Unlike many organisations this summer, MAPIT has been run off their feet with numerous investigations of a paranormal nature throughout Stockport, Wythenshawe and Bury. All of which involve alleged paranormal disturbances in residential homes. We have also had a larger than normal amount of photographs to analyse, some of which are very interesting and may appear in future issues of Phenomena. Apart from that, I have been busy lecturing and attending conferences. One of which was the ET Communication conference at the Static Gallery in Liverpool, which was hosted by, none other than our very own Neal Atkinson from Planet X Radio - City Talk 105.9fm. Further events to come include the 4th Annual Exopolitics Expo on August 4th and 5th at the same location. Television work has been steady, don't forget to look out for Wild Case Files on the National Geographic. This month's issue covers numerous topics. We hope you enjoy it...

SUB-EDITORIAL

Here I am in my refurbished and fully able to use office, surrounded by books to review and with Rock Radio on my DAB radio, what more could a man want? Again the last month, I have been frequenting the mythological and mysterious sites of Derbyshire, and luckily the British weather has allowed me to do so. Roll on August and my month off... I'm heading for Rosslyn!! Still the world of the paranormal, UFOlogical and other related topics have been quiet, with trends throughout the country still significantly lower than normal. I have been lucky to record a podcast with Paul Kimball and was invited to join Paul Ripley on his Odd couple show on Manchester Radio Online, A show we are hoping to make regular. (<http://www.manchesterradioonline.com/>) I did have an occult experience. I went to the Download festival and watched Black Sabbath. They still have it, and the symbology..

(<http://beyonderstv.com/my-podcast-the-other-side-of-truth/dave-sadler-upia-motherfer/>)

THE CURSE OF POLTERGEIST

We look back at the creepy happenings on set of the 'Poltergeist' movies.

It seems that some movies are besieged by unimaginably awful luck, almost unending misery and terrible, terrible events. No, we're not talking about the back catalogue of Rob Schneider, we're talking about so-called 'cursed' films. You've probably heard about a few movies that have been besieged by ill fortune before. Films like 'The Exorcist', 'The Crow', 'Rebel Without A Cause' and 'The Omen'. But perhaps the most cursed motion pictures of all time are the three that make up the '80s horror trilogy, 'Poltergeist'.

June 4th saw the 30th anniversary of the release of the first film and it reminded us of the remarkable and quite disturbing reputation that the Steven Spielberg-produced chiller and its two sequels have ('Poltergeist 2' was made four years later and the third followed in 1988). In the movies, a family is haunted by a host of evil ancient spirits, but it seems that many of the people associated with the films were then haunted by awful luck. Was the production really cursed? Let's find out...

The most remarkable thing about the 'Poltergeist' legacy is the alarming number of cast deaths that occurred post-shoot. In the six years between the first movie and the third, four of the main cast had died. Two were slightly older men, so that's perhaps not all that shocking. Will Sampson (who also played the sink-chucking Indian in 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest') died in June 1987 from complications of his heart surgery and Julian Beck (Henry Kane in the sequel) died of stomach cancer in September 1985.

The saddest deaths though were those of 22 year-old Dominique Dunne, who played Dana in the original, and Heather O'Rourke, who was little Carol Ann from all three films. Dunne was strangled by her abusive ex-boyfriend John Sweeney (who ended up serving less than four years in prison). Immediately after filming wrapped on the last film, Heather was misdiagnosed with Crohn's disease and died due to toxic shock caused by a bowel obstruction missed by doctors. She was just 12-years-old.

It's fair to say that most people would attribute these sad deaths as mere bad luck or happenstance. Some of the people that passed were older and had existing conditions. Plus, a lot of people are involved in a movie shoot (not to mention three), so it's not unimaginable that a number may fall ill or die independently. And with the amount of movies that have been made, sooner or later, there's going to be an 'unlucky' one or two, isn't there? But could there be a more sinister, supernatural explanation? Plenty of superstitious Hollywood insiders think so. Why? For one because the design crew used real human skeletons instead of props in some of the scenes, that's why. Even if that didn't cause the bad luck specifically, it's certainly unsettling!

The disturbing events don't end at the untimely deaths of the cast, though. In fact, so many weird and macabre goings-on transpired during the three blockbusters, that it's truly frightening...

'Poltergeist':

The clown doll that attacks the young boy actually did attack him. Malfunctioning robotics caused the red-nosed trouble-maker to squeeze Oliver Robbins' neck so tightly he went blue and started choking. Whilst filming, the author writing the film's novelisation, James Kahn, was injured after lightning struck his trailer, causing the air-conditioning unit to explode, fly across the room and hit him, causing damage to his lower back.

'Poltergeist II: The Other Side':

Uneasy feelings amongst cast and crew during a scene in a cave reached such levels that filming was halted until an exorcism could be conducted. Who conducted it? The actor who played Taylor the shaman, Will Sampson (who was a real-life shaman). As we know, Sampson died shortly after this.

'Poltergeist III':

Actress Zelda Rubenstein (Tangina Barrons) mysteriously became ill during the shoot and quickly fell into an unexpected and deep depression. That afternoon she received a phone call telling her that her mother had passed away.

A scene in which a garage was on fire got out of hand and engulfed the set in flames. All but one of the crew members on set were injured.

Creepy stuff, we're sure you'd agree. But what do you make of the 'curse' of 'Poltergeist'? Is it just a series of unfortunate occurrences? Or do you think there might be more to it? Let us know...

PARAPSYCHOLOGY & UFO'S

Parapsychology is the scientific study of anomalous phenomena associated with the human mind. It incorporates studies in ESP, Psychokinesis, Precognition, Haunting's and Poltergeist disturbances as well as other phenomena. UFOlogy is the scientific study of Unidentified Flying Objects and incorporates studies in Astronomical, Meteorological phenomena along with alleged extraterrestrial and man made flying craft. Unfortunately, Parapsychology doesn't study many aspects of UFOlogy, but perhaps it should? If Parapsychologists read more into the field of UFOlogy they will then begin to realise that there are many parallels between parapsychological and ufological phenomena...

A Connection?

Carl Jung, the famous psychologist, also theorised that UFOs might have a primarily spiritual and psychological basis.

In his 1959 book "Flying Saucers: A Modern Myth of Things Seen In The Sky", he pointed out that the round shape of most saucers corresponds to a mandala, a type of archetypal shape seen in religious images.

Thus the saucers might reflect a projection of the internal desires of viewers to see them. However, he did not label them as delusions or hallucinations outright; it was more in the nature of a shared spiritual experience.

However, Jung seemed conflicted as to possible origins. At other times he asserted that he wasn't concerned with possible psychological origins and that at least some UFOs were physically real, based primarily on indirect physical evidence such as photographs and radar contact in addition to visual sightings.

He also considered the extraterrestrial hypothesis to be viable. In 1958 the AP quoted him as saying, "A purely psychological explanation is ruled out.

If the extraterrestrial origin of these phenomena should be confirmed, this would prove the existence of an intelligent interplanetary relationship.

That the construction of these machines proves a scientific technique immensely superior to ours cannot be disputed."

Wikipedia

If one looks into both fields of study then they will realise that there are many similarities between both types of phenomena which I believe is worthy of any parapsychologist studying. I myself am a qualified professional parapsychologist and am also a qualified ufologist and am interested very much interested in the UFO phenomenon as a scientific field of study, In fact there is more scientific and overwhelming evidence than any other paranormal phenomenon to suggest that UFOs and alien entities are real whether they be extraterrestrial or interdimensional! If you look into cases regarding parapsychological and UFOlogy then you realise that certain fields of parapsychological study and ufology may in fact be one and the same phenomenon, Depending on the belief system of the witness and experiencer, Perhaps an outside paranormal intelligence manifests itself as a ghost or apparition to one witness and an alien entity to another depending on there religious or personal belief system.

There are cases in UFOlogy where witnesses have had a close encounter with a UFO and have afterwards been subjected to a host of parapsychological phenomena. There have been reported Psychokinetic effects around the person who had a UFO experience manifesting poltergeist type phenomena around the home and ESP and precognition warnings about future events. When a UFO experiencer has witnessed an alien entity, some of beings have been reported as almost apparitional in nature. They have been seen to walk through bedroom walls and also vanish at will, almost like a ghost! The beings themselves also seem to produce a telepathic bond between the said entity and witness who state that they can regularly contact the beings they are being abducted by or contacted. In the 1950s and 60s the alien contactee movement was rife with alleged people who were said to be in regular contact with alien creatures from another world. In parapsychology this is known as clairvoyance experiences where the alleged psychic is said to contact the spirits of the deceased.

When a person experiences an alleged alien abduction, they are said to become paralysed and then seem to levitate through a tunnel of light into a UFO above, this seems remarkably like Out Of the Body experiences or Near Death Experiences where a witness is said to have travelled through a tunnel of light into the spiritual plane where they have been known to communicate with deceased loved ones or friends. In the case of UFO abductions they meet alien beings. If a witness never experienced psychic phenomena before having a UFO encounter but then did so after the incident, then parapsychologists can look for what instigated the phenomena in the first place.

Did the UFO somehow alter their chemical makeup or physiology whilst having the encounter? Perhaps the electromagnetic field of a person was somehow altered that then produced psychic phenomena to occur (if it is electromagnetic fields that incur paranormal occurrences in the first place).

There are also cases of people becoming artistic and musical minded and also people that become psychic healers, although never have shown these talents before a UFO encounter. It is worth the parapsychologist studying what happened during a UFO event and why these physiological changes happened to occur to the person as to cause psychic disturbances.

There are parapsychologists who study certain areas of UFOlogy, specifically alien abduction associated with sleep paralysis.

Dr. Susan Blackmore is one and Professor Chris French is another. In the states Dr. Michael Persinger has done much research into the alien abduction phenomenon. The experience described usually begins at home in bed asleep or sometimes on a deserted road. In the bedroom, a blinding light is seen through the bedroom window.

On the road, a UFO is often witnessed. In the bedroom scenario, the witness becomes paralysed and usually just able to move their head or eyes. On the road, the witness is usually found to be driving along the road with a missing time episode. In the bedroom, the witness encounters small grey creatures about 4ft tall which are seen to enter the room, sometimes through walls other times they are already there. The beings are usually described as having over-larged shaped heads, large black almond shaped eyes, small mouth and just barely a nose.

The witness is then levitated out of bed to an awaiting UFO above and then have medical procedures performed on them. Afterwards, they wake up in bed with usually no memory of the nights event and sometimes they find small scoop marks on their bodies, wondering where they got them from. Later they may recall strange dreams about being on the craft and then they may want to undergo questionable regressive hypnosis to try and unlock the strange nights encounter.

This is the usual phenomenological characteristics of a typical alien abduction case. But are they really being abducted by extraterrestrial or inter dimensional beings? Or are they experiencing a lucid dream associated with sleep paralysis?

Some abductee's recall their experiences spontaneously whilst some only remember in therapy, support groups, or under hypnosis.

We know that memories can be changed and even completely created using hypnosis, peer pressure and repeated questioning. Confabulation can often take place. However, there are many reports of conscious recall of abduction experiences without hypnosis or multiple interviews, and the role of false memory is still not clear. Another theory is that the experiencers are mentally ill. This theory receives little or no support from the literature. The late Investigator, Bud Hopkins found that his abductees were above average intelligence and had no signs of serious psychopathology among nine of his subjects.

