared. Thanks to Christine Brock & Filers Files.

DAVE SADLER DISCUSSES A RECENT NEWS ITEM AND HIGHLIGHTS PARANORMAL STUPIDITY

Established for the serious study of anomalous phenomena the Unknown Phenomena Investigation Association was founded in 1998 to research, investigate and evaluate all disciplines of the paranormal genre.

The UPIA Files is a blog that has been developed to offer interested parties a honest and unbiased account of modern day paranormal investigation. Analysis of media reports and images and re-education regarding the likes of the 2012 reports. It is also hoped we may change the mindset of most modern day paranormal investigators, and fans of Media driven paranormal tv shows, that all is not as it seems. Natural, medical, physiological, psychological and other areas of known means can result in most reported Paranormal and UFOlogical instances and general media influenced being not as correct as first thought.

Please indulge yourself and offer The UPIA Files blog to other interested individuals...

building... Laws... Trespass... Urgent repair works began on the hospital last week after years of vandalism, arson attacks and thefts.

both the location and the debacle of charlatan TV. Letter Sent to a local Newspaper by Dave Sadler, Co-coordinator of the UPIA:

PHOTOGRAPH FOUND ON THE UPIA FILES BLOG

You know sometimes, just sometimes, the cretins who call themselves experts turn up and show just why they are ridiculed and bring a bad name to a subject in dire need of a return to reality.

VANDALS have identified themselves after they broke into the former North Wales hospital and scrawled graffiti on the Grade II listed building. Flintshire Paranormal entered the dilapidated buildings late on June 17 and left a graffiti tag including the group and individuals' names.

Unfortunately Flintshire is pretty darn local to me, we'll get onto the location shortly, one I've had a bee in my bonnet about for quite some time

"We only went to the morgue and chapel as it was just too dangerous to try and go any further," said Donna Taylor, group member. "We aren't the kind of group who go around defacing buildings, we would never have done it normally but everyone in the area thinks it is about to be demolished, there is white tape all over it saying 'demo'."

So you write on the walls, but don't? HELLO!!! "If we had enough money we would ideally like to save the building and do it up ourselves".

No you wouldn't foolish woman, it's been condemned for years and proposals for its future have long been sorted. "It is an amazing place, we were appalled by the state other people had left it in." Because dear lady, just like you, everybody who's viewed M*** H***** and other similar claptrap have thought the same, let's go and pretend to be Ghostbusters at a lovely place... Flintshire Paranormal claim to search and investigate for evidence of life after death and also offer ghost nights and a free service to businesses and home owners who want answers on paranormal activity. So does every other modern day twerp, can you not start crochet or something worthwhile, go back through the UPIA blogs and realise researching the subject isn't watching TV and becoming an "expert"

The graffiti was discovered and photographed by urban explorer Jim Gillette. Respect to Jim... But... "I wonder if this organisation deface every Grade II listed building they visit," said Mr Gillette. People, condemned and privately owned

"Everybody is pleased that work has finally begun on the building so people need to keep out of there," said Denbigh councillor Raymond Bartley.

"Anybody who is entering the site is ignoring police advice to stay out; they are playing with their lives. "It is extremely dangerous in there and whoever has done this graffiti should be prosecuted. "We need to maintain what we can in there as a listed building whilst we wait for the repair works to be completed."

Ok Raymondo, so let's put our Denbighshire county council hands in our pockets and pay for some security. A Denbighshire County Council spokeswoman said: "Due to theft, vandalism, many years of neglect and the presence of asbestos the former North Wales Hospital Denbigh is now extremely dangerous.

"Entering the building could lead to serious injury and/or long term health problems." A North Wales Police spokesman added: "Officers in the town are warning individuals not to put themselves in danger by entering the disused building which is unsafe."