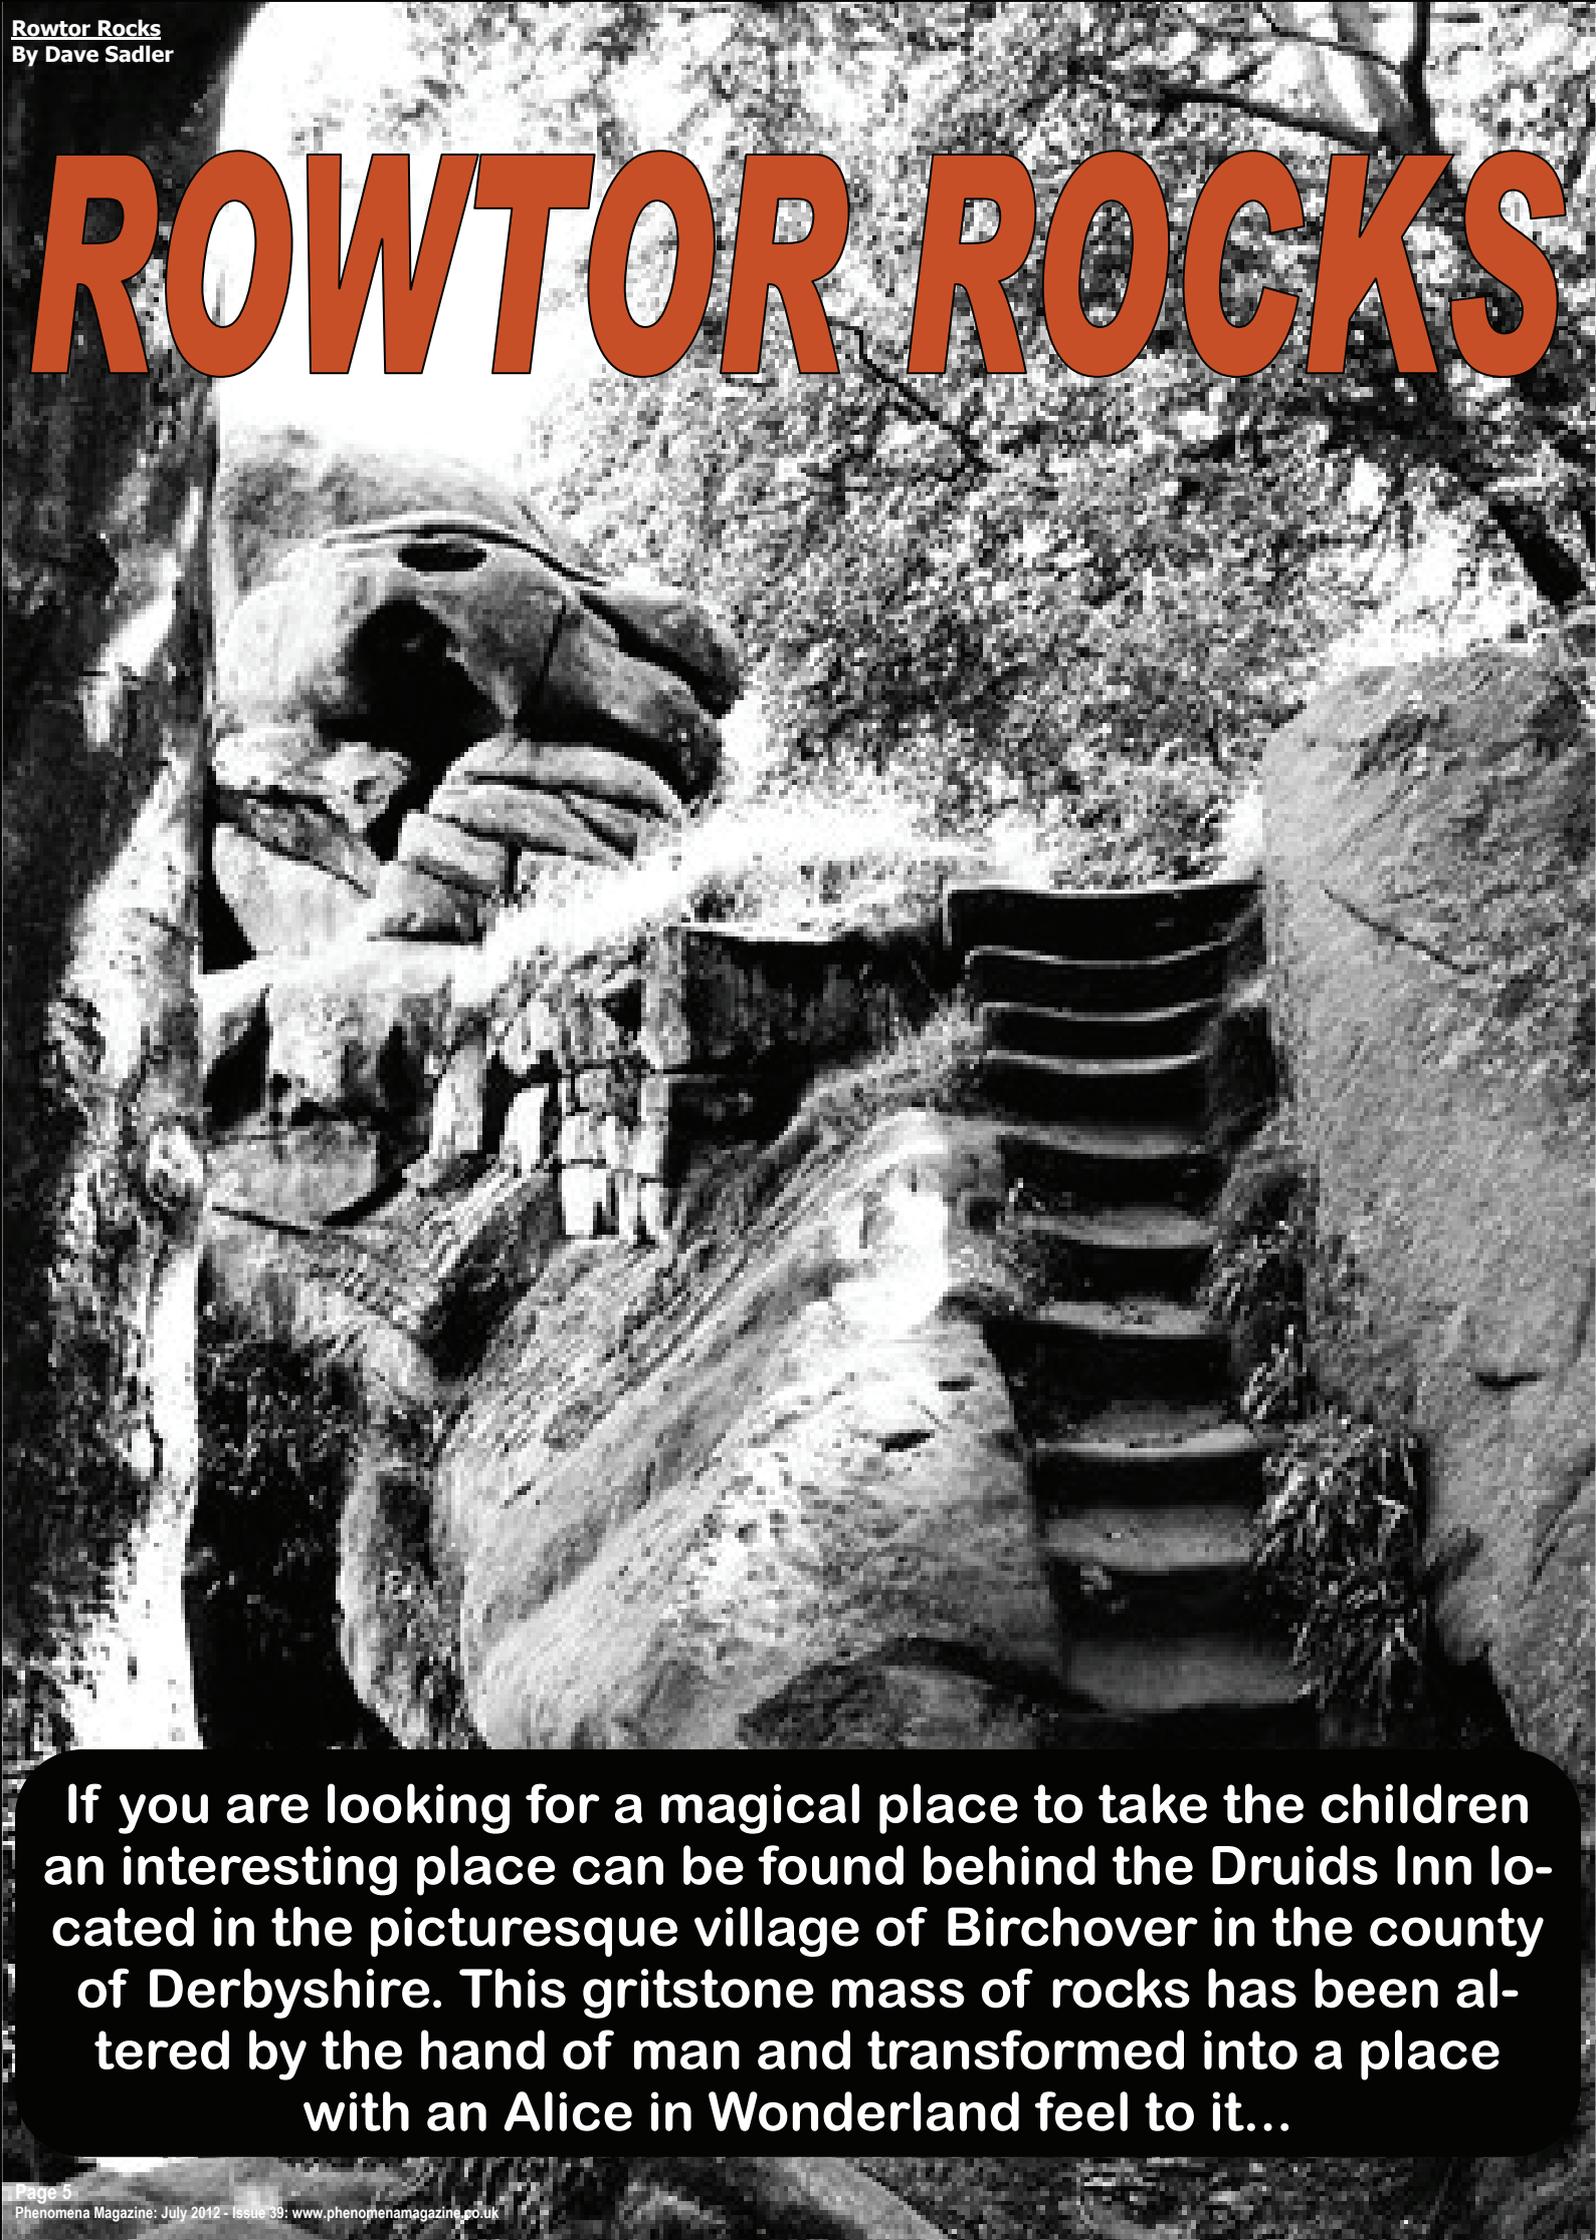

And the psychologist, Parnell in 1988 found no evidence of psychopathology among 225 individuals who reported having seen a UFO, although not having been abducted. More recently another psychologist, Spanos in 1993, compared 49 UFO reportees with two control groups and found that they were no less intelligent, no more fantasy prone, and no more hypnotisable than the controlled group, nor did they show any signs of psychopathology. They did however, believe more strongly in alien visitations, suggesting that, such beliefs allow people to shape ambiguous information, diffuse physical sensations and vivid images into a realistic alien encounter.

Temporal lobe lability is also another theory. People with relatively temporal lobes are more prone to fantasy, and more likely to report mystical and out of body experiences, visions and psychic phenomena. However, the psychologist, Spanos found no difference in a temporal lobe lability scale between their UFO reportees and control groups. Psychologist, Cox in 1995, compared a group of 12 British abductees with both a matched control group and, again, found no difference in the temporal lobe lability scale. Like Spanos's subjects, the abductees were more often believers in alien visitations than were the controls. The final theory which I believe is the most plausible is that abductions are elaborations of sleep paralysis.

In a typical sleep paralysis episode, a person wakes up paralysed, senses a presence in a room, feels fear or even terror and may hear humming or buzzing sounds or even seeing strange lights. A visible of invisible entity have been known to sit on their chests, shaking, strangling or prodding them.

Again this is also reported in diabolical haunting's where witnesses are said to have been attacked or raped in their sleep by demonic spirits called incubus or succubi. Attempts to fight the paralysis are usually unsuccessful. It is reputedly more effective to relax or try to move the eyes or a single finger or toe. Descriptions of sleep paralysis are written in many abduction and haunting books...

ROWTOR ROCKS

If you are looking for a magical place to take the children an interesting place can be found behind the Druids Inn located in the picturesque village of Birchover in the county of Derbyshire. This gritstone mass of rocks has been altered by the hand of man and transformed into a place with an Alice in Wonderland feel to it...

To find your way to the rocks simply stand in the car park of the Druids Inn and you will see a stone wall directly in front of the Inn, follow the wall to your left and you will travel down a track which leads to the church, at the end of the wall which is only about 50 yards in length you will come to a small opening, follow this and it will lead you up into Rowtor Rocks.

Although it has been speculated that Rowtor Rocks has some sort of a connection with the Druids apparently this is not the case, it seems that the Druids Inn has been a meeting place in the past of the Ancient Order of Druids and the connection to the rocks probably came about in Victorian times, possibly as a way of making the site more interesting and promoting it to attract more visitors.

The rocks are riddled with secret paths and carved steps and each turn you make as you explore will reveal something different. However if you are willing to spend more time here and dig a little deeper, there are other secrets to discover. There are an abundance of carvings to find. On one of the rocks of a serpent another has a quartered circle with cup and petal motifs, and I was also able to find more that one if you follow the overgrown path from the end of the Druid's Inn wall which leads up onto Rowtor Rocks the path will lead you to a cave, this is just one such feature natural and manmade that you can find here which have been created by a man called Thomas Eyre about three hundred years ago, and who used to be the local Parson of the church which Rowtor Rocks overlooks. It is believed that Thomas Eyre who used to live at Rowtor Hall had commissioned fonts and chairs to be carved out of the gritstone rock and these can still be clearly seen if you wander around and look for them.

It has been speculated that Thomas would sit up on Rowtor Rocks in his carved chair and get inspiration to write his sermons while looking across the landscape, which back in those days wouldn't have been obscured by the trees which now block the view, however in certain places you can still catch glimpses of the views that would have been seen from here which would include Cratcliffe Rocks and Robin Hood's Stride.

Rowtor Rocks is roughly about 80 yards in length and about 50 ft in height and back in the 19th and early 20th century there had used to be a paid tourist guide to show members of the general public the many secrets that can be found in these rocks.

There had used to be a rock which weighed about 50 tons near the end of Rowtor Rocks which could be rocked by hand, however back in 1799 fourteen young men decided to move it, how they achieved this is not known but when it was relocated it no longer was balanced right and now no longer rocks!

Luckily my visit was so calm and sedate, no other person around, and only the distant sound of a strimmer to break the tranquillity. There are several areas where severe drops to the woods below are a safety issue, and quite a few trip and slip hazards.

This is a location, which cannot be described as well as it can be viewed. There are so many other places to visit within 1500metres, Caves, Cairns, Tumuli, Stone circles and the scenery is fantastic.

Unfortunately, locations such as this do attract the half witted. I have found numerous wild claims of modern occult worship at the site, as well as the Ghost experts photographing orbs and suggesting they are the first manifestations of spirit.

There is more than one cave to enter, and again, said halfwits have christened them – The Condemned mans cave, the high priests caves and the black magic caves. Something tells me that wasn't what Thomas Eyre called them.

Visit Rowtor Rocks, My words and images cannot do them justice....

SPOOKY GOINGS ON...

Hello my names Craig Jones - Team member of the G.S.S Gloucestershire Supernatural Seekers.

Although we are a small team the members Grant Wiseman, Candy Jones, Sarah Parson, Ken & Debbie Harris have been extremely busy researching and going through evidence from past events. We are finding more and more interesting videos and EVP's but this article is focused on a photo taken around December 2011. I decided to write in again as the team find this photo very interesting. The picture was taken in a haunted inn in Gloucester. I was using a Nikon 5400 full spectrum camera with fixed infrared lights. I was taking photo's around the bar area (no flash was used). On the preview screen I could see a collection of colours and a mass that I did not see when taking the photo. After reviewing on the pc the team agree there is a light source forming into a manifestation.

The interesting thing about this photo is whilst visiting the Inn three weeks later I spoke to a lady who said a medium had picked up on three ghostly monks, I was shown the area. I then explained that I took the photo in the same area the monks had been sensed by the medium. I have shown the photo to many friends and followers of G.S.S and they have said they can see three faces. I also sent it on to one of the UK's leading paranormal groups for advice. They also believe the photo has a light form in it and three faces could be seen. We have lots of videos and photo's on our face book page G.S.S - Gloucestershire Supernatural Seekers so please join us and be part of our journey.

Beyond Best Evidence: The UFO Enigma is a feature-length documentary that will take the cases shown in Best Evidence, as well as a couple of new ones that highlight what appear to be some of the more "high strangeness" aspects of the phenomenon, and explore with the three key possible explanations with world's leading experts on the subject, as follows:

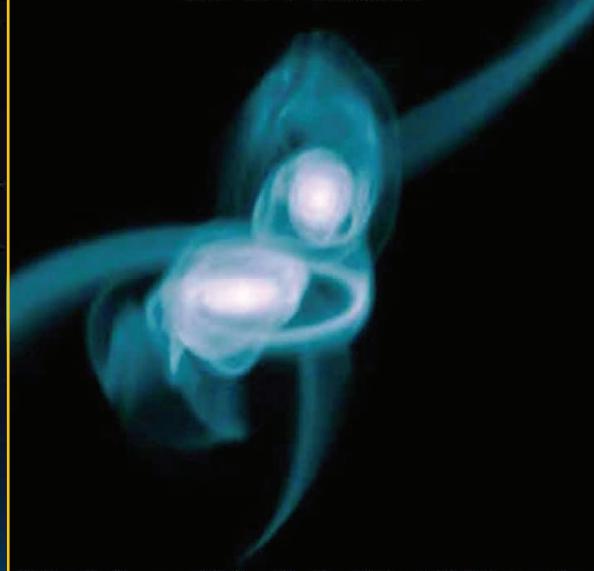

1. Extraterrestrial Hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO sightings represent proof of visitation to Earth by advanced extraterrestrials from another world, most likely within what proponents term of "local galactic neighbourhood."
2. Interdimensional Hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO sightings involve visitations from other "realities" or "dimensions" that co-exist alongside our own. It also holds that UFOs are a modern manifestation of a phenomenon that has occurred throughout recorded human history, which in prior ages were ascribed to mythological or supernatural forces and creatures.
3. Psychosocial hypothesis - This explanation maintains that UFO Sightings can be explained by psychological or social means, examples of which include wishful thinking, hallucinations, hoaxes, and misidentification of prosaic objects, such as satellites, aircraft, or natural phenomena.

The Silhouettes that Haunt Man The Shadow men at large

I recently read Brian Allen's article in a magazine and I thought I may be able to contribute to the information regarding 'shadow men'. This is a subject that interests me greatly, I have been researching the history of shadow men and other such shadow creatures as I am writing a book on the very subject. While doing so I came across some witness reports of possible shadow men encounters that seem slightly out of place. Although superficially resembling the 'typical' shadow man in appearance their behaviour is markedly different.