OK, what's done is done... But let's jump back a few years. Most Haunted at the Denbighshire facility, I was contacted then by the same newspaper which featured this story, and knowing the building and its alleged paranormal related history, was able to offer a thorough statement, concerning

"As a representative of the Unknown Phenomena Investigation Association, and a serious student of paranormal phenomena in all its forms, I am disgusted at the debacle that was last week's 'Village of the Damned' edition of Most Haunted. I have not viewed this programme for a number of years, due to the highly dubious content of the show, so my opinion maybe slightly biased. This aside, due to the locality of the programme, and my associations with local venues, I felt I should watch given the knowledge of the appalling standards set by Most Haunted".

"A week of stupidity greeted my eyes, refraining from hurling my hand control at the TV, but still I watched agape. The use of séances and Ouija boards, as well as the pre watershed content, to me in the digital age encouraged wanna be experts and children to hang around dangerous, disused buildings at night".

"The use of Voodoo dolls, witchcraft and raising the devil using a satanic bible (which no Satanist has ever done) as well as other occult matter in mine and others eyes, has made a mockery of ancient religions in many areas".

"So to the hospital, and mustn't the families of those ex patients viewing be overjoyed with the shows practices. Using religious rights in an area where in the past, the reports of paranormal activity, has only been related to the building, in no way witches, this an area of mythology and folklore, but

Steve Wagner stated on his website:
<http://paranormal.about.com/>

I haven't blogged much about the so-called paranormal "reality" TV shows on my website because I really don't think much of them. They may be entertaining in their own way, but they are hardly reality. Very often they are staged, scripted, even faked to produce the needed entertainment value. There's very little "reality" about them. (I think this goes for just about every reality show out there, not just the paranormal ones.)

This is TV, after all, and their primary goal is to engage and entertain. Ask any real paranormal investigator and they will tell you that 90 percent (if not more) of their investigations produce very little evidence; that's just the nature of the phenomena. Yet every investigation by the teams on TV produce all kinds of evidence, from moving chairs and lamps to ghostly manifestations to psychic contact. Virtually every time.

That's not likely and it's not believable. But the producers have a show to deliver every week and it would be quite a disappointment to viewers if nothing happened. So they make something happen.

The bottom line: if you like watching these shows, fine... but do not accept them at face value.

Stephen Wagner has been an investigator of many aspects of paranormal phenomena for over 30 years. He has written articles for numerous magazines, including FATE, and is the author of "Touched By a Miracle: True Stories of Ordinary People and Extraordinary Experiences". He is also a member of Central New York Ghost Hunters.

now giving the town of Denbigh a stigmata it will not soon relinquish. Yes tourism may be boosted, but on the evidence of a fraudulent TV programme, earning a lot of money out of the towns good people and name".

"Already groups of Most Haunted chasing wannabes are splashed all over the internet to pay them money to visit Denbigh's locations."

"Consumer laws state 'You cannot charge for a service you cannot prove you are performing' Therefore these profiteering people and mediums which travel in their wake are breaking laws which are being overlooked. And my personal favourite. An Exorcist.."

"An exorcism to clear evil influences, again consumer laws, and misleading the public comes into play. An exorcism is a religious blessing which can only be performed by an ordained priest, who has specific permission from the diocese bishop. This permission is generally given as a last resort after counselling, psychiatric and medical approaches have failed to achieve any change in a case. This generally works as a placebo. At present the catholic church has 13 ordained exorcists, controlled by the Vatican. 3 Protestant (exorcists) deliverance ministers and since the 1600's no orthodox ministers. Therefore Who was the exorcist, why was he paraded as such, and why have most haunted stooped to these levels"?

"The UPIA are currently undertaking an experiment to see how quickly and what procedures are in place to become a recognised exorcist, outside of reality. Overall I feel sorry for those misled by Most Haunted; Upset by its content and its continued forays into faked and fraudulent practices, and the fan base it has created. Especially my and other UPIA member's thoughts go out to residents of the town, and family and friends of the hospitals former patients."

Dave Sadler
www.upia.co.uk

My colleague Kirst D'Raven, best worded the furore created in Denbigh and its attraction to the amateur idiot. I include Kirst's original information in full as to understand where I'm going with this.... "Once again I find myself in the winter of my discontent.