For this reason I call these creatures 'Silhouette men' I don't know if they are a seemingly more adventurous 'sub-species phenomena' or a completely different type of entity that due to its incorporeal nature just happens through chance or deliberate act to look like a silhouette of a human.

Shadow People.

What was that? Some natural shadow? Your heightened imagination? A ghost? Or was it something that seems to be a spreading phenomenon - apparitions that are coming to be known as "shadow people" or "shadow beings." Perhaps this is an old phenomenon with a new name that is now being discussed more openly, in part thanks to the Internet. Or maybe it's a phenomenon that, for some reason, is manifesting with greater frequency and intensity now.

Those who are experiencing and studying the shadow people phenomenon say that these entities almost always used to be seen out of the corner of the eye and very briefly. But more and more, people are beginning to see them straight on and for longer periods of time. Some experiencers testify that they have even seen eyes, usually red, on these shadow beings.

The mysterious sightings have become a hot topic of conversation in paranormal chat rooms, message boards and websites, and it is given widespread attention on paranormal talk radio.

What are shadow people and where do they come from?

First let's look at the similarities between shadow men and silhouette men. Both appear to be humanoid in size and rough dimensions are usually around 5 – 6 feet tall and often with long dangling arms and legs. They are thin with heads that seem slightly too big (often described as looking like a typical 'grey alien like' but in silhouette and taller). They are obviously pitch black with no discernable features for the most part although some witnesses have described them as having 'glowing red eyes' but whether this is an afterthought imprinted on a already confused and scared psyche is not known. These entities or creatures are often described as looking like a cardboard cut out of a person's shadow, a two dimensional creature that moves in a three dimensional world.

They are frequently seen looking or doing something else when spotted by the witness who seem to catch them completely off guard. It is interesting to note that it is commonly reported that witness see them first as the silhouette seems unaware of their presence or more commonly it seems preoccupied with something else and is completely caught off guard by the presence of the person seeing them. This could suggest that these entities are not expected to be seen and may believe that they are invisible by a means we don't understand.

Here is where much of the similarities end. Firstly they are almost exclusively described as male whereas shadowmen have been reported to appear as either sex. Secondly when these silhouette men have realised that they are being watched they turn round to face the surprised and scared witness/es. Although it is not overtly said that they turn around as they don't have an obvious front or back in the traditional sense.

It is inferred that a mental feeling, a psychic shock if you will, is sent out to the witness/es confirming knowledge that they know you can see them. They then make their approach towards the witness/es. Sometimes their movement is described as shambling or limping other times they appear to be floating. Inevitably the witness/es makes a hasty retreat upon which these creatures give chase. Reports have stated that the creatures have even attempted to gain access to the witness/es home if that is where the witness/es ran to. Once, they have even been seen to look into the windows apparently trying to see where these frightened people have escaped to. After a few minutes the creatures seem to loose interest and wander off never to be seen again. On this particular occasion there were two witnesses to these events which would suggest that a psychological problem was not the cause and according to the report they had not been drinking or using drugs. For the sake of argument and the fact that it would be impossible to prove we will accept this as true. Interestingly, some reports are of more than one person seeing the 'silhouette man' at the same time and during morning hours when light was good if not at full strength.

Another witness report stated that the creature seems to be psychically screaming at them. It could be that if this is indeed a type of unknown entity it was either an effort to communicate that went very wrong or it could be an intentional effort to cause distress to the witness. We may never know the reason but fear and terror were the results. The entity was described as floating as it came into view through the door way where the witness was located. When it saw the witness it tried to reach for them by stretching its arms, which seemed to extend to an unnaturally long length as if for some unexplained reason it couldn't enter the room in which the person was sitting. In keeping with the other witness report after the failed attempt to reach the witness the creature walked away from where it came. Within this report there are suggestions that the entity, although clearly not flesh and blood, used doorways and stairs like a solid animal would although it may be assumed that it doesn't need to.

So what can we make of these reports? Having more than one witness to a report seems to rule out psychological problems and not all drugs including psychedelic drugs have the same effect on each person. Therefore there is no reason to assume even if drugs were involved that they would have witnessed the same thing. Often witnesses report a feeling of nausea or headaches. Could this be from an attempt at psychic communication from the silhouette men that we simply cannot understand and our human attempt to block whether we are aware of it or not? Is the feeling of dread purely psychological as a fear of the unknown or are these creatures really stalking us?

As previously mentioned these creatures are often reported as appearing two dimensional in our three dimensional world. How? One possible explanation given is that of entities travelling in a different dimension or a fourth dimension. How would we look to a person or creature travelling in a fourth dimension looking at a three dimensional world? Would we look as strange to them as they do to us? Would communication be nigh on impossible? It is equally possible as Brian Allen stated that we could be glimpsing into a different world when the conditions are right, the mind is susceptible and open to such things.

The Scole report mentions the contacts it makes with people from a different dimension which have many of the similar characteristics of shadow men and silhouette men encounters. This could also possibly explain why some people have reported successfully psychically projecting a barrier between themselves and the entity, effectively a 'go away' statement of a psychic wall. Perhaps this refocuses the mind into seeing only this dimension so to the viewer the silhouette man simply vanishes. It could also be possible that the negative blocking signals being sent out by the person is painful or at least unsettling for the entity upon which it decides to leave. This could explain why sometimes they are said to vanish 'like flicking off a light' and other times simply walk away or fade. It may also take a lot of energy from the entity to become visible to us and if it cannot communicate it might just give up and try someone else or try a different approach.

It is possible that this is why some people have reported being touched by entities resembling shadow and silhouette men and why many cases seem to happen during the hours of sleep where the mind is more detached from the physical reality that it normally encounters.

Both theories could be acceptable and that these silhouette men are a physical entity in their dimension but not in ours or at least only semi-corporeal in our world and are for the most part invisible to our senses probably again due to being in a different plain of existence. So they seem genuinely startled when it becomes apparent that you can see them, possibly they themselves become scared and defensive, which is what the witnesses may also be feeling. It may also explain why repeated appearances of these entities occasionally happen to the same witness but results in a different outcome as the entities are this time prepared to be seen and therefore don't act shocked. The same may not be said for the terrified witness.

When examining ancient history these types of encounters have been mentioned by tribes and ancient civilisations for centuries although called many different things and sometimes thought of as demons, spirits or ghosts. The Aztecs, Mayans, as well as the Japanese and ancient Greeks and Romans had folklore regarding shadow like or black smoke like creatures. It is common in these ancient civilisations that many of their gods, and demons were regarded as shape-shifters and able to take many forms although there would usually be a common link between them all (glowing eyes, same skin colouring or a distinctive smell). It is entirely possible that if these creatures, whatever they are, do indeed exist that this humanoid form is just one of many forms they take, maybe specifically when trying to communicate with us.

They did however often appear to be an omen of impending ill although not exclusively. As with many workings of ancient civilisations myths and folklore were changed and modified by the people that came after them especially if they have an opposing religious significance often demonising the old gods and deities and promoting their new gods. But if you look hard enough, there are some tell tail signs that these creatures have been around for a long time in the background, in the dark, in the shadows. Maybe they have always been there, a natural part of our psychic landscape that our ancestors were only too well aware of, and accepted much easier than we do today. Maybe they are entities relegated to the shadows by scientific enlightenment that only occasionally get the opportunity to show themselves or at least a shadow of their former selves.

The last point I think worth mentioning is of a group of creatures called Cormons. These creatures are little known now but were known at least to the more magical elite of the Druids. Folklore states that they were summoned by our ancient Celtic ancestors as a way of protecting our lands from any enemies. They were brought to 'life' by a Druid ritual and were described as dark humanoid creatures that cannot be killed or stopped but can only be cast back into where they came.

They would be released when news of danger was received and they would hunt their enemies creating fear to make them more powerful. They could take the shape of anything although always maintained their shadow-like colouring. It was believed that these creatures were pulled from another plain of existence to do mans bidding and then put back once their usefulness was over. However, there are also stories that the longer they stayed in our world the stronger and less obedient they became. Given enough time they became strong enough to refuse their masters and go their own way to decide who the enemy was and who to prey on.

Could these ancient creatures and the modern shadow and silhouette men be related or indeed one and the same thing? Will we ever know enough about the world around us and the way our minds interpret the stimuli we are constantly bombarded with to ever find out if these creatures are fact or fantasy? To people who have seen them the answer is clear, to the rest of us and the scientific community the answers could be dimensions away...

The dark countenance and malevolent feelings that are often reported in association with these creatures has led some researchers to speculate that they may be demonic in nature. If they are demons, we have to wonder what their purpose or intent is in letting themselves be seen in this manner. Is it merely to frighten?

STRANGE PHENOMENA INVESTIGATIONS PUBLIC UFO & PARANORMAL DISCUSSION MEETINGS.

I would like to inform you that the meetings of local Hastings paranormal research group, Strange Phenomena Investigations, (SPI) will be resuming from Saturday 16th June 2012 to December 15th 2012.

WHAT ARE THESE MEETINGS ABOUT?

The nature of holding these meetings is to give you the public, an opportunity to attend meetings such as this and for you to find out what's going on within the confines of the 'weird and wonderful'. These meetings also give you a voice, and opportunity to ask any questions, raise any points and essentially participate in what we call the paranormal.

These meetings are also a focus point for you to inform us of any strange paranormal experiences that you might have had. Everything will be treated in the strictest of confidence and hopefully we can find some form of solution to what it was you observed.

These meetings will also comprise of discussions on UFOs, Ghosts, Poltergeists, Cryptozoology, Ancient Astronauts, Conspiracy Theories and many aspects of the paranormal. We will also be showing TV shows on UFOs and the Paranormal. SPI founder Malcolm Robinson will be at a later stage be giving lectures on ghosts, UFOs and all things 'weird and wonderful'. But in the main, these meetings are 'For You.' Share your views feelings and thoughts on subjects which are currently outside science and join like minded people who share the passion for all things weird.

THE CINQUE PORTS PUB

This pub was established in the seventeenth century – formerly called Cinque Port Arms. A splendidly (and appropriately) olde-worlde little pub in the heart of the old town. Everything is just what you'd hope for in such a location - excellent real ales on the hand pumps, exposed oak, beams, old-fashioned service, locals who could have been there twenty years or twenty minutes and a dark and cosy atmosphere. Apart from the odd bit of the 20th century technology, dotted here and there, you get the feeling that this place has stayed more or less the same over the centuries, let's hope it continues. (Review found on a pub web site) By the way folks, this pub is haunted!

PLEASE NOTE

SPI reserve the right to change these dates if other events transpire to make these dates invalid. Always check before travelling. For more information e-mail Malcolm at malckyspi@yahoo.com or check Malcolm's Facebook at www.facebook.com/malcolm.robinson2

GETTING TO THE VENUE

TRAINS

You can get regular South Eastern trains to Hastings from London Victoria and London Charring Cross Train Stations. The train from London is roughly 1 hour and 40 minutes. There is a taxi rank right outside Hastings train station.

BY CAR & PARKING

There are parking facilities at the Stade (where the Hastings old black fishermen's huts are at Hastings Old Town) and from there it's a short walk to All Saints Street.

WALKING FROM THE TRAIN STATION

For more information on these upcoming meetings.

Please contact Malcolm on either of the following: SPI Meetings, Flat 5, Unicorn House, Croft Road, Hastings, East Sussex, TN34 3HE. Telephone: 07949 178 835. e-mail: malckyspi@yahoo.com Malcolm's Facebook at www.facebook.com/malcolm.robinson2 If you don't have a computer then a map can be sent to you on request showing the venue. If you do have a computer, the type in the address of the Cinque Ports pub (details above) for location.

We look forward to seeing you at these discussion meetings. Be there or be forever square.

Dissonance and the True Believer

A short time ago I wrote an article called 'The End of Days...Daze' which pondered on why obvious and blatant End Times nonsense, the more outrageous the better, is eagerly snapped up and accepted by various groups of 'true believers'. I wondered why, what was the attraction? Now there seems to be a good reason for it. Why do you suppose that a disparate group of people who band together under whatever belief system, be it Ufological, religious or some other off-the-wall cult (although you could argue that they are part and parcel of the same thing) become convinced that they are correct even when they are repeatedly proven wrong? Before looking at the rationale and logic behind this phenomenon we should first look at a few groups that fall precisely within this category.

One of the prime contenders that absolutely typify this mindset originated in the tidal wave of UFO groups that began in the late 1940's early 1950's. They were originally called 'The Seekers', but later adopted the title (and this is much more impressive) 'The Brotherhood of the Seven Rays'. With a name like that it is likely that they attracted a wide range of members with a latent pseudo-mystical/quasi-religious bent. The group was founded in 1954 by a Chicago housewife, Mrs Dorothy Martin, although clearly aware of her own divinity she quickly adopted the name, 'Sister Thedra'. Given her self-appointed mission this title better suited her views of both her abilities and place in the great scheme of things. She was what is commonly referred to as a 'channeller' and probably significantly had previously been involved with Ron Hubbard's system of Dianetics, which was and still is a technique developed to promote mental health. It should be stressed that this is not necessarily directly connected to Scientology, although it obviously has many close similarities. Given Dorothy Martin/Sister Thedra's background it is scarcely surprising that her group incorporated many of the techniques which later emerged in the Scientology movement....

Theories.

Sister Thedra was considered blessed by her followers, mainly because she had (by her own admission) been chosen to receive messages via a mediumistic system called 'automatic writing'. This involves the person (who is invariably also either a medium or a channeller; although in effect there is little or no difference) falling into a slight trance and allowing themselves to become possessed by an external intelligence. The 'intelligence' then conveys its message onto a piece of paper via a pen or pencil, which is held in one of the channellers' hands.

At any rate the good Sister conveyed a series of apocalyptic messages from altruistic aliens on the distant planet 'Clarion' prophesying the imminent inundation of planet Earth by floods (evidently the first biblical attempt was not enough). This is a curious concept, since to inundate the entire planet there would have to be more water on it than was already there in the first place and the only way that might occur would be through global warming, something that was not even thought of at that time. There was even a date set: the early hours of the 21st of December 1954, very precise so you can't say fairer than that.

She must have touched nerve in some sections of the populace; (mind you there is always ready market among the gullible for this kind of outré stuff), and she attracted many devotees. The general idea was, as with many similar groups, Marshall Applewhite's 'Heavens Gate' was another, but considerably more tragic example, that the chosen few will be swept up in a flying saucer and taken to the home planet of their erstwhile saviours and as we will soon see there are still variants on this belief system around today. Such was their level of certainty of those who flocked to Sister Thedra that they abandoned secure jobs, left their wives and/or husbands and gave away their possessions in the knowledge that they would be saved.

However, (isn't there always a 'however'?), the predicted events did not happen. According to the channelled messages, just before midnight on the 20th of December a representative from Clarion would arrive at the house and lead the believers to the warm sanctuary of a spacecraft that would be conveniently parked nearby for boarding. Sadly, this representative did not appear: well, catastrophe, what to do? 4 AM came and went and there was still no couier/flight attendant had arrived, quite understandably the group was stunned and Sister Thedra began to cry and lament: but a solution soon (and conveniently) followed. At around 5PM another channelled message was received by the still weeping Sister Thedra; God had decided to spare the earth from destruction because this little group had kept the faith and 'spread so much light that He had saved the world from destruction'; much jubilation and joy ensued.

There are many other examples of this, although with no corresponding predictions of destruction, too many to detail here, but here are a few, 'The Industrial Church of The New world Comforter' and 'The Nation of Islam'. The Industrial Church of The New world Comforter was the 1973 invention of Allen Michael in response to telepathic contact with UFOs. Michael, formerly known by the more prosaic surname of Noonan, had experienced at least two UFO contacts; one in 1947 and another in 1954 at Giant Rock (it stands seven stories high) in the Mojave Desert.

It should come as no surprise to learn that the rock stands on ground once leased by UFO contactee George van Tassel and has been the site of several UFO conferences. Michael also released his vision of salvation in a book entitled 'The Everlasting Gospel', which became the standard bible of his group, now styling itself as 'The One World Family'. We should bear in mind the almost seismic changes occurring during this period of the 1960's when the New Age had begun to take root and groups such as this sprang up like the macrobiotic food (including hallucinogenic mushrooms) that they consumed.

These groups are lightweights compared to the 'E-Bible Fellowship' from the United States (where else?) who loudly proclaim that Jesus Christ, presaged by violent earthquakes and great calamity, will return in all his glory on May the 21th 2011. It might be churlish to suggest that this group are obviously trying to upstage other End Times proponents who put the date a little later at the 23rd of December 2012. This group run by Chris McCann and the 89 year old Harold Camping, both avid Christian evangelical fundamentalists, insist that Jesus disowned churches and all they stood for in 1988 and when He returns it's no good heading to the nearest church for salvation because anyone who does is automatically doomed.

They base their alarming prediction on their own highly individual interpretation of the bible and Pastor Camping goes as far as to say, "Beyond the shadow of a doubt, May 21 will be the date of the Rapture and the day of judgment," Rather more enigmatically, in answer to those who pooh-pooh this idea as one among many end time prophecies, the equally certain Chris McCann says that. "It would be like telling the Wright brothers that every other attempt to fly has failed, so you shouldn't even try," It has to be said though that other fringe religious group are also joining the general furor about it and adding their collective voices to that of Pastor Camping in awaiting His return. 2008 has also been claimed as the beginning of the end when the first trumpet sounded with the crash of the US economy and the corresponding worldwide meltdown of financial markets. Strange is it not that money, the root of all evil, is seen as the precursor to the apocalypse, but then again this all starts with cynical affront of American evangelical and Pentecostal 'prosperity ministries'.

Typically they all are of the opinion that the return of Christ will herald 'The Rapture' when everyone reading this article will be doomed, but the thing is that even the Bible says that Christ will return at some unspecified point in the future and the Christian faithful of the W.A.S.P. (White Anglo Saxon Protestant) variety will be bodily raised into heaven. It is groups like the E-bible Fellowship who accept the Bible as the literal, revealed word of God rather than the mixture of history, allegory, metaphor, magick, gnosis and fable that it actually is. Unlikely as it might seem these believers are absolutely convinced that the idea of physical levitation is a given and when the End Times come and the Antichrist

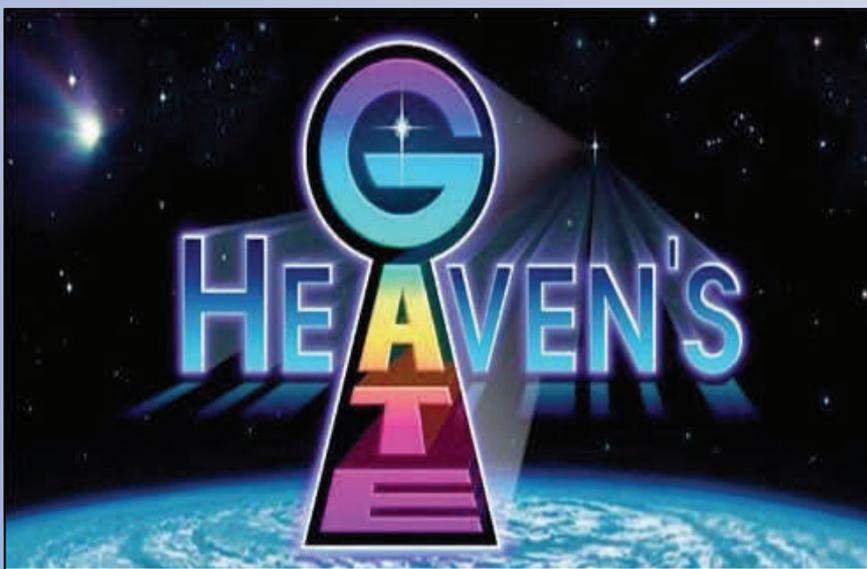

Phillip Lamy, a cultural anthropologist at Castleton College in Vermont recently wrote

"I really believe that Ufology is going to be the next world religion. We live in secular times and Ufology is a religion that even aethiests might enjoy. The idea that there are super-evolved intelligent beings out there is one that appeals to a lot of people."

What persuaded him to write this? It is a matter of record that some right-wing religious zealots and organisations in the USA have openly expressed vehement opposition to UFO 'believers', to the point of suggesting in one particular newsletter that they should be "stoned to death!"

More recently ABC news in America listed what they perceived to be the world's most dangerous cults on their web site. Included among them was Stephen Greer's CSETI oragnisation.

What has caused this anti-UFO hysteria and is it justified? I would very much like to hear the comments of some of you free thinkers in this group...The more controversial, the better...

As well as scientific advantages it has been well documented that the Nazis were also diligently seeking advancement through spiritual powers. Tales of occult research and practices have also found their way in historical books about the Third Reich.

One organisation that seemed to fascinate the German hierarchy was a mystical organization called the Vrtil Society. This Vrtil Society claimed that they could contact the beginnings of the Aryan Race from extra or ultra-terrestrials.

Though the German scientists have claimed to learn a great deal about the manufacturing of cigar and saucer-shaped craft from these contacts with spiritual entities, it was reported that they could never understand "the Vrtil" (or the force) to propel these constructions.

emerges, they, and they alone, will be raised up into the air to remain in safety while the rest of humanity suffers in what they call 'The Tribulation'. The number designated for salvation is, for reasons best known to the believers, remarkably specific at 144,000. They are always remarkably good at defining precisely who, when and what will occur.

They base their beliefs on the following biblical prophesy: Thessalonians 4:16-17 says, 'And the dead in Christ will rise first: then we who are alive, who are left, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we shall always be with the Lord'. They see nothing odd or unusual about this, and actively embrace it as a received truth; in fact it draws a parallel with the Islamic belief that the faithful who die in the service of Allah will live forevermore in Allah's garden and every whim will be attended to by 70 beautiful virgins. Although one fate is rather more pragmatic and earthy than the other, they do both allude to war and strife as the backdrop of their salvation. Despite the fact that the ethos for both belief system is one of humility and peace, they do in fact feature war and combat in their structure, i.e. 'Onward Christian soldiers marching off to war' and of course the bloodthirsty and pointless religious battles of the crusades.

Continuing on the perverse themes of war and eventual salvation, shortly after The Tribulation comes Armageddon when the armies of heaven battle the forces of Satan and the Antichrist on the plains of Megiddo in Israel. Once the forces of light win, and evidently this is another given that has abundantly clear supernatural and magickal overtones, and Satan is safely locked away, those who had been Raptured will return to live in a 'heaven on earth'. However there is still more to come and one thousand years after Armageddon Satan escapes from capture and once again challenges the forces of light.

This time the earth itself is destroyed, but a new one descends from the heavens and at long last there is everlasting and eternal peace. After this mayhem with its precursor of mass levitations what was the mechanism that brought it all about? Unfortunately, as with the levitating saints, the answer is 'the power of God', which needs no explanation whatsoever. All of this seems to indicate that The Bible, instead of the revealed word of Almighty God, might equally be a treatise on magick, which in fact is exactly what it is.

The same is also true when one encounters the claims of levitation exhibited by those who are in the thrall of Satanic and/or demonic forces. It is a fairly standard ploy used in cinematic representations of demonic possession where the individual who is possessed is levitated into the air then set back down again. Logic suggests that the mechanism must be the same, but one is approved (the power of God) and the other is not, (the power of Satan). In both cases what is demonstrated is clearly an example of magick, but for some reason this is the word that dare not speak its name, although to mark the difference between the two powers, anything purporting to come from God might be referred to as 'white magick' and from Satan as 'black magick'.

The same is true in such influential fictional literary works as the 'Lord of The Rings' trilogy where there is a 'white wizard', Gandalf, and his evil (ergo 'black wizard') counterpart Sauron. The similarities between the Gandalf/Christ, Sauron/Satan imagery are also striking in that in his efforts to protect his flock he is initially killed by the forces of Sauron, but later returns in all his glory to vanquish the might of the dark empire. It is also notable that the forces of evil are portrayed as uniformly hideous and un-speakably brutal.

On the other hand those under the protection of Gandalf are seen as naïve, loyal, kindly and well meaning and backed up by elemental forces that for the most part are either semi or wholly magickal. Neither is it an accident that the name, Sauron, is chosen because of its obvious connection to the world of reptiles (saurians) and indeed Satan is often referred to as 'that old dragon'. In spite of these semantic considerations the only place that hard parallels like this can be made is in the world of allegory and fiction, because representatives of all the mainstream religions balk at the very thought that miracles, because of negative associations, could possibly be defined as magick.

Returning to UFO centered belief, there is a third order of phenomena which is rarely mentioned in this context and that is what supposedly happens during alien abduction scenarios when the abductee is 'levitated' into, presumably, non terrestrial spacecraft. This gives rise to serious consideration of alleged levitations attributed to saints and other assorted holy people and the claims made about the Rapture. This particular area tends to blur the boundaries between religion, magick and some of the more left field versions of Ufology where the believers are sure that levitation and the Rapture are a misinterpretation of their own technology based paradigm. These particular believers are sure that prior to 'the end' the human race will indeed be lifted up in its entirety (and not just a chosen few)

Theories about the Christ.

Turning water into wine? That could be accomplished by rearranging a few molecules. Healing the sick? A snap for someone with an advanced understanding of medicine -- especially an understanding that was derived from a highly advanced technological society. Walking on water? Probably basic child's play for a being from another planet with elementary skills in gravity control.

What I am implying here is....could Jesus "Christ" have been an alien from a different planet or even a time traveler from the far distant future? There certainly are a lot of things that Jesus is supposed to have done -- miracles -- that could have been explained as being the results of the utilization of an advanced technology.

God? Son of God? Man? or was Jesus an Alien? What do you think?

from the face of the earth, but in a fleet of giant spacecraft.

These spacecraft are evidently already here on permanent standby and are currently parked in orbit around the moon, but they are 'cloaked' and therefore invisible. In this version of the myth, rather than the forces of darkness, viz. Satan and the Antichrist ranged against those of light, viz. Christ, there are two races of extraterrestrials fighting over the earth and its population. This is a hypothesis that, when one looks at it, runs accepted wisdom a pretty close parallel, the only differences are in the context and the end results are of course rather different. This version of events has the friendly ET's (blond, tall, blue eyed 'Nordics', a clear parallel with angels) in combat with the non-friendly ET's (nasty, reptilian beings, the comparison with demons is not difficult to make) over the fate of humanity. However, humanity is conveniently well out of the way aboard these truly gigantic spacecraft and the outcome is a forgone conclusion. The 'good' ET's defeat the 'bad' ET's and humanity either returns to the earth or travels with the 'good' ET's to their idyllic home worlds (heaven).

Rather worryingly, groups such as the poisonous 'Westboro Baptist Church', (membership around 100) which labours along under the spiteful rhetoric of Pastor Fred Phelps who describes himself as a 'primitive Baptist', hitches its scruffy dogma to the apocalyptic visions to the E-Bible Fellowship. Not only that, but a similarly narrow minded and vicious outfit calling itself 'The Rapture Right' has likewise decided that the end is nigh and only they will be saved. They won't of course because the End Times are not coming any time soon, unless the human race brings it about through its own stupidity. They are wrong, and they will be proven wrong, but they will still keep plodding on even more determined than before, why? It is called 'Cognitive Dissonance'.

This is a state of mind where one person, or a group of people, simultaneously maintains two competing and diametrically opposed opinions leading to absolute turmoil in their thought processes. To avoid this, as in the case of Sister Thedra and her cosy 'Brotherhood of the Seven Rays', when the prophecy dramatically failed she deflected it by channelling the message that all was well because God had stopped it happening. She could also have simply provided another date, but that too would have failed to materialise, so the best thing was to call the whole thing off. It should be noted that all of the followers had invested heavily in the prophecy by selling up their properties etc. so they could not afford to have the prophecy obviously fail; after all how foolish would they look? The other way around this is to recruit as many like minded individuals as possible to reinforce their belief, after all if they all think the same then it can't be wrong...right? Wrong!

An identical effect is seen when faith healers claim to heal the sick by supposedly using the power of God to heal, it does not matter what the illness is, cancer, MS, Parkinson's or whatever, God will heal it. The relief felt by the sufferer is almost always psychosomatic and transient in nature, but that does not matter because it's a miracle. When the condition manifests again, and it will, then the poor sod simply did not have sufficient faith hence the miracle did not happen. Healers? No, shameless liars, charlatans and often thieves demanding 'donations' to carry on the 'lords work'. Where cures are effected (always for medical conditions, no arms or legs have ever been regrown) then perhaps the sufferer did not have any ailment in the first place, or perhaps they actually did cure themselves by some misunderstood mechanism, who knows?

Unfortunately for the 'true believer' none of this will ever matter and they will continue quite happily on their deluded way falling for fast talking snake oil salesmen promising them everything from miracle cures, to forgiveness and safety for the end times that continually threatens the human race, but never quite arrives.

As long as there are conmen (maybe some of them actually believe what they are preaching) out there, there will always be a ready and willing supply of dupes ready to buy into whatever is on offer. Maybe we actually need it and it's an instinct hardwired into us all, some type of survival mechanism of sorts, and if it is, be sure that someone out there will always be ready to exploit it for their own ends...

SPOOKOLOGY

WHO PUT THE NORM IN PARANORMAL?...

Haunting Houses...

Among my favourite spooks – ie totally inexplicable ghosts well outside the norm of the paranormal – are a rarely reported type of apparition that turns the popular idea of a haunted house on its head. In these cases the house is not haunted – the house is in fact the ghost. Here is an example dating from 1987 and from the article ‘Ghost Go Wild’ by Janet Bord in Paranormal Magazine issue 42:

Donald Watt and George Bruce were very experienced members of the Lochaber Mountain rescue Team. While descending Beinn Fhionnlaidh near Cannich (Highland) they noticed a two-storey cottage on the loch shore below. It was made of granite and looked in good condition, and they decided to head for it. They were puzzled because they hadn’t seen it on the map and didn’t know of its existence.

They kept it in their sights for some time and then lost view of it. They assumed they would see it when they got over the crest of a hillock, but when they joined the path along the shore there was no cottage to be seen. Despite their best efforts they were unable to locate it. Afterwards they found that there had been a lodge at the loch, but it was now underwater since the area was flooded and dammed in the 1950s.’

A similar experience has been reported more recently, by ‘Suzan’, a contributor to the Paranormal Phenomena section of About.com. She writes: ‘My husband was carting wheat in the summer of 1994. He was outside Molong in NSW, Australia, and drove past a ‘For Sale’ sign on a farm gate along with the agent’s details. Our 12-year-old son was with him. On the return journey, they stopped, climbed through the fence and walked up the circle-shaped drive to have a closer look at the old house. He said he could see through the window and found the old house old and abandoned.