Only this time, I have company... Hallowe'en is one of those times of year that you either love or hate – I personally love it, not for its over Americanised trick or treat tradition, its Pagan roots or its rich Celtic history – not even for the rehashed and repeated horrorfest of blood spattered and gore infested pap served up on TV, but because I'm lucky enough to be able to get the chance to rip the piss out of the barmpots who call into the radio phone in which we have been taking part for the last two years on Hallam, Viking and Aire FMs 'Confessional' Show with Ian and Vix."

"Hallowe'en is a pretty dire time for serious paranormal investigators. The press misrepresenting and twisting your comments regarding local phenomena, and you can barely step out of the front door without tripping over some no mark paranormal tourism company, hell bent on relieving the unsuspecting public of their hard earned in return for 'Pay-Per-Boo' 'Vigils' in 'Haunted' locations..."

"This year however, I was lucky. The press have been quite happy to print mine and UPIAs comments very faithfully, and as I mentioned before Ian and Vix know not to expect any woo-woo from us, and quite like the fact that we offer the rational side of paranormal investigation.

Unfortunately that hasn't been the case for some of the other, more influential outlets. I am talking of course about Most Haunted Live."

"I can't watch it – I've tried. I seem to suffer some kind of allergic reaction characterised by a shocked pallor, uncontrollable arm movements, Tourettes like symptoms and an overwhelming feeling of sickness at the mere thought of watching it, but millions still do, and millions are still being misled that this is actually what paranormal investigation is all about."

"I have however tried to keep abreast of what they have been up to down in Denbighshire, partly because I'm a nosey cow, and partly because one of the first texts that came into Hallam FM on the 30th was asking if the person, (called Tracey I believe), who had just appeared on MHL claiming to be the leader of UPIA North Wales was in any way associated with UPIA."

"The resounding answer (which I actually managed without swearing live across the UK airwaves) was of course 'Is she heck as like!! UPIA are a serious investigation and research group, not a mockery of a sham of an untruth!!"

"This little incident did however draw my attention to some of the other reports of the shenanigans going down in deepest Wales, and for once, instead of being amused and slightly pissed off by the inane rambling of mediums, unproductive investigation technique and downright poor acting skills of the crew and cast, I found myself deeply disturbed and horrified."

"Firstly, the fact that the whole week long debacle had been subtitled 'Village of the Damned' can't have done anything for the areas street cred'. Apparently it refers to the dubious and probably unproven legend that witches practiced Satanism in the area and it is now cursed."

Three points should be made here:

1. Witches? by witches do we mean the people who were persecuted and executed as witches during the Witchtrials, when anyone who was classed as an outsider, was old, deformed, ugly, had a cat, a wart or a basic knowledge of the medicinal properties of herbs or refused to give up their beliefs in the 'old religion' was prime target for a quick prod and torture session?

2. Witches that practice Satanism? Surely witches practice Witchcraft? You know – like Pagans practice Paganism, Christians practice Christianity? Satanists practice Satanism?

3. One of the most important facts you find when studying any area of the Occult or Magic is just how difficult it is to find real information. There's a reason for this. It's Secret. There's also a reason why it's secret. The Church doesn't approve. Thus, anyone who knows anything about the occult, Satanism, Magic etc also knows that if any form of practice, celebration or whatever had been performed in that area then nobody would know about it. Ever.

4. Curses. I like curses, they are interesting, but then I'm interested in psychology as a whole. The interesting thing about curses is they only work if you believe in them. That's because it's a psychological thing. If you can make a person believe they are going to die, certain physiological factors come into play which could actually cause death – but only if the person BELIEVES. Now, let's apply this to a place as opposed to a person... err.. doesn't work, does it? The pace can't believe in the curse, the place is not a sentient being.

"So, since we have that out of the way, and discovered that logically there's really no reason to believe that any activity of a paranormal nature is likely to occur there – or from what I can gather has even been reported there, at least not that could be associated with any occult practices, what next?"

Copyright Andre Govia

"Ah yes, the Asylum.. It's a sad fact that in this day and age people do still fear mental illness – for obvious reasons, of course, we wouldn't want it to happen to ourselves or our loved ones, much in the same way we wouldn't want to be afflicted with cancer, pain or even an in-growing toenail."

"What I find even sadder is the stigma which is still attached to psychiatric patients and their families. The ignorant attitude of some individuals that all psychiatric patients are dangerous, and must be restrained with medication, appliances or padded cells. The Selfish and heartless attitude that mental illness is something that we should be ashamed of, that our sick, chemically imbalanced, depressed fellows should be hidden away and not spoken of... this is 2008. This is not the age of Bedlam. Victoria is no longer on the Throne."

I must admit that through the media and education, society has gradually become more tolerant, and the Victorian attitude somewhat less apparent these days."

"People who as little as fifty years ago would have been ushered out of the eyesight of others are now accepted freely among us – and rightly so too! Illness is nothing to be ashamed of, being different is not a crime."

"So why in these enlightened times were Most Haunted allowed to show footage of people in straitjackets, in padded cells, rocking in corners? And did I not read somewhere that one of the experiments conducted featured members of the crew in similar circumstances? Just for this one stupid, insensitive, heartless act this programme should be removed from the listings. I read somewhere a statement from Antix productions (who make MHL) that their approach to filming the investigation at the asylum would be 'sympathetic and sensitive to the feelings of the families of patients and the patients themselves, past and present' or words to that effect. Hmmm..."

"Maybe there was a typo there, maybe they meant 'pathetic and insensitive'. Denbigh closed in 1997; I think it's safe to say that there are still people who will have been offended by those scenes. The other irrational, irrelevant and irresponsible acts included over the seven days the programme was on air are kind of pale in comparison to this, but I'll include them anyway..."

1. Invoking Satan, using the Satanic Bible – presumably the one readily available and written by Anton LaVey?

– I actually own the book, can't remember it saying how to do that, although it's a long time since I read it. And did I hear that the 'protection' used while this invocation was performed was a circle of salt? Just in case the Devil hates salt? Surely the Devil is pure evil, wouldn't think a little salt would bother him..

2. Performing 'Voodoo' rituals using a poppet or likeness into which pins were inserted to cause pain to, in this case, the teams "medium". I'm told the medium actually had to be told where the pins were being inserted too, which is a bit disconcerting as I would have expected any medium who was worth his special most haunted devil repelling salt to have somehow 'Known' (said in a spooky voice) one way or another..

3. Performing Séances. Séances aren't actually used as part of serious paranormal research, neither are table-tilting, Ouija boards, mediums.. in fact any means of gaining information that doesn't have at least some scientific or logical evidence to back it up. This kind of Victorian pastime is usually used by people who are hoping to provide entertainment to the masses.

4. Exorcism. I'm still looking into the actual ins and outs of this one. An exorcism is a religious rite which can only be performed by an ordained and trained priest. The rite must be sanctioned by the bishop of the diocese, and is only ever used as a last resort, and is considered a placebo. The person performing the exorcism must have exhausted all other ways – medical, psychological, environmental etc – to resolve the problems being experienced.

"However... Recent research and experimentation by UPIA has revealed that there are ways and means one can implicate to become regarded as an exorcist, and if one was so inclined possibly make some cash out of it – which is quite disturbing."

"All in all, the whole thing seems to have proved to be a shambles from start to finish. Local councils are up in arms.. traders in fear of their livelihood.. disgruntled residents horrified – not to mention the horrendous way the patients and families have been portrayed and the ancient beliefs and religions of many people made a mockery of – all this AND shown at such a time and glorified in such ways to actively encourage people – particularly the young and unstable – to go wandering around derelict buildings recreating this drive! I say the young and unstable because to be frank you'd have to be to believe it in the first place."

"Personally, If I were involved with Most Haunted I'd give up the Ghost, so to speak. At the very least public apologies should be made for their irresponsible attitude, their insensitivity, their wrongful portrayal of investigative procedure and religious ritual. Not to mention for the damage they are doing to the field of paranormal investigation as a whole. This is without the obvious mention of the fact that from now on, a warning should be broadcast throughout the programme, informing viewers that this programme should be viewed for what it really is – Entertainment Only, and pretty dire entertainment at that.."