On his return home a few days later, we rang up the agent and asked for further details about the property, as we were interested in purchasing it. The agent had no idea what we were talking about and insisted that he had no properties for sale on that road. A week later, my husband and I drove to Molong to have a look at the farm ourselves.

In the way-back-when of my time editing Paranormal Magazine, I jokingly coined the term ‘spookology’ in one of my editorials. I’ve started using ‘spook’ as a handy word for any really weird and inexplicable ghostly phenomenon. At a time when the supernatural, an area of research in which we still understand very little, is becoming increasingly codified, the bizarre nature of the spooks recalled in this column may serve as a reminder that it’s way too soon to start normalising the paranormal.

The cover of Richard’s new book, now available on the Amazon Kindle store, ‘The Horror of Gyb Farm and other True Ghost Stories from the pen of F G Lee’.

We drove up and down the whole road until we were almost to the next town. All that he could recognize was a water tank on the hill, a creek and some trees where the house used to be. There was no gate, drive, real estate sign... or house.’

A more elaborate story is told by an unnamed correspondent of the American website CastleofSpirits.com. The woman described how she and a friend were driving on a December evening in rural Missouri when they were driven off the road and into a snow bank by an inconsiderate motorist. No one stopped to help and after an hour, with more snow falling, ‘things were getting desperate’. Then her friend pointed out that there was a house nearby, with all its lights illuminated, but for some reason neither had noticed it before. So, they left the car, struggled through the snow and knocked on the door to see whether the occupants had a phone.

She continues: ‘The door was answered by a sweet old lady who immediately asked us in, let us call for a tow truck, and gave us tea and cookies. We weren’t sure where we were so she gave the tow truck driver very specific directions, 2.3 miles west from the turnoff to Highway xxx. She invited us to stay inside until the tow truck got there and went back to bed.

‘A few hours later the truck showed up and we left. She was still in bed so we just wrote a quick thank you note. Later we decided to bake her a batch of cookies and take them for a more personal thank you. The next Saturday we drove over to her house. But, it wasn’t there. We drove by where we thought it was and couldn’t find it so we went to the

Richard Holland is the editor of the ghosts and folklore website Uncanny UK and the former editor of Paranormal Magazine. A journalist of more than 20 years’ experience in newspapers and magazines, he is the author of six books, including ‘Haunted Wales: A Guide to Welsh Ghostlore’ and ‘The Horror of Gyb Farm’. turnoff to Highway xxx and drove exactly 2.3 miles west and still couldn't find it. In desperation we called the tow truck driver who said he had never seen a house when he picked us up. He was wondering why we standing on a hill instead of waiting in the car. Every trip to the mall since then we have looked for that house but have never found it.'

Kathleen Wiltshire offers a similar account in her book 'Ghosts and Legends of the Wiltshire Countryside'. A Mrs Edna Hedges told Wiltshire that when she was a young girl in the 1930s she got caught in a storm on a lonely stretch of road near Hannington. Noticing a cottage a little way away up a country lane, she rode over to it and asked the elderly gentleman who answered the door if she could shelter there [gosh, those were innocent days back then, weren't they?]. Smiling, he led her inside but did not speak, nor could Mrs Hedges recall him speaking throughout the time she spent in the cottage. In fact, there was no sound at all.

Mrs Hedges had no recollection of coming out of the cottage; all at once she seemed on her way, the storm well behind her.' When she arrived at her destination, she was perfectly dry. She told her hostess where she had sheltered from the storm but it transpired the old cottage hadn't been lived in for years, indeed when she saw it again, it was totally derelict and the roof had long since fallen in. Now, I know some would label these tales under the phenomenon of 'time slips', in which people suddenly seem to find themselves immersed in an earlier period, not only able to see but even interact with the business of a time long gone. However, the best known account of a 'haunting house' rather wrong foots that idea.

In his book of 'Apparitions and Haunted Houses', Sir Ernest Bennett recounts the experience of a young girl and her governess who saw a phantom house in 1926 near Bury St Edmunds. They went for a walk through the hamlet of Bradfield St George and came to a high brick wall broken by imposing gates. Through the gates they could see, set back in leafy grounds, a grand Georgian manor house. They were new to the area and the governess later made inquiries as to the identity of the house. No such house was known to exist, nor had one ever existed there. When she revisited the scene, the puzzled governess was amazed to find that not only was the house no longer in evidence, neither was the wall that had apparently surrounded it. One can accept the existence of a long-since demolished cottage escaping the memory of the villagers, but not a grand house. It would be impossible then to consider this apparition an example of a time slip – unless it was a Georgian revival manor house from the future?...

THE SEPTEMBER-11 CODE

THE MOST ENLIGHTENING REVELATIONS IN 2000 YEARS

The September-11 Code

The Most Enlightening Revelations in 2000 Years.
By William Downie.

This book is too religious for New Agers, too occult for Christians, too numerical for spiritual seekers, too mystical for scientific types, was written by a nobody, is addressed to everybody and makes the most outrageous series of statements ever claimed as facts. So read it anyway and have your understanding of the world blown apart. The September-11 Code is two things. Firstly, it is a chronicle of one man's dramatic spiritual awakening and the education he subsequently received from angelic tutors. Secondly, it is a concise summary of the alphanumeric code he was trained to find and the devastating revelations it contains. The code is found within the NIV Bible (2001 Edition), popular culture and two world-impacting events: the terrorist attacks of September the 11th, 2001 and the funeral of Pope John Paul II in 2005. It insists that 9/11, the first major event witnessed in real time by the entire world, was nothing less than a staged drama, depicting several biblical tableaux and containing the most electrifying news of all time. The book goes on to present further devastating revelations about Karol Jozef Wojtyla and Osama bin Laden. It ends with a message to us all from Jesus Christ.

Phenomena Magazine Editor: Steve Mera... On many occasions I would often say...'You've read one 911 book, you've read them all'. But! In this case... That's not quite true. This is rather a unique 911 book that certainly gets your mind enveloped in mystery, occultism and symbology. A fascinating book that kept me entertained and intrigued. Well worth purchasing, and deserves to be on the shelf next to other well known conspiracy books...

Keep an eye on the skies for saucers during the Olympics Games, warns former MoD UFO expert.

June 7th 2012 By Eddie Wrenn.

UFO expert Nick Pope says massive summer events like the Olympics would be a prime time for an alien encounter. Ministry of Defence 'has planned for the worst outcomes - attack and invasion'. 'We should be prepared for even the most seemingly unfathomable'. One of the UK's top UFO experts has given his views on the likelihood of aliens suddenly appearing in our skies - and how the international community would respond.

Nick Pope, who has more than two decades under his belt at the Ministry of Defence, said mass summer events - like the Olympic Games in London - would be a prime time for crafts from otherworlds to present themselves to mankind. He warned: 'With the summer of mass events we are all on high alert for terrorism. But we must also cast our eyes further afield and be prepared for even the most seemingly unfathomable.' Pope's duties at the MoD included investigating reports of UFOs between 1991 and 1994, and says he began his research as a sceptic, before becoming convinced that the sightings raised important defence for national security and air safety issues.

He was particularly interested in cases where the witnesses were pilots, or where UFOs were tracked on radar, and said there were other believers among his former colleagues. He said: 'It has been a widely held belief in Ministry of Defence circles that "aliens" have been able to detect us for decades via TV and radio broadcasts.

'What once seemed like science fiction is steadily being realised by central governing bodies as distinctly real. 'If aliens have studied our psychology, they may choose to appear in our skies on a significant date - the closing ceremony of the Olympic Games is one date being widely circulated by conspiracy groups. 'The atomic bombs detonated in the 1940s, and the rocket technology since developed would unquestionably have alerted nearby alien civilisations to our existence.

'On their arrival it is difficult to say what they would do: explore, help or destroy. Our resources make us quite a special threat.' Hopefully, if aliens do come and introduce themselves to us, they come in a spirit of warmth, friendship and shared learning - but Pope said the government was also prepared for the worst scenarios. He said: 'The government must - and has planned - for the worst-case scenario: alien attack and alien invasion.

'Space shuttles, lasers and directed-energy weapons are all committed via the Alien Invasion War Plan to defence against any alien ships in orbit. 'If UFOs came into our atmosphere, RAF jets such as the Eurofighter Typhoons, and missiles such as the Rapiers guarding the Olympic Games would be well equipped to enter the fray. 'And if the aliens landed, in an unprecedented move, I am in doubt that the entire Army would be join the fight. 'The TA and the Reserves would be called out and conscription potentially introduced. '

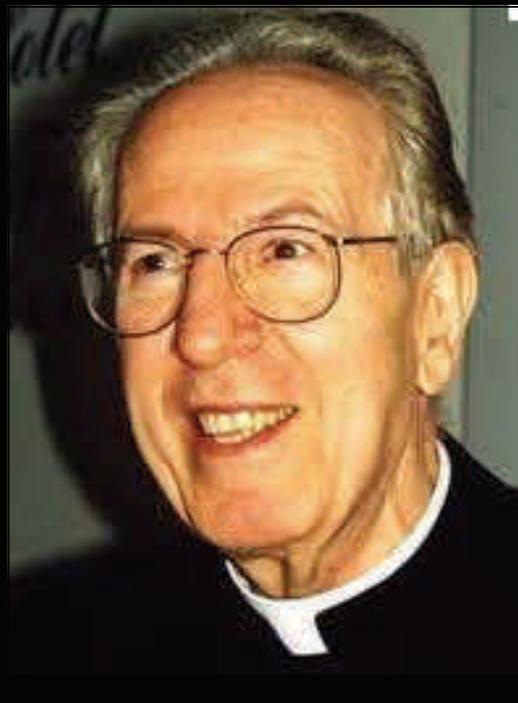

Speaking about the cultural impact of aliens since the first widely-reported cases in the 1940s, he said: 'It is interesting to note that we are all in some ways equipped to deal with alien invasion - games such as Resistance: Burning Skies on PlayStation Vita help acclimatise people to the reality of extraterrestrial life - and in particular that they might be hostile.

'It is a widely held belief that classified information about weapons and tactics useful in combatting alien occupation are embedded into such gameplay. 'The primary flaw is our lack of knowledge - we are limited in the extent of what we know about the alien species.' Pope's role in the government was once described as 'working on the the X-Files of the UK', and he has since published Sunday Times top ten non-fiction best-sellers, such as Open Skies, Closed Minds. His final role at the MoD, held until 2006, was Directorate of Defence Security, and since leaving he has given lectures and TV interviews about his views on the existence of UFOs.

He added: 'Aliens may possess weapons or advanced technology we've no idea of. Aliens may have invisibility, a death ray, teleportation, force fields and other things we can't even guess at. 'Beyond this, unity is key, but as history dictates, this is not so easy. 'The logical course is to unite the world against the alien threat, combining our military strength and fighting under the United Nations. But some countries might not fight.

'We saw this type of treachery and cowardice in the Second World War. Though some brave people joined the Resistance, much of France accepted Nazi occupation.

'The final and perhaps biggest flaw is preparation. With the summer of mass events we are all on high alert for terrorism. But we must also cast our eyes further afield and be prepared for even the most seemingly unfathomable.'

Monsignor Corrado Balducci, a former insider close to the Pope has gone on national Italian television five times to proclaim, Extraterrestrial contact is a real phenomenon.

The prelate announced that the Vatican is receiving much information about extraterrestrials and their contacts with humans from its Nuncios (embassies) in various countries, such as Mexico, Chile and Venezuela. Monsignor Balducci said that he is on a Vatican commission looking into extraterrestrial encounters, and how to cope with the emerging general realization of extraterrestrial contact. Balducci provided the Catholic Church's analysis of extraterrestrials, emphasizing that extraterrestrial encounters "are NOT demonic, they are NOT due to psychological impairment, they are NOT a case of entity attachment, but these encounters deserve to be studied carefully."

Since is a Vatican expert exorcist, and since the Catholic Church has historically demonized many new phenomena that were poorly understood, his proclaiming the Vatican's non-censure of these encounters is all the more remarkable. Unfortunately, Monsignor Balducci passed away but his work is being continued and the Vatican closely follows this phenomenon.

In his testimony Balducci explained that not only the general populous but also highly credible, cultured, and educated people of high status are recognizing more and more that this is a real phenomenon. He goes on to speak about the extraterrestrial people as part of Gods creation and that they are not angels nor are they devils. However they are probably more spiritually evolved.

Spennymoor County, Durham -- A numer of photographs have been taken. Little is known about the circumstances surrounding these photos that were taken September 27, 2011. No one knows if something unusual was seen or if the anomalies were later found when viewing the photos. Some of the photos are quite compelling.

The above photo was scanned from one of the photos. The object was thought to be of flying triangle design. The mystery as to what the object was and who took the photos are yet to be discovered.

It's scream tea as cafe ghost is caught on CCTV

By Charlotte Brehaut - July 3rd 2012.

A cafe owner found himself Ghostbuster rather than crime-stopper, when his CCTV camera captured footage of a supernatural intruder.

Dan Clifford, 35, was startled by the images of a ghostly female figure hovering in his locked shop, before disappearing into thin air.

He said: "The first time I saw the shadow moving on the old camera my heart went nuts as I thought there was an intruder in the shop.

"But when I looked closer I realised it couldn't be a live human being - I could see right through it."

The apparition is just one of a number of encounters with the other side at the Curiosity Vintage Tea Room in Perth, Scotland.

Spooked Dan said, "It's all been very exciting. Over the past few months all the staff have experienced something. Some have heard voices. "Others have witnessed chairs moving and one was pushed forwards and felt a chill right down their spine. "We've also had a number of mediums stopping in because they felt something when they walked by. "Some have been told of feeling the presence of a woman, which fits with our newest image." Dan added "I have always believed in the spirit world but had never experienced anything like this until we opened Curiosity less than a year ago."

Upon finding the spine-tingling footage, Dan contacted Paranormal Investigation Scotland. Experts are now examining the image, which was captured when Dan's motion sensor cameras were mysteriously activated in the dead of the night. A spokesman for Paranormal Investigation Scotland said: "This is the most convincing image we have seen in almost a decade so we were keen to start looking into it." Some of Scotland's most powerful mediums will return to the cafe this month as they attempt contact the phantom with a penchant for cream teas.

Girl Who Can Start Fire With Her Brain Mystifies Scientists.

By Soren Dreier - June 28th 2012.

Many think this young girl has supernatural abilities and scientists are puzzled by what she has accomplished so far. She is now being called a global scientific phenomenon. According to the family, their 11-year-old daughter has a bizarre ability to set things aflame by just being near them. The young Vietnamese girl living in HCM City's Tan Binh District has drawn a great deal of attention from the nation's media. Her father tells it all started about a month ago when the family home's electrical network suffered several short circuits, about a month ago.

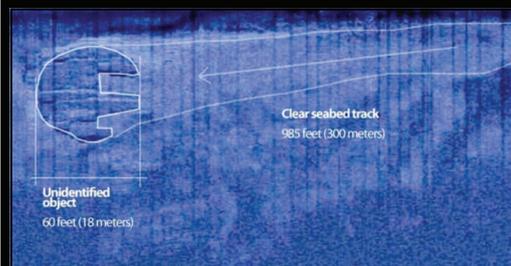

Electricians were called to fix the short circuit but could not find the cause behind the power failures. He said the girl was taken to other houses where the same phenomenon took place each time. Her mattresses, fans and other equipment have burst into flames. The hotel room where her family stayed two weeks ago during their holiday on Vung Tau beach also suffered burns from a blaze. The girl has been examined by doctors at Cho Ray Hospital and the Children's Hospital No. 2 but nothing abnormal has been found. But a team of scientists from the Centre of Research and Application for Radio-active Geo-biological Energy at Hong Bang University has also carried out tests on the girl and confirmed that she is unusual.

Prof. Nguyen Manh Hung, director of the university, said that the girl is capable of burning things around her. "This is a very strange case not only in Viet Nam but for the world," said Hung. Brain scans discovered an unusual line on the right part of the girl's brain, said the doctor. "She burned objects that were located near and far from her, so there is no specific distance limit," said Hung.

Samples of her blood, skin tissue and urine along with objects from the girl's home have been taken for further analysis, he said. Nguyen Phuc Giac Hai, a scientist at the Research Centre of Human Potential, said the girl was a global scientific phenomenon.

"This case is special because it has lasted for more than one month and fires have occurred wherever she has been," said Hai...

'UFO' at the bottom of the Baltic Sea 'cuts off electrical equipment when divers get within 200m'.

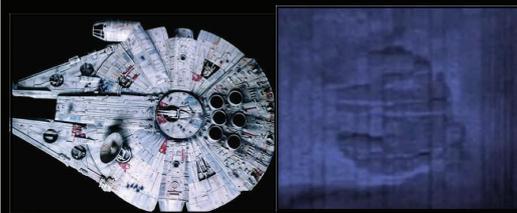

By Eddie Wrenn

Object is raised about 10 to 13ft above seabed and curved at the sides like a mushroom. Hole is surrounded by an strange rock formation that expedition team can not explain. Stones are covered in something 'resembling soot' which has baffled experts. Divers say phones and some cameras switch off when close to the object. The divers exploring a 'UFO-shaped' object at the bottom of the Baltic Sea say their equipment stops working when they approach within 200m. Professional diver Stefan Hogerborn, part of the Ocean X team which is exploring the anomaly, said some of the team's cameras and the team's satellite phone would refuse to work when directly above the object, and would only work once they had sailed away.

He is quoted as saying: 'Anything electric out there - and the satellite phone as well - stopped working when we were above the object. 'And then we got away about 200 meters and it turned on again, and when we got back over the object it didn't work.' Diver Peter Lindberg said: 'We have experienced things that I really couldn't imagine and I have been the team's biggest skeptic regarding these different kind of theories.

'I was kind of prepared just to find a stone or cliff or outcrop or pile of mud but it was nothing like that, so for me it has been a missing experience I must say.' Member Dennis Asberg said: 'I am one hundred percent convinced and confident that we have found something that is very, very, very unique. 'Then if it is a meteorite or an asteroid, or a volcano, or a base from, say, a U-boat from the Cold War which has manufactured and placed there - or if it is a UFO...

'Well honestly it has to be something.' The quotes were first reported at NDTV. The Mail Online has reached out to the Ocean X team for clarification. The object was first found in May last year, but because of a lack of funding and bad timing, they have were not able to pull a team together to see for themselves - just the strange, metallic outline, and a similar disk-shaped object about 200 metres away. During their visit, the team saw a 985-foot trail that they described 'as a runway or a downhill path that is flattened at the seabed with the object at the end of it'. As it was before the recent dive, the story behind the object is anyone's guess, from a 'plug to the inner world' to the Millennium Falcon ship from Star Wars.

While the Ocean Explorer team is understandably excited about their potentially earth-shattering find, others are slightly more sceptical and are questioning the accuracy of the sonar technology. In the past, such technology has confused foreign objects with unusual- but natural - rock formations. Part of the trouble they face, however, is that they have no way of telling what is inside the supposed cylinder- whether it is filled with gold and riches or simply aged sediment particles.

They're hoping for the former, and history seems to be in their favour. The Baltic Sea is a treasure trove for shipwreck hunters, as an estimated 100,000 objects are thought to line the cold sea's floor. The company have created a submarine that they hope will appeal to tourists and wannabe shipwreck hunters who will pay to take a trip down to the bottom of the Baltic Sea to see for themselves. A further dive will take place in the coming weeks...

THE 2012 RENDLESHAM UFO CONFERENCE

Due to conflicts behind the scenes, the Rendlesham UFO conference nearly didn't take place this year. Fortunately a group of dedicated individuals not only managed to salvage it, but also organise what was arguably one of the best single day conference line ups ever seen! Living in Birmingham it's obviously quite a way down to Suffolk, but after taking a look at who was planned to speak at the conference there was no way I would have missed it for the world.

So early in the morning of Sunday 17th June, I, my father Chris, brother Andrew and friend Adam set off on our way back to Rendlesham Forest for the second time (We had previously attended the 30th anniversary conference back in December 2010). The roads were pretty clear, and the weather also cut us a lucky break! After several days of rain the sun had decided to show itself, making the journey very pleasant indeed. We arrived at Woodbridge with only about 10 minutes to spare, and as we pulled into the Community Centre car park we all excitedly anticipated what the day had in store for us.

The 2012 Rendlesham UFO Conference

Woodbridge, Suffolk, England, Sunday, June 17 at:
10am - 11.30pm. The Rendlesham 2012 UFO Conference

The Incident.

The Rendlesham Forest Incident is the name given to a series of reported sightings of unexplained lights and the alleged landing of a craft or multiple craft of unknown origin in Rendlesham Forest, Suffolk, England, in late December 1980, just outside RAF Woodbridge, used at the time by the U.S. Air Force.

Dozens of USAF personnel were eyewitnesses to various events over a two- or three-day period. Some ufologists believe it is perhaps the most famous UFO event to have happened in Britain, ranking amongst the best-known UFO events worldwide.

Along with the alleged Berwyn Mountain UFO incident, it has been compared to the Roswell UFO incident in the United States, and is sometimes referred to as "Britain's Roswell".

most stunning and important American UFO incidents to have ever taken place, an event that he was directly involved with. Back in 1967 Robert was a Deputy Missile Combat Crew Commander at Malmstrom AFB in Montana. One morning he was contacted by the NCO in charge of site security, who informed him that a number of unidentified lights had been seen in the vicinity. Minutes later he rang back and informed Robert that there was a red glowing saucer-shaped UFO hovering just outside the front gate! Robert woke his commander and began informing him of what he had been told. A moment later the armed missiles began to shut down one by one in rapid succession. The chance of this happening to so many was near impossible. It appeared that the UFO had sent out a signal which had shut down the missiles. This became known as the Echo Flight incident.

staying at a cottage in Wales. They witnessed a glowing UFO in the sky above them, and another glowing spherical object which landed nearby. There were many odd aspects to the incident and it has troubled her ever since.

I immediately ran into Sacha Christie having a sneaky cigarette at the back door of the venue. I have known Sacha for a number of years since meeting her at a previous conference, and regularly speak with her regarding cases I am investigating. Sacha is both a contactee and outspoken researcher. She is also a consultant for AMMACH (the Anomalous Mind Management Abductee and Contactee Helpline). She was not only billed as the first speaker of the day, but had also been involved in organising the conference.

I also had the chance to briefly catch up with Larry Warren, whistle-blower of the Rendlesham UFO incident and one of the main organisers of the day, and UK UFO researcher Gary Heseltine. I have been friends with both Larry and Gary since they attended my wedding at the famous "black mailbox" on the outskirts of Area 51 back in 2010.

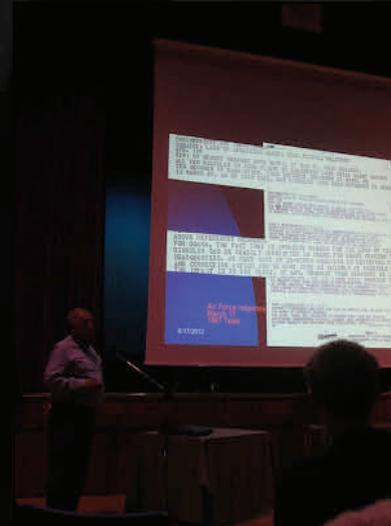

We didn't have long to speak as we had to go and grab some seats before we ended up sitting on the back row! After meeting up with my brother's associate in parapsychology, Simon, we managed to secure some places near the front. A moment later Larry appeared at the front to welcome everyone and give a brief introduction. It was clear how happy he was that the conference had gone ahead, and he provided some details of what lay ahead.

It was soon time for Sacha Christie to take to the stage. Since her childhood Sacha has had numerous contact experiences, and her lecture focused on the incident which started it all. This experience completely changed her life in many different ways. It involved both her and her family while they were Sacha then showed a short video film of her recent return to the cottage where the incident took place. She did not speak with the current owners of the cottage, but did walk around the grounds. This video was both fascinating and touching. It was clear how much the experience had affected her, and how un-nerved she was to return to where it had happened. The remainder of her passionate talk focused on the lack of support that contactees have and how they are generally regarded in a negative light by the public. She believes that contactees need to work together and help each other, rather than continue to search for answers which may never be found.

After a short break it was time for Robert Salas to give a talk on one of the

After covering what took place, Robert then spoke of the cover up of the incident. He showed numerous documents released through the Freedom Of Information Act which proved that this was the case, and that certain people had tried to brush the whole incident under the carpet. Robert also covered many other similar incidents which have taken place at missile launch facilities in numerous countries right up to as recent as 2010! The implications of these incidents are both far reaching and profound.

It was then time for lunch, and during the break an old CNN documentary on Rendlesham was shown. I was informed that this was well worth a watch, but I spent the majority of the time chatting with the various speakers.

The next talk was from American crop formation researcher and MUFON field investigator Jennifer Stein.

Official Response.

The Ministry of Defence (MoD) denied that the event posed any threat to national security, and stated that it was therefore never investigated as a security matter.

Later evidence indicated that there was a substantial MoD file on the subject, which led to claims of a cover-up; some interpreted this as part of a larger pattern of information suppression concerning the true nature of unidentified flying objects, by both the United States and British governments (see the UFO conspiracy theory).

One such person to take this view was eyewitness and Deputy Base Commander Colonel Charles Halt (see below). When the file was released in 2001 it turned out to consist mostly of internal correspondence and responses to inquiries from the public.

The lack of any in-depth investigation in the publicly released documents is consistent with the MoD's earlier statement that they never took the case seriously.

Included in the released files is an explanation given by defence minister Lord Trefgarne as to why the MoD did not investigate further. Sceptics regard the sightings as misinterpretation of a series of nocturnal lights – a fireball, the Orford Ness lighthouse and bright stars.

I have seen many lectures on crop formations over the years, but I have to admit this was one of the best I have ever seen on this intriguing aspect of ufology. A lot of the time this angle of the subject inevitably has a “new age” tinge to it. But Jennifer’s lecture stuck closely to the facts and was presented in a very scientific manner. She provided some fascinating physical evidence that seems to suggest that there is much more to crop formations than just cleverly done hoaxes. Her lecture included many photographs, video sequences and drawings, and was very enjoyable indeed.

Jennifer is well aware that many of the formations seen are hoaxed. However some of them appear to be made by an energy force which has strange effects on both the crop and the soil, and can even be detected in the surrounding area as well as just the formation itself. She presented evidence which link the formations to glowing orbs, but also looked into the possibility that the formations are naturally occurring. In addition to this she discussed the apparent military interest in these formations and the fact that black helicopters have often been seen in the vicinity. So far we’d heard about abductions, missile shut downs and crop formations, but it was now time to hear the latest on the incident the conference was themed around. Fortunately the next speaker was Gary Heseltine, one of the key UFO investigators who has looked into the case in depth over recent years. Gary’s credentials as a police detective constable means that he looks at the UFO subject in a logical manner, and assesses the evidence as he would do a crime that has been committed. He is extremely impressed with the Rendlesham Forest incident, and believes it to be one of the most important UFO cases which has ever taken place.

Over the years numerous sceptics and debunkers of the incident have stated that when Colonel Halt and the other soldiers saw lights through the trees, and later a red glowing UFO, they were really just seeing the pulsing light from the lighthouse in the distance. Gary began his talk by completely blowing this theory out of the water. He showed some night vision footage he had taken at Capel Green, the field where the soldiers sighted a glowing red UFO hovering close to the ground. He pointed out the location where Halt had stated the UFO was situated, and then pointed out the location of the lighthouse. It was clear that these locations were completely different and that there was no way whatsoever that this would have been responsible for what was seen.

The remainder of Gary’s talk focused on what took place over the three nights that make up the incident.

Wikipedia.

He covered all the key points in the order in which they occurred. He also explained that there are likely to be other witnesses from the base who are yet to come forward. They would certainly have seen the UFO shine lights down into the weapons storage area, and may also have gone up the control tower for a look at what was occurring out in the forest. As always Gary's lecture was well structured and very interesting.

While Gary knows a lot about the case, nothing beats hearing about it from the people who were actually there at the time. And who better to speak than the original whistle-blower of the case, Larry Warren? The next lecture was a joint talk given by both him and Peter Robbins, UFO researcher and co-author of the book Left At East Gate. Both Larry and Peter have experienced so much over the years, and they spoke passionately about the journey they had been on which had led to this point.

Larry's claims about what took place on the third night of the incident have always been the most controversial aspect of the entire case – a close encounter with both a craft and its occupants, and a clear indication that the base commander knew this was going to take place. Extraordinary claims of course require extraordinary evidence. And it is exactly this which Peter presented during the talk. Evidence including medical records proving that Larry's retinas had been burnt and that he had been exposed to a powerful energy source, documents proving that he was treated unfairly by the military following the incident and details of other witnesses who have also come forward to speak about the third night.

However the most controversial part of the talk was still to come...

Earlier this year there was a special radio programme on the Rendlesham incident. Many speakers appeared on this, including Larry and Colonel Halt. During this show Halt openly admitted that he was present on the third night. Peter began by mentioning Halt's statement on this show. He then displayed some video footage of Halt taken at a recent UFO conference. In this footage, Halt completely dismisses Larry's claims and accuses him of making it all up. Read into this what you will.

The day had flown by faster than an unidentified blip on the radar. We now had an hour to relax and get some dinner. Our group decided to head on up the road to the Cherry Tree, a quaint pub just up the road from the venue. I ended up sitting alongside some of the sound crew from the conference. After a decent meal and quick pint it was time to return for the evening lectures.

We sneaked back in just in time for Timothy Good's highly anticipated talk. Tim is one of the world's most highly renowned UFO researchers. He has interviewed many high ranking military personnel, astronauts and governmental figures over the years, and written numerous excellent books on the subject. The majority of Tim's lecture focused on the W56 group. This case involves a race of humanoid aliens who lived on Earth from the 1950s to the 1970s in secret underground bases which they constructed using advanced technology. Tim has spoken to numerous witnesses involved with this case and believes it to be genuine. As evidence for these claims Tim showed a number of black and white photographs reporting to show hovering craft, and even photos apparently showing a couple of these aliens, one of which was close to ten feet tall!

The implications of all of this should it be true are huge, but I was left with a lot of questions and felt that it would have been nice to see some more substantial evidence to back up these claims. However Tim's credentials in the subject should not be ignored and I'm certain he has good reason to believe the case to be legitimate. There is no doubt much more to this than he had time to cover in his talk, and the case will surely feature heavily in his next book.