So... My point being, Denbighshire county council have know the issues regarding the building for some time, unfortunately they allowed the use of the site by crap TV, known to attract the idiotic The facts have been available for years, the tinterweb is awash with images taken by trespassers, so why has nothing been done to protect the Grade II listed building before; And to be honest, why are other buildings of consequence around the UK also being protected. The Deva asylum facility in Chester is another favourite of the buffoons, and that's just two in one article... Pull your finger out people, if one of these arses does get injured, who's liable?

And Flintshire Paranormal,.. I name and shame you. Let's face it, I guarantee somewhere your promoting yourselves as professional, reliable, honest and scientific. And people are letting you into their homes.... And its they I feel sorry for...

Be Careful Who You Let In Your Home!!!

Use a reputable organisation or establishment, do your homework and check them out first. Check into their conduct, protocols, previous investigations and experience.

If you don't think there may be concerns, check out the story below, found in a newspaper this year...

A self-professed ghost hunter has denied a burglary charge, claiming she was at a disused rest home checking for spirits.

Wanganui woman Billy Rogue, 28, claimed she was on a ghost-hunting mission at the old Jubilee Hospital in Wanganui, New Zealand on Saturday night and not part of a burglary.

She told Judge John Clapham in the Wanganui District Court that she had no idea what her friends were up to at the hospital because she was busy with her adventure.

Standing in the dock, Rogue was leaning out to the public gallery using sign language to her family sitting there.

The court was told copper fittings had been stolen from the old hospital on Saturday night.

Rogue was at the deserted hospital with two friends but insisted she was ghost-hunting because that was her "hobby".

When Judge Clapham remanded her in custody to February 1 2011, she slapped the wall and yelled an obscenity then called out, "bye sister, bye cousins ... love youse", waving as she was led away...

So... Beware who you let in your home. For further advice on such matters, please feel free to contact MAPIT or UPIA at the following websites:

PHILADELPHIA EXPERIMENT UPDATE

The 1960s writer on occult subjects known as Lobsang Rampa, caused a sensation when he documented the Philadelphia experiment, and the reverberations still echo across pages of many books and magazines today, 45 years later. Experts still argue over whether he or his books were genuine. But recently a renegade scientist has duplicated the disputed Philadelphia experiments. To recapitulate, the U. S. S. Philadelphia was said to be an American ship on which an invisibility cloak was to be tested in the 1940s. A peculiar tragedy struck and as a cover up the ships log was altered, causing those interested parties to ask why was it so badly and hurriedly erased from the Naval records ?

Scientists involved were then moved to the Manhattan project, which was ridden with soviet agents, and with the death of top Soviet analyst Georgi Arbatov on October 1st. Papers can be disclosed of how much the Soviets knew of the Philadelphia experiment and the total Manhattan project. Physicists who witnessed the new phenomenon have called the amazing experiments "The Hutchinson Effect", John Hutchinson admits he based his ideas on his childhood heroes, Gene Roddenberry and Nicola Tesla.

He has shown how with Tesla coils, kilner static gyroscopes, Van Der Graaf generators radio frequency generators, radar and other technical wizardry, how to warp the laws of physics and baffle the scientists, he says he just stumbled on how to raise a large steel bar from the floor, and do other levitations. Closely written reports of glass bottles, tools, paper and other items shot across the room, and as in the Roswell reports, hard metal turned to putty, wood has been seen to embed itself into solid aluminium bars, and concrete burst into flames, as in other U.F.O reports. The U S military since 1983 have sponsored his experiments, setting up a rival lab to monitor all effects, in 1984, with no further results. Hutchinson has worked with scientists from Japan, Germany and the U.S. some times the results work other times they do not, but always filmed in close up. One day we may learn what goes on in the small military watched laboratory in Vancouver, until then we too may only speculate...