After a quick break it was time for the final speaker of the conference, a speaker who will need no introductions for anyone with a good knowledge of the contact subject: retired police constable Alan Godfrey. With a background in after dinner speaking, we were in for a thought provoking and at times amusing talk. Alan became famous in the world of ufology when on 28th November 1980 he had a close encounter with a UFO while on patrol. This involved a period of missing time, and after a while he decided to go for hypnotic regression to see if he could get these missing memories back. Under hypnosis he recalled being taken aboard the craft and undergoing an examination procedure by a number of short beings. Alan talked us through the details of his experience, even alluding to the fact that he was not entirely convinced that he had been abducted. I felt that in some ways this gave even more

The Event.

Rendlesham Forest is owned by the Forestry Commission and consists of about 5.8 square miles (15 km²) of coniferous plantations, interspersed with broadleaved belts, heathland and wetland areas. It is located in the county of Suffolk, about 8 miles (13 km) east of the town of Ipswich.

The incident occurred in the vicinity of two former military bases - RAF Bentwaters, which is just to the north of the forest, and RAF Woodbridge which extends into the forest from the west and is bounded by the forest on its northern and eastern edges. At the time, both were being used by the United States Air Force and were under the command of wing commander Colonel Gordon E. Williams.

The base commander was Colonel Ted Conrad, and his deputy was Lieutenant Colonel Charles I. Halt. Halt's memo to the Ministry of Defence on the incident, and his personal involvement in the second night of the sightings, has given the case credibility.

The Events.

The main events of the incident, including the supposed landing or landings, took place in the forest, which starts at the east end of the base runway or about 0.3 miles (0.5 km) to the east of the East Gate of RAF Woodbridge, where guards first noticed mysterious lights appearing to descend into the forest. The forest extends east about 1.0 mile (1.6 km) beyond East Gate, ending at a farmer's field, where additional events allegedly took place.

Orford Ness lighthouse, which sceptics identify as the flashing light seen off to the coast by the airmen, is along the same line of sight but 5 miles (8.0 km) further east of the forest edge.

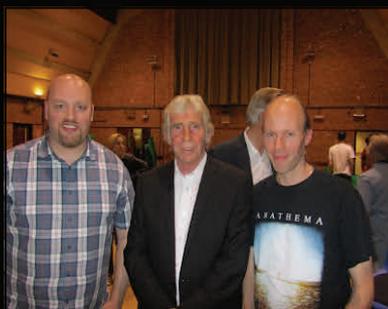

All these locations are shown on the map above. Commentators have published more detailed maps of the location and a modern aerial view of the region can be found on Google Maps.

weight to his case, as he has clearly considered alternative explanations for what happened to him.

Alan not only spoke of his own experience, he also spoke of Zigmund Adamski, a man who had previously turned up dead under very unusual circumstances. Alan was one of the two officers who were initially called to the scene. Many people feel that Zigmund had been abducted, and that his death was in some way linked to what happened to Alan later the same year. Although Alan personally felt that the man had been tortured by someone rather than taken by aliens, he admitted that there were some very strange aspects to his death.

Alan ended his talk with some humorous tales from his job in the police force, followed by a Q&A. This was apparently to be the last time Alan would speak publicly about his experience, and it was the perfect way to bring the conference to a close. After a few final words by Larry the Rendlesham Conference 2012 was officially over. However for our group it was not yet time to travel home. We next had plans to head on out to the forest, which seemed like the right thing to do given the circumstances.

I was pleased to find out that Brenda Butler would be joining us. Brenda is a local investigator; experiencer, author, and one of the first people to look into the Rendlesham incident. This meant we had our very own forest tour guide!

Good thing too, as although I'd been there before I was still pretty sure it would be easy to get lost. Also along for the adventure was Brenda's niece Beverley, a man we had sat near to at the conference, a contactee whose case I have investigated, her husband and some other gents who we had not previously met.

Bev started to tell us all about the various ETs and ghosts they had witnessed in the forest over the years! Needless to say we were on high alert for the slightest movement from the undergrowth.

Walking along the path that leads up to East Gate, it wasn't long before we had our first glowing orb sighting. However this glowing orb turned out to be a brightly illuminated glow worm! By the time we reached the gate we'd seen about 20 of them along the edges of the path. It was the first time I'd ever seen glow worms, so this was certainly one of the highlights of our walk.

We soon reached the famous gate where Jim Penniston and John Burroughs had first sighted the lights through the trees back in 1980.

Luckily for us the weather was quite clear, although the moon was hidden by cloud cover. We arrived at the Visitors Centre car park in near complete darkness, and met up with Brenda, who was already taking photographs hoping to pick up anything paranormal on camera. Much to our surprise she asked us to turn our torches off, and we soon realised we would be wandering around the forest with minimal light sources. This would have been creepy enough, but to make matters worse Brenda and After posing for some photos we made our way back to the car park. From here we headed into the forest in the direction of Capel Green. The forest was extremely still, quiet and atmospheric. We discussed the speakers of the day as we made our way along the tracks.

Our first destination was the official "landing site", marked out with three wooden posts. It is believed by many to not be the actual location where the triangular craft was situated, but was still certainly worth a look. Moving onward, we soon came to the edge of Capel Green, the location of numerous key events of the Rendlesham incident. I was pleased to see the lighthouse pulsing away in the distance, as last time I was at the forest it was extremely foggy and could not be seen. We stayed at the green for about 15 minutes during which Brenda enthusiastically told us about some of the UFO sightings she had experienced there.

a truly great day. While my brother, father and friend lay back in their seats and began to snore, I took a quick gulp of Red Bull and began the long drive back to Birmingham....

What ever happened at Rendlesham forest back in December of 1980 remain a mystery. But it is a mystery that is unlikely to go away. I will leave you with a quote from Lord Hill Norton who attempted to obtain information from the Ministry of Defence... 'The MoD have remarked upon the fact that the reported incidents at Woodbridge / Bentwaters base had no defence significance... Either we had officers, then in control of a facility that housed nuclear weapons, running around hallucinating, or something very strange did descend upon the facility. In either case... There was most certainly defence significance'...

Heading back into the trees, we began our walk back along the tracks to the Visitor Centre, stopping briefly at a tree known to have an Steven Spielberg ET face shaped notch in its trunk. As with most round trips the return walk seemed to take twice as long.

Finally at around 2am we reached the car park bringing our exploration of the forest to a close. We hadn't had any encounters (unless you count the glow worms), but it had been a superb end to

A MYSTERY THAT MAY NEVER BE SOLVED!...

It's time for a change.

THE NIGHT SKY

By Dave Sadler.

JULY ASTRONOMY.

The simplest way to discover the stars is to begin as astronomy itself began, using just your own two eyes. If this evening is clear, why not step outside and spot a few star patterns? The backyard offers convenience, while a local park or schoolyard may provide a view of the horizon less cluttered by buildings or trees.

July's night sky brings the summer constellations to the fore in the early evening, but these are replaced after midnight by groupings more usually associated with autumn.

At dusk, you can hardly miss Vega, Altair, and Deneb, the three bright stars of the Summer Triangle - fully up and dominating the northeast and east.

Boundless topics of interest and targets for observation lie among the Triangle's constellations of Lyra, Aquila, and Cygnus. There are grand double stars such as Albireo and Epsilon Lyrae, famous variable stars such as Beta Lyrae, Eta Aquilae, and Chi Cygni, and nebulae and supernova remnants including the Ring, the North America, and the Veil.

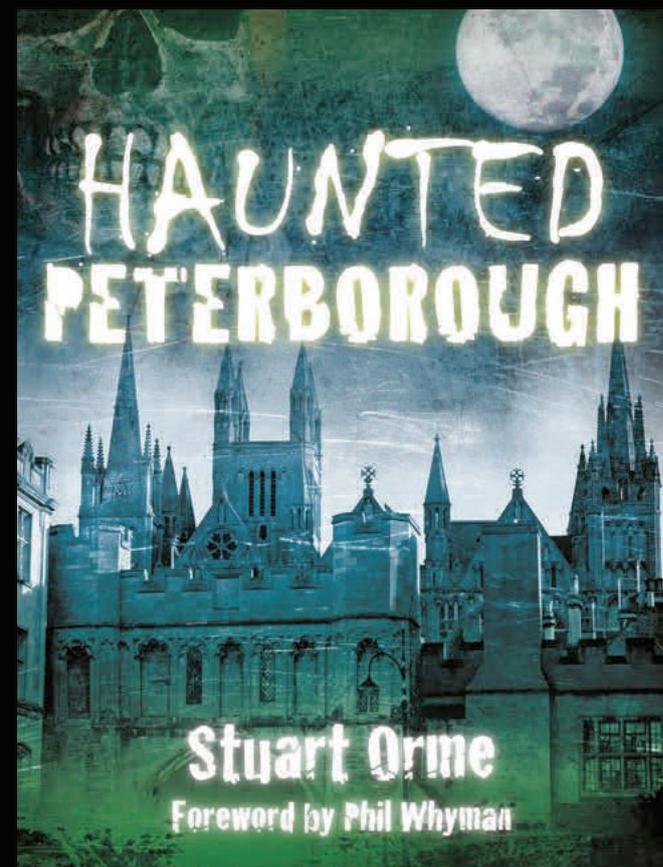

On July evenings, the Milky Way stretches from the northern horizon in Cassiopeia, through the cross-shaped constellation Cygnus overhead, and down to Sagittarius in the south. Also, notice that the Milky Way splits into two parts in Cygnus because a giant rift caused by interstellar dust blocks starlight from beyond. Both Sagittarius the Archer and its neighbor Scorpius the Scorpion lie in the thickest part of the Milky Way, packed with riches for binoculars or small telescopes. These riches include dozens of star clusters, nebulae, and double stars.

Far to the lower left from bright Antares, the heart of the Scorpion, you will find a close pairing of bright stars sometimes called "the Cat's Eyes" - Lambda and Upsilon Scorpii. Just to their upper left are the giant open star clusters M6 and M7, both easily visible with the naked eye on a clear, dark night. M6, the Butterfly Cluster, is stunning in small telescopes at low magnification, but M7 is so big and bright that binoculars are all you need to see it well.

In the southwest are the two brightest stars of spring. Arcturus, a red giant at least 110 times more luminous than the Sun, is sinking and Spica is about to vanish below the horizon. Lesser constellations of late spring and early summer also deserve our attention. One of them is fairly conspicuous because it is small and compact: Corona Borealis, the Northern Crown. Only one moderately bright star adorns its semicircular arc: the Alpha Star, named Gemma or Alphekka.

Many other wonders are available in the north. Cepheus, named after King Cepheus in Greek mythology, lies close to the north celestial pole. The constellation resembles a child's drawing of a house pointing down. Look first beneath the base of the house to find Mu Cephei, one of the most strongly coloured stars in the sky. Sir William Herschel called it the Garnet Star because of its deep red tint, which is notable in binoculars or small telescopes...

Review of "The Hidden Science of Lost Civilisations" by David Wilcock.

I was already familiar with David Wilcock from watching him on several online documentaries. He is involved in many fields such as Ufology, crop circles, meditation, astral projection and so forth. To be honest my expectations of the book were low; I anticipated many discussions of subjects such as how we all need to "move to a higher vibration" and become part of the "cosmic oneness" and other nice-but-vague-sounding notions. I was therefore surprised to find it quite an interesting read. The book begins with discussions on hypnotism, and relates the interesting tale of a man called Backster who came upon some strange phenomena when he connected a polygraph machine up to one of the office plants. He noticed that when he mentally threatened to burn the plant the polygraph machine went crazy, leaving him with the theory that the plant could read his mind. That would be such a cool concept, I just want it to be true.

He then moves on to the pineal gland (the so-called "third eye"), many types of psychic abilities; predictions and remote viewing. My interest did start to wane in the chapter on "Pyramid Power" which, despite the many sources quoted, sounds dubious to say the least. Claims that animals and plants placed inside pyramids are healed and grow better and healthier; that energy fields are somehow concentrated and given out by pyramids. Then some trips into genetics and the possibility that DNA can store photons of light; also that biological entities may communicate energy to each other. The subtitle of the book is "The Source Field Investigations", and this is the thread that weaves throughout the book. A theory I'm not sure I understand correctly. It seems to be a vague notion that everything is connected by this source field and that matter can be created out of it by psychic power. Some of this relates well to quantum physics; some of it does not.

The author then moves on into the well-trodden Mayan Prophecies regarding 2012. This is when he suggests there may be the start of a golden age of peace and enlightenment. To his credit, at least he's not on the 2012 end of the world doom-mongers' bandwagon. The book is very well referenced; this can be shown by the forty-odd pages of referencing notes at the end of the book. The fact remains though, just because something is well referenced doesn't automatically make it correct. And to check out all of the references would take a good long time. But at least they are there, so if you are so inclined, you may frolic about the internet in search of them, and see how trustworthy they appear.

I like Wilcock; he attempts to bring science into the realm of the paranormal, which is always a good thing. He's also a very positive person and not prone to rage against the machine. I can tell he's spent a long time researching this work and that is to his credit. Whilst Wilcock's critics may label his work pseudo-science, he at least seems to have a good grounding in a broad range of scientific concepts; however I fear that the burden of proof of his theories is still upon him. The fact that almost no research into these subject matters receives significant funding leaves a large hole in our knowledge which will inevitably be filled with less than rigorous scientific research. So before you condemn this book, you should condemn the university research funding systems. So, in conclusion, a very interesting book, with many interesting theories. Most of which, however, for me, remain unproven. I will, however, endeavour to plough on past chapter nine in the hope that there may be a few more gems amongst the rocks. I'm now off to see if I can telepathically scare my cheeseplant.

BIRMINGHAM UFO GROUP CANNOCK CHASE SKY WATCH 2012

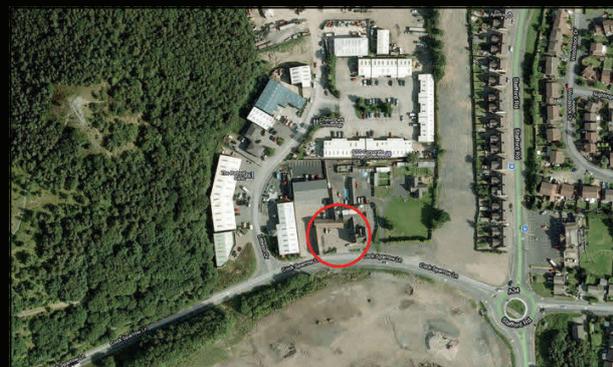

In September of last year BUFOG organized its first official sky watch at Cannock Chase in Staffordshire. Despite not actually seeing any unusual aerial objects (other than a helicopter with all its lights switched off), the night was thoroughly enjoyed by all those who attended. Shortly after we arrived the rain stopped and we enjoyed hours under a clear moonlit sky. Cannock Chase is renowned for its UFO activity and is believed by some to be one of the UKs UFO hotspots. We figured that as we didn't see any UFOs last time, maybe a return to the area might yield better results! So on Saturday 28th July 2012 we intend to once again head out for a sky watch on the Chase.

Whether you are an official BUFOG member or not you are more than welcome to join us on our quest! As we did last year, we initially plan to meet at the bar of The Barns Hotel between 7.30-8.00pm. At around 8.30pm when the sun starts to set we will head on out to the same location as before, an area of Cannock Chase with good sky visibility in most directions. There is no set end time, you are free to stay as long as you wish. We will remain there until either everyone decides to head for home, or we get abducted by aliens (Note: Abduction not 100% guaranteed)

Date: Saturday 28th July 2012 / Meet Up Time: 7.30-8.00pm / Meet Up Location: The Barns, Cock Sparrow Lane, Cannock WS12 4PB (about 34 mins drive from Birmingham)

Sky Watch Location: Just off Broadhurst Green Road, Teddesley Hay, WS12 4

Sky Watch Check List: Warm clothing / Waterproofs (Hopefully not to be used)...

PULSE MAGNETIC THERAPY DEVICES

While the Concept of pulsed magnetic therapy devices is not new, what David Sereda has discovered is a remarkable new breakthrough in pulsed healing and pulsed consciousness expanding technologies! He has developed an amazing new approach to transmission. This is no ordinary transmitter. It is stocked with amazing geometrical coil windings and uses Rubies, Garnet and Tourmaline gems in its oscillator. Instead of pulsing known healing frequencies or whole ranges of frequencies through a transmitter device, he has developed the LightStreamTechnologies.com wand that pulses harmonic sets. These sets include 23 Golden Phi, The NASA Sound of the Sun, Infinities and the Harmonic Codes of the Great Pyramid! When he began transmitting these harmonic sets through the Light Stream Wand, astounding things began to happen!

Firstly, when you transmit any single known healing frequency through a transmitting device, you can hold a ball magnet near the transmitter and feel the vibrations depending on how good your EMF field is. If you set the ball magnets on dishes, you can see them vibrate a little depending on how big your field is. David has witnessed many frequencies cause this vibration to happen. After spending a year decoding the electromagnetic frequencies of the Great Pyramid's hidden asymmetric dimensions, David produced 180 secret differential audio signals based on these numbers and began transmitting them through the Light Stream wand. When he watched the ball magnets on the dishes starting to move in large orbits, he was astounded. See the video on youtube:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=w70M1haS6u4>

When you consider that pulsed magnetic frequencies vibrate biological cells just like magnets, frequencies are limited to stimulating vibration in a cell in a stationary way, whereas the differential numbers of the Great Pyramid frequencies can cause signals in the body to move from place to place. He is now starting up a documentary film about the discovery!

Since the year 2007, David has been studying the asymmetric geometries in nature, from subatomic particle orbits, flowers and crystals, to see if there are prevalent harmonic ratios other than the known Golden Phi ratio 1 to 1.618. It was Leonardo Fibonacci (c. 1170 – c. 1250) who studied sacred geometry in the Middle East and learned of the now legendary Golden Numbers. It has been previously thought that the Golden Numbers ruled nature. David Sereda has discovered that there are more harmonic codes in nature than there are symphonies recorded on Earth. Mozart would be astounded to learn these harmonies!

Heracleitus (6th Century BC - Greek Philosopher), was deeply mystified by the meaning of the harmonic vibrations of the universe as the true definition of LOGOS. In John 1, the true meaning of the Greek manuscript describes Jesus as the incarnation of the LOGOS. This would mean that God is truly a perfect harmonic vibration, rather than being limited to the sphere of human consciousness. Is it possible to expand human consciousness by pulsing the human body and aura with these sacred harmonic codes? That was the initial goal. David wanted to see if there was a way to expand meditation states with harmonic pulsed transmissions that are safe to human biology. The LightStreamTechnologies.com wand does not produce any harmful EMF in the Microwave spectrum where cells phones and laptops operate. These pulses are much lower than that. Today, the world of natural healing devices are obsessed with the perfect frequencies that can or may positively heal conditions in the body. Harmonics work on a unique arrangement of frequencies and the geometrical way they vibrate together to open up dimensions of vibration that are not present with any single frequency. David Sereda calls the space between frequencies "Differentials," the true harmonics of the creation.

The ET Communication Conference 2012. The Static Gallery, Liverpool.

An excellent conference put together by Anthony Beckett that featured the following lecturers...

Miles Johnston who talked about A.M.M.A.C.H. David Griffin who asks the question, 'Are visiting ETs rebooting terrestrial language systems'? Also, Dennis Denocla talked of a presence - UFOs, crop circles and exo-civilizations. Mike Oram discusses his new book, 'Does it rain in other dimensions'? Dan Sherman talked about alien contact and government cover-ups; and finally a speaker panel and question session.

The event took place at the Static Gallery in Liverpool, where you were greeted with numerous stalls upon entering. Stalls included books, DVDs and information. Also visiting the event was Richard D. Hall and Larry Warren. An excellent all day event for just £35.00. Beverages and munchies were available at low cost throughout the day. Watch out for the DVDs of the event for sale. Visit the Exopolitics website or get in touch with Anthony Beckett via Facebook if you have any queries...

The event was hosted by Neal Atkinson of Planet X Radio - City Talk 105.9fm who has a weekly paranormal talk show every Sunday evening from 8.00pm to 10.00pm. Check the show out by visiting: www.planetxlive.co.uk

PRESS RELEASE

New Paranormal EMF Meters available in the UK

The Mel Vibe (£129.99) has all the features of the original Mel Meter but is also highly sensitive to measure vibrations. The Mel REM ATDD (£189.99) features a hot and cold spot alarm, red flashlight, EMF radiating antenna and glow in the dark buttons. What makes the Mel REM ATDD Model so uniquely different from other EMF meters is that it can detect AC/DC EMF fluctuations and ambient temperature changes using the special Radiating EM Field (REM) and Ambient Temperature Deviation Detection (ATDD).

TomsGadgets is proud to announce the addition of two new models of the Mel Meter to their EMF product range. The Mel 8704R Vibe and the Mel 8704R REM ATDD are made in the USA and are designed exclusively for paranormal use. The original Mel Pro Navigator Meter 8704R (£89.99) is the only meter that can measure both EMF and temperature simultaneously. The Mel Meter 8704R was first developed by Gary Galka of DAS Distribution Inc as a way of communicating with his daughter Melissa, following her death. The Mel was even named after her; the year of her birth (87) and the year of her death (04) hence the name Mel 8704.

"TomsGadgets is the paranormal one stop shop for paranormal and ghost hunting equipment and we are the only stockists of the MEL meters in the UK." Tom Cook, Managing Director of TomsGadgets.com

Mel 8704R Pro Navigator, Mel 8740R Vibe and Mel 8704R REM ATDD are available from www.TomsGadgets.com.

The British Investigators Training Course in Anomalous Phenomena

The BITC has become one of the leading educational courses of its kind throughout the UK and overseas, covering subjects such as Forensic Parapsychology, Anomalistic Psychology & The Scientific Study of Anomalous Phenomena. The BITC is currently only available as a correspondent course. Students obtaining the BITC will receive the course if full along with a free CD-Rom containing thousands of photographs, newscippings and documents. The BITC consists of 20 modules and question sheets. Students will be required to complete all question sheets and return them to MAPIT Head Office for marking. On receipt MAPIT will dispatch a one hundred question examination sheet. On passing the BITC, students will receive a BITC Certificate & Confidential Registration Document. The BITC has no time limits. Students have as long as they wish to complete and return to MAPIT Head Office. It is not compulsory for students to sit the BITC Examination paper, however it is necessary if students wish to become active researchers or investigators.

The BITC is constructed under the guidelines set by SEP—The Scientific Establishment of Parapsychology and is compiled by investigators, academics and scientists from around the world. Students can contact MAPIT if they are having any difficulties whilst sitting the BITC. Useful information can also be found on the MAPIT Web Site:

<http://www.mapit.kk5.org>

Students that pass the BITC can obtain assistance with investigation, research, analysis or be put in contact with an organisation in their area. Many organisations across the UK recognise the BITC qualification and are well aware of its standards. Our qualification may allow students to join an organisation and immediately become activists without the need to sit other courses. BITC Examination papers require 75% of questions to be correct. Anything less will result in failure. The BITC can be sat by students of any age and need no previous knowledge. Further courses are available such as the AITC Advanced Course. The AITC is only available to BITC registered students. MAPIT & SEP can also assist in regards further studies and UK available courses in Forensic Parapsychology, Anomalistic Psychology and many others. Organisations that have their investigators BITC Registered can become associated with SEP. Associated groups, organisations & establishments can obtain assistance from SEP & MAPIT in regards investigation, research, administration etc and must adhere to the SEP & MAPIT Protocols. SEP & MAPIT will also distribute investigations to associated groups, organisations and establishments if in the locality of the investigation. SEP & MAPIT also offer their full range of services such as analysis, training sessions, events etc.

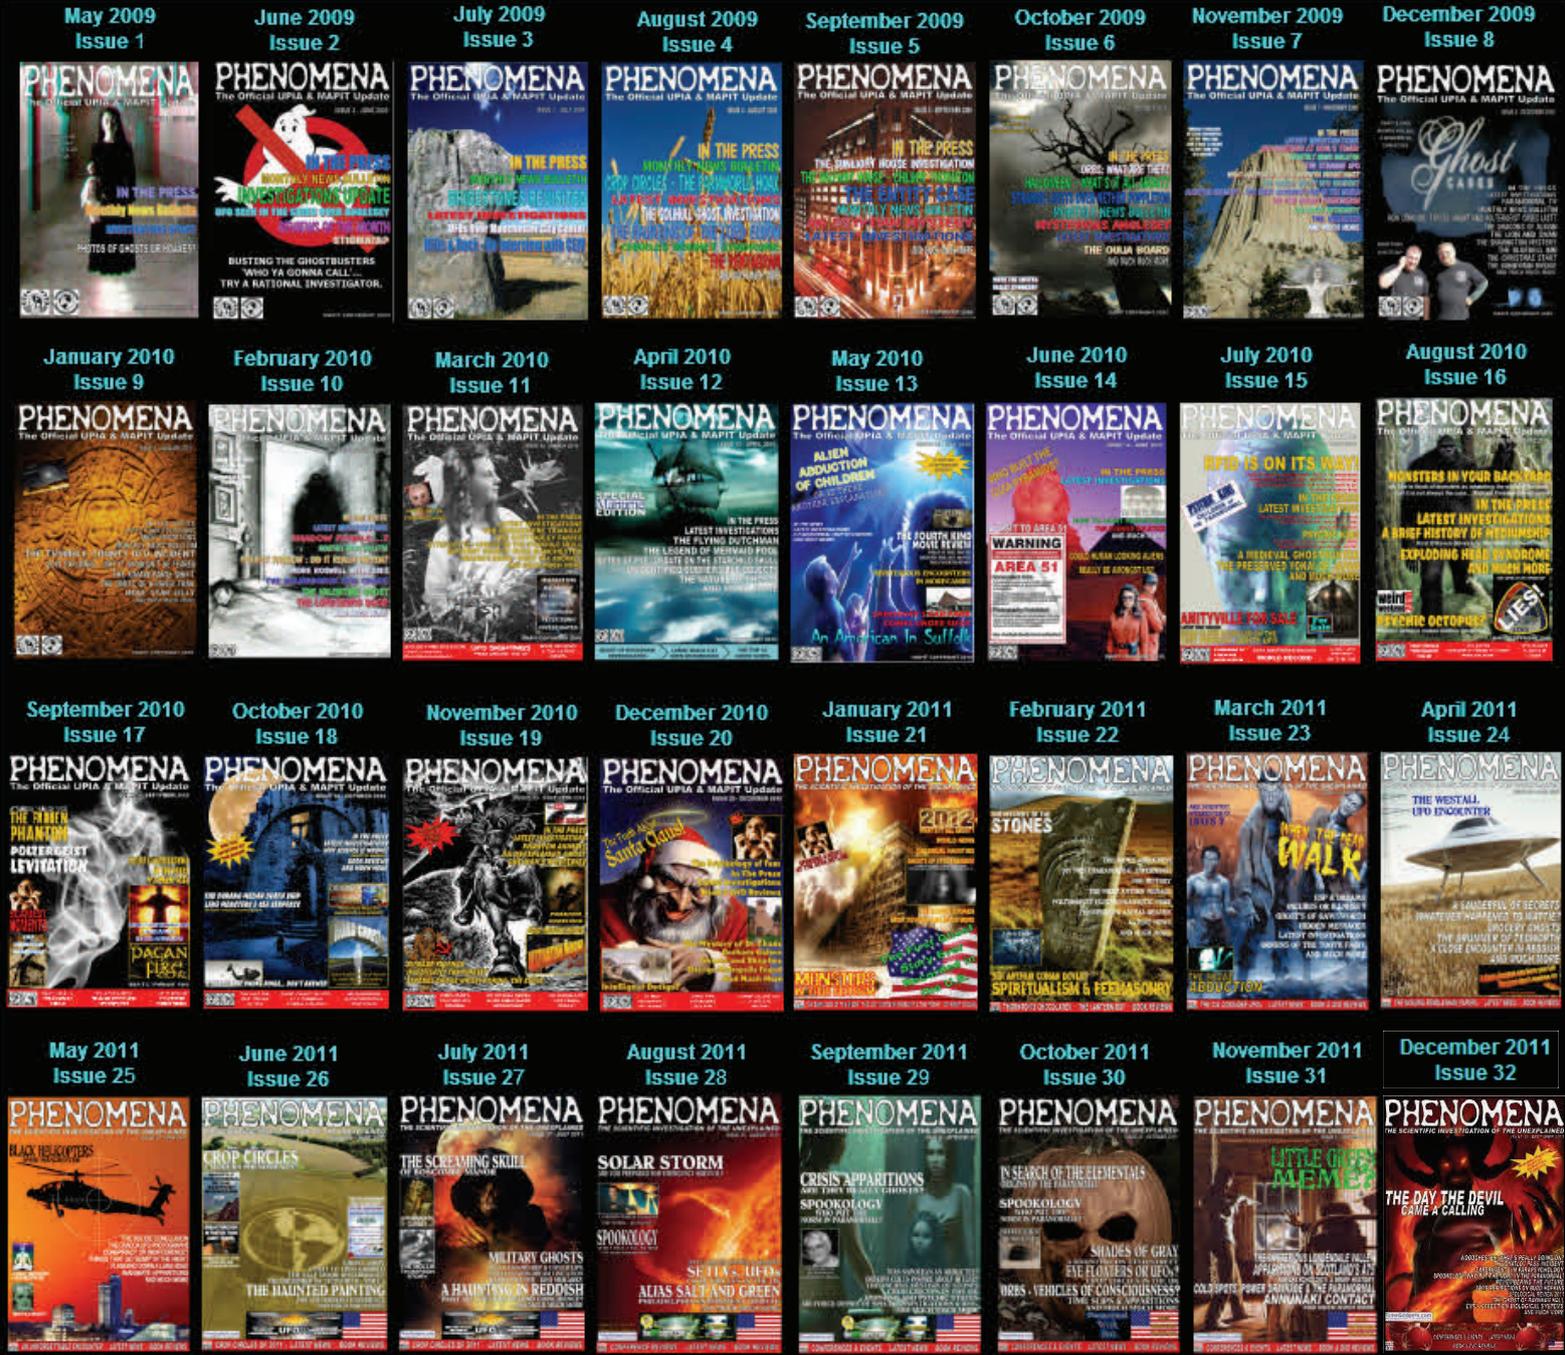

The BITC costs just £50.00 in total consisting of Registration £10.00 & Coursework £40.00
Total U.S. Overseas cost $120.00 Total European cost 60.00 Euro.

If interested in sitting the BITC or AITC course, simply send your total course fee to MAPIT Head Office, making sure to include your full postal address and details of which course you would like to obtain.
